SO SORRY CLARENCE

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The five men accused in the Sky Shops scandal appeared in provincial court here Thursday for a bail hearing surrounded by a phalanx of sympathetic policemen.

One officer was even heard to apologize to NHL president Clarence Campbell for any inconvenience.

The five were freed on $100,000 bail each, pending preliminary hearing June 21.

Both before and after the brief appearance, the five were protected from reporters and cameramen by a squad of police, even being led to and from the courtroom by backstairs and tunnels.

The five, Senator Louis Giguere, Campbell, Louis Lapointe of Montreal, Gordon G. Brown of Freeport, Bahamas, and James Lavery of Toronto, surrendered to the RCMP 2½ hours before their 2 p.m. court appearance.

Giguere made a profit of $95,000 on the sale of shares in Sky Shops Export Ltd. in 1972.

He was offered 5,000 shares at $1 each shortly after the federal transport department reversed an earlier position and decided to extend Sky Shops' lease on the duty-free shop at Montreal's Dorval airport until 1980.

At the time Campbell was president of Sky Shops, Lapointe was board chairman, Brown was vice-president and Lavery was treasurer.

When Sky Shops was sold late in 1972 to P. Lawson Travel the shares were worth $20 each, netting Giguere his profit.

Nanaimo Pickets Removed

NANAIMO — Pickets came down from all district schools today, allowing students and teachers to resume classes on a limited basis.

But the Nanaimo school board is continuing with its application to the B.C. Supreme Court for an injunction to stop picketing of schools, a board spokesman said.

Board secretary-treasurer Jim Thorpe said that even though the pickets have been removed, the injunction hearing in Supreme Court chambers in Vancouver would go ahead today.

"We have to go through the motions. The pickets might come back again and we want to be one step ahead," he said.

The pickets were set up Wednesday by striking employees of the school board, members of Local 606 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, and teachers refused to cross the picket lines, shutting down the schools Wednesday and Thursday.

CUPE agreed to take down the pickets after a meeting with the Nanaimo District Teachers Association Thursday afternoon.

"It was never our intention to leave the pickets up for any length of time," said CUPE spokesman Joy Leach. "We wanted to demonstrate that we have a problem here, but education does come first."

Thorpe said the schools are open only on a limited basis for students to hand in and pick up assignments from teachers. But he said some teachers today are attempting to conduct classes on a full-time basis.

Joe Kilner, school board chairman and chairman of the Mid-Island Public Employers' Association, bargaining agent for all public employers in the Nanaimo-Ladysmith area, said supervisors "will try to maintain some degree of cleanliness in the schools."

GASOLINE TAKEOVER?

Times News Services

VANCOUVER — Consideration is being given by cabinet to taking retail sale of gasoline in the province out of the hands of the major oil companies, Transport Minister Jack Davis indicated Thursday.

Legislation restricting multi-national oil company operations within the province is covered in one of the recommendations in an Energy Commission report recently handed cabinet, he said.

"The full report and its recommendations will be released in the near future," Davis said.

First hint of possible action came in a speech by Consumer Affairs Minister Rafe Mair Wednesday. Mair is one of three members of cabinet who have been giving special study to the report.

In the speech — in which Mair also said the government is contemplating new price clamps on food, clothing and other staples — the consumer affairs minister stated the government will act to ensure relief for service station operators who have been complaining of poor contract dealings with the oil companies.

"We are going to see that the service station operator gets a better break," he said, without giving further details.

Pressed Thursday on the issue, Davis said: "Retailers are having a rough time of it at the moment and we may have to act to protect them."

VANCOUVER (CP) — Unions in the British Columbia oil refining industry are planning to go on strike "at any time" to get a settlement similar to the controversial above-the-guidelines pact negotiated in the trucking business.

A walkout involving some 750 drivers, warehousemen and production workers would quickly bring about lineups by motorists to get gasoline.

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union served strike notice at Chevron March 5 and at Shell March 29.

The teamsters served notice at Imperial Marketing March 30.

Negotiations were going on today at Texaco but the outlook was not bright.

Negotiations were virtually suspended at Gulf Oil which the unions plan to leave operating to avoid a total, crisis-causing shutdown. Gulf has refineries at Port Moody and Kamloops.

Vern Waller, financial secretary of the OCAW Local 9-601, said the industry's last offer was not acceptable and a strike could take place "at any time."

Waller said the strike would begin among oil truck drivers of the companies marketing divisions and they would extend their picketing to the production refineries on the Lower Mainland.

"Wherever the trucks go, we'll go," said Waller.

"Our intention is to restrict the flow of gas to the pumps and bring the strike to a quick conclusion."

The OCAW is involved in negotiations at Shell, Texaco and Gulf while the Teamsters have the marketing certification at Chevron as well as Imperial.

About 4,500 teamsters members in the cartage industry got a settlement estimated at 35 per cent over two years.

Oil, Coal Imports Necessary

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will continue to rely on some imports of oil and coal for at least the next 10 to 15 years and perhaps longer, the federal government says in a new strategy paper.

The document, to be unveiled in the Commons on Tuesday, says the earlier goal of self-sufficiency in energy may be too expensive.

It opts, instead, for a policy of self-reliance, under which the country will reduce its dependence on foreign suppliers as much as possible, but will still retain some imports.

The 170-page statement, more than a year in the making, will replace a hefty policy report brought out in June, 1973, but outdated within months by world oil shortages and soaring prices.

In the wake of shortages caused by an Arab oil embargo, the government vowed in a further policy statement in late 1973 to reach self-sufficiency in oil by the end of the decade.

Later, with reports showing a rapid decline on domestic oil reserves, the government backed away from that statement, saying, instead, it hoped to reach self-sufficiency by the mid-1980s when frontier oil and gas are expected to be available.

The document says self-sufficiency is not realistic.

The government report says imports of oil will not only continue, but over the short term likely will increase.

Government To Lease Marguerite

The provincial government has decided to lease the Princess Marguerite for the coming season and is inviting offers from private enterprise.

Transport Minister Jack Davis said two private groups have indicated an interest in the vessel and said they are prepared to operate on the Victoria-Seattle run as well as on other cruises.

The government has apparently decided to lease the ship because it would solve two problems — settlement of wage negotiations with the unions involved and securing suitable terminal facilities in Seattle.

"A private company could work out arrangements both with the unions and the Port Authority better than the government could," said Davis.

A decision will have to be made on the lease proposals by the end of the month as the Seattle service is to start in mid-May.

Davis said the latest offers involve a one-year lease arrangement with automatic five-year extension upon satisfactory performance.

Other lease bids are to be submitted to R. C. McHaffie, general manager of B.C. Steamships Ltd. at 254 Belleville St.

The government announced two weeks ago that it had held discussions with people interested in buying the vessel and Davis said it would be sold if suitable arrangements could be made to ensure continuation of ferry service to Seattle in the summer months.

Union spokesmen expressed bewilderment at Davis' statement that the lease arrangement would help solve wage negotiation problems.

"We applied for a conciliation officer from the federal government two weeks ago so a third party is going to settle it," said Ron Welch, senior spokesman for the Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, representing about 60 Marguerite workers.

The leasing agreement is not going to make any difference to negotiations, he said, since all talks have been going on with McHaffie.

"We weren't dealing directly with the government anyway," said Welch.

SMELLY MONEY ANNOYS PENSIONERS

Post office workers, who distribute the pensions, also say they are fed up with getting their hands dirty counting out greasy, smelly notes.

The Leeds branch of the National Federation of Sub-Postmasters is urging the Bank of England to issue cleaner money.

Ambush Kills 4 Whites

PRETORIA (AP — Four white South Africans have been killed in an ambush on the border of South-West Africa and Angola, a defence force spokesman said today.

Reports that another seven were injured in the ambush Thursday were not immediately confirmed.

The spokesman said the four who died in a hail of machinegun fire were ambushed in a troop carrier close to the South-West African border.

It was not clear whether those killed were troops or civilians.

All South African troops were withdrawn from Angola last month but are still engaged in a hit-and-run war with guerrillas of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), fighting to free South-West Africa from South African control.

Since Nov. 11 last year, 29 members of South Africa's armed forces have been reported killed in the border area. The troops are attempting to prevent infiltration by SWAPO guerrillas along the 1,000 mile border with Angola.

Many of the troops are conscripts serving three-month tours of duty before returning to civilian life.

South-West Africa is governed by South Africa under a mandate disputed by the United Nations. A conference, excluding SWAPO, is currently attempting to devise a constitution as a prelude to independence.

Toll Was 22,836

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — February's earthquake in Guatemala claimed 22,836 lives, shows a United Nations report released Thursday. The quake also left 77,000 persons injured, about 250,000 houses destroyed and "well over" one million people homeless. Monetary damage has been estimated at $748 million.

150 Beirut Bodies

BEIRUT (Reuter) — More than 150 bodies were found in Beirut and its suburbs Thursday, indicating that a cease-fire called three weeks ago is a mockery. The figure matches daily tolls during some of the fiercest fighting in the civil war.

Exxon Profits Up

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Exxon Corporation, the world's largest petroleum company, today reported first quarter earnings of $730 million on revenues of $13.08 billion, or $3.26 a share, compared with earnings for the same period in 1975 of $596 million, or $2.67 a share, on revenues of $11.91 billion.

Arms for Pakistan

WASHINGTON (WP) — The United States is preparing to sell ammunition, anti-tank missiles and jeeps and other military vehicles at about $100 million to Pakistan. The sale of arms would be the first of any great significance since the United States lifted its 10-year embargo on sales to India and Pakistan a year ago.

CUBS FIND HOME: The three bear cubs found in the Sooke area by logger Bill Ferguson are shown at their new home in Vancouver with Linda Le Sage, 15. Linda's family is looking after the cubs until the Stanley Park Children's Zoo opens May 3. At that time, the cubs will go there.

One Day Quebec Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Teachers and hospital workers across Quebec province walked off the job today, closing most of the province's schools, junior colleges and cutting back service at many Quebec hospitals.

The 24-hour work stoppage leaves about 1.5 million students without classes and effects about 70 hospitals.

The walkout is the latest in a series of continuing one-day strikes by the 175,000-member common front of public service employees, intended to protest the provincial government's intransigence in contract talks.

Union leaders called the mass walkout Thursday following the failure of efforts this week to reopen negotiations which broke off April 7.

Members of the Provincial Association of Catholic Teachers who had earlier announced their intention to walk out today were joined Thursday afternoon by the 60,000-member Quebec Teachers Federation (QTF) and the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers (PAPT), which represents 6,700 teachers.

Today's walkout is the second major one by teachers since the enactment April 12 of a provincial law setting heavy penalties for any work disruption in the education sector during an 80-day period.

Hospital Workers Offered 8% Hike

The Blair report recommending terms of settlement for the major union in the B.C. hospital industry calls for an eight per cent wage increase over one year for the 16,000 members of the Hospital Employees Union, union sources confirmed today.

The recommendation is right on the basic minimum increase allowed by the federal wage guidelines, but other fringe benefits included in the package are believed to bring the settlement to about 12 per cent.

The recommendations of Bert Blair, appointed as industrial inquiry commission in the hospital industry dispute, call for improvements in fringe areas such as overtime, shift changes, on-call pay, car mileage, sick leave and special leave, sources said.

In addition new provisions call for a dental plan and would allow workers to cash in sick leave for severance allowance at 40 per cent of the accumulated sum.

The best vacation provision would increase to five weeks after 10 years service from four, and the existing cost-of-living adjustment clause would continue at one per cent for every one per cent increase in the Consumer Price Index, but an existing two per cent "trigger" would be removed.

The HEU is recommending acceptance of the Blair report at membership meetings throughout the province.

The Health Labor Relations Association, negotiating for 37 hospitals, is studying the report prior to announcing its decision by the end of the month.

Neither side has commented directly on the recommendations since receiving the report a week and a half ago.

Vander Zalm's Attitude 'Disgusts' Researcher

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

A University of Victoria sociologist said today he is disgusted with the way Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm is ignoring $63,000 worth of research undertaken for his department.

And in one of a series of unanswered letters to Vander Zalm professor Dan Koenig notes the minister's claim on television that people are opposed to community resource boards is refuted by results of one of the sociologist's surveys.

"In a taped interview last night on the CBC news," Koenig's letter to Vander Zalm in February says, "I noted that you stated that public opinion is opposed to community resource boards.

"However, the province-wide survey last year found that more than two-thirds of British Columbians supported such community boards. Moreover, less than seven per cent thought that there was too much local citizen control of social services, while over 60 per cent thought that there was too little local citizen control of social services."

The sociology research for the human resources department was under contract for the former NDP government. In January, Koenig wrote Vander Zalm congratulating him on his ministerial appointment and enclosing material to bring him up to date on the work. He also asked for an appointment with him to gather his views on a final survey.

That letter and another in February were ignored, so in March Koenig wrote once more, pointing out he had to begin planning the survey to meet a year-end deadline and more delay would mean a need for more funding.

That brought a reply April 5 from deputy minister Jim Sadler saying the department had paid a total of $63,020 and there would be no more money.

Koenig today described the government's response to his work as "really rather disgusting."

In a letter to Vander Zalm Wednesday, he said: "I am indeed disappointed that you have not even shown me the common decency to answer my letters . . .

"I am also shocked that you have shown no interest in learning the views of British Columbians, particularly when I have previously pointed out to you, as tactfully as possible, that your perception of public opinion is at variance with the results of public opinion polls that have been conducted for your department . . .

"I would have thought that you would have expressed at

WOMEN'S LIB 'BUGGED'

BRUSSELS (AP) — Women's liberation is largely to blame for the reported proliferation of lice, fleas and cockroaches in Belgian homes, a health ministry official said today.

There have been frequent reports from school supervisors that many of their pupils are infested with fleas, and swimming-pool managers are complaining that cockroaches are back in force.

"I hardly dare say so, but the fault can largely be attributed to women's liberation," Dr. Georges Claus, director of social services for the ministry, told the newspaper Het Laatste Nieuws.

"Man and wife now more often go to work together in the morning and are often too tired to start cleaning up the house when they get back in the evening. They watch TV and then go to bed. In many cases, cleaning up is limited to dusting on Saturday morning if the car does not come first."

Claus gave other reasons for the spread of the unwanted insects: Because of long hair, widespread central heating, the popularity of wall-to-wall carpeting and, above all, the fact that families now live much closer to one another than they used to, so the insects don't have to go far to prey on new victims.

"It wouldn't be any problem if it were possible to take action everywhere at the same time, but this is just not possible for obvious reasons," Claus said.

Pickets Removed

It is board policy, Kilner said, that schools will remain open but that all lunchroom and washroom facilities are closed.

"So if you have a youngster who can only last two hours, you'd better expect him home in two hours," he said.

Kilner would not speculate how much longer the schools can stay open without their janitorial help.

The 660 Nanaimo district teachers, who were not paid by the school board for the two days they refused to cross pciket lines, Thursday sent a telegram to Education Minister Pat McGeer.

The telegram said the teachers view the situation as "hostile, disorganized and disruptive" and that they again find themselves in the middle of a strike-lockout situation "not of our own making."

In Duncan, 90 school bus drivers, custodians and tradesmen represented by the International Woodworkers of America are continuing their strike for the third day.

Picket lines have been set up around the schools which are open on a limited basis.

least some interest in reviewing the results of surveys for which considerable time and money have been expended on behalf of your department."

Koenig also wrote that "regardless of your apparent indifference," he was enclosing the interim report of his second survey for the human resources department.

That survey, conducted in January and prepared from completed questionnaires mailed back by 1,047 respondents, summarizes their views on social services for children.

It shows most people rank reduction of juvenile delinquency and extension of diagnostic services for children with learning disabilities as being the most important in a list of such services.

Thirty-four per cent of the sample thought existing social services for handicapped children were either very good, good or fair, with 18 per cent rating them bad or very bad.

Three out of four respondents said they thought parents of handicapped children should be responsible for at least part of the cost of special services for their children.

The survey also showed B.C. residents generally appear to feel government should provide subsidies to the needy for day care operations. The main emphasis of day care should be child development rather than just babysitting.

LISBON (Reuter) — The Portuguese government ordered tighter security at diplomatic missions today after a bomb wrecked the Cuban embassy Thursday, killing two Cubans.

Jury in Rape Trial Resumes Deliberations

The jury in the B.C. Supreme Court trial of William Robert Robinson, 54, accused of rape, resumed its deliberations today after spending the night sequestered in a hotel.

Just over seven hours of deliberation Thursday failed to produce a verdict but the foreman told Mr. Justice John Gould he didn't think the jury was beyond the capability of reaching a verdict.

At 12:40 a.m. Gould adjourned the deliberation until today.

Earlier, Robinson testified that on Feb. 18 he did not rape a 54-year-old woman who told court that he did, at one point tying her hands to the bedpost with her pantyhose.

Robinson denied tying her hands and denied putting a pillow on her face to keep her quite.

He said he had been drinking that day and the woman came and sat beside him at the Trafalgar Legion and he bought her a drink. He said she agreed to go to his hotel room on Yates Street if he got a case of beer.

At the hotel room, he said, he asked her to give him a back rub, which she did, and "all this time we were getting on very good together, then we started to make love."

After, she said she wanted some time to eat but he said he wanted to sleep and "she became very angry with me, calling me names and hollering."

Robinson said he "cuffed" her a couple of times and finally ordered her out of his room, saying if she wanted something to eat she could get it herself.

Asked why he told police he didn't take any woman to his room, he said, "I was terrified, really scared," because they told him they were investigating a rape.

"I knew the woman was upset but I didn't think she'd holler 'rape.' If I'd thought that, I don't think I'd have stuck around too long."

The Crown's case was presented by Nick Lang, assisted by Rick Bennett. Robinson was represented by George Jones, assisted by Nick Lott.

STABBER GETS SIX MONTHS

A 20-year-old Maple Ridge man was sentenced in county court today to six months in jail for assault causing bodily harm on a Victoria man.

Glenn Scott Kelly originally was charged with the more serious offence of wounding with intent against Frank Ross Ogilvie in a stabbing incident in the parking lot of Wilson Motor Inn June 19.

But he was found guilty by a jury of the lesser charge March 25.

Judge E. J. C. Stewart said death was avoided only by good fortune and if competent medical help had not been readily available, a court might be considering manslaughter.

"It does not seem to me you have appreciated the enormity of the act in drawing the knife. It was no accident. The wound was a deliberate thrust," said Judge Stewart.

Marguerite Lease

ers' International Union said the government has "copped out on everyone" and he hopes for better relations when a private firm takes over leasing of the ship.

"I'll be happy if someone else is operating the ship — not that I'm against McHaffie, he's been good, but Davis isn't capable of operating the thing," said Poole.

A wage contract had been negotiated between the three unions involved — including the Canadian Merchant Service Guild — but the provincial cabinet rejected the settlement.

Both Poole and Welch said the unions' two concerns are that their members' jobs are protected and that the service be kept in operation "because the unions recognize it is essential to the economy."

Meanwhile, Greater Victoria Visitors Information Centre president Al Frame has appealed to Premier Bennett not to allow the Marguerite to be taken over by private enterprise.

"There is no guarantee that the service to and from Seattle could be maintained under private ownership," said Frame in a letter to the premier Thursday.

"Government ownership on the other hand," said Frame, "can accept a loss on the operations of the vessel if the economic benefits to the Island and the province are considered."

The vessel is scheduled to go into a regular two-day maintenance operation in drydock next Tuesday.

PRIME 55 ACCOUNT

Often copied. But never equalled.

When Westcoast Savings Credit Union created Prime 55, we became the industry leader in providing a comprehensive banking package for people 55 and over. Just check and compare what other financial institutions offer. None can compete with Prime 55.

8¼% INTEREST ON YOUR FREE CHEQUING/SAVINGS ACCOUNT

Conventional chequing accounts earn no interest. While conventional savings accounts allow limited or no cheque writing privileges. Prime 55 pays 8¼% interest, plus you can write all the cheques you wish at no charge. And there are no other service charges. Meanwhile, your interest is paid and compounded monthly.

BONUS INTEREST ON GUARANTEED INVESTMENT CERTIFICATES

Your longer term deposits receive a special bonus when held to maturity. Rates are available on certificates from one year to ten years. Here is an example of the Prime 55 Bonus paid. If you take a regular 5-year deposit, you receive the standard rate of 10% plus an extra ¼% bonus. So you receive a full 10¼% when you hold your investment to maturity. The ¼% bonus applies to all Prime 55 Guaranteed Investment Certificates and Term Deposits. All deposits are withdrawable at anytime, and all deposits are fully guaranteed without limit by the Provincial Credit Union Share and Deposit Guarantee Fund.

ANOTHER INNOVATION...

All new 1 year Guaranteed Investment Certificates are withdrawable anytime. With no interest penalty!
For example, if you start a new 1 year Guaranteed Investment Certificate, you receive the standard rate of 9½%. However, you may cash in your certificate at anytime and still receive 9½%. Therefore, if you cancelled your certificate after 30 days, you would receive 30 days interest at the full 9½% interest rate. If you hold your certificate to maturity, you then receive the Prime 55 Bonus of ¼%, so you earn a full 9¾%. Either way you can't lose.

COMMUNITY AND NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATIONS NOW QUALIFY FOR THE BENEFITS OF PRIME 55

NOW YOU KNOW WHY PRIME 55 IS BETTER THAN MONEY IN THE BANK.

106 Days of Hell, Says Fisher

VANCOUVER (CP) — Victor Fisher, a 57-year-old Delta businessman held in a Mexican jail for three months because of a misunderstanding over a $500 cheque, was released from custody Thursday.

His wife Betty said she spoke with her husband by telephone and quoted him as saying: "I've spent 106 days in jail and it's been pure hell."

"I'm going to need at least two weeks rest and then I'll be driving home."

Mrs. Fisher also said the matter now is closed and her husband won't have to return to court in connection with the cheque problem.

In an earlier telephone interview from Mexico, Fisher said that a Texas businessman got him jailed in the first place.

Fisher said that the man also tried to have him pay $2,700 to secure a release from jail.

"I didn't owe him any more and I simply refused to pay him any money," said Fisher, arrested in January after a $500 cheque went to the wrong bank in Ladner for clearance.

Fisher, who has interests in a Mexican hotel, said he had borrowed about $4,000 from the Texan and the interest agreed to was 16.5 per cent over 18 months.

"He told me when he came to the jail to see me that he could see to it that I got a seven-years to 10-years prison sentence if I didn't pay him the money he wanted."

Fisher said he refused to be intimidated but ran into the intricacies of the Mexican legal system when he sought his freedom with evidence that the $500 cheque mixup had been cleared up by the Canadian banks and confirmed by the Mexican consul in Vancouver.

Fisher, who was cheerful despite his long stay in jail, said that more than anything else he would remember the prison food:

"It was tortillas and beans for breakfast, lunch and supper, seven days a week. I don't think I want to see another Mexican bean as long as I live."

FIELDS' BID FOR ZELLERS

VANCOUVER (CP) Fields Stores Ltd. has made an offer of $32.6 million for controlling interest in Zeller's Ltd., Fields president Joseph Segal told the company's annual meeting Thursday.

Conclusion of the purchase will be subject to approval of a United States bankruptcy judge overseeing the W. T. Grant Co. bankruptcy, Segal said. Grant held 50.1 per cent of Zeller's stock and approval of the agreement will restore control of Zeller's stock to Canadian ownership.

Chemainus Dam Study Killed

North Cowichan council has been informed that a provincial government environmental impact study on the proposed Chemainus River dam site will not be completed.

Ben Marr, deputy minister of the environmental department, in a letter to council said the study would not be continued "in view of the results of the recent water study report and because of other staff and financial commitments."

The water study completed in January showed there were alternative ground water sources available in the municipality to meet future needs.

This contradicted submissions previously made by the municipality to the water rights branch and the cabinet.

North Cowichan Mayor Gerry Smith said the Chemainus River dam proposal is not dead.

"We can't take water out of the ground forever — eventually we will have to consider the project once again," he said.

Laurel Point Hotel Change 'Suspicious'

A Victoria alderman said Thursday he is "most suspicious" of an application by Canadian Freehold Properties Ltd. to reduce the size of its proposed hotel at Laurel Point.

"There is the possibility that these people (the developers) may have had this in mind all along," Ald. Ron McKenzie told city council, concerning the request by Canadian Freehold to amend its land-use contract so that a smaller hotel can be constructed.

He said he would view "with a jaundiced eye" any future development proposals the company might make.

McKenzie pointed out that after building a luxury condominium on the waterfront site, the firm is now trying to "change horses in midstream" by substantially reducing the hotel second phase of the complex.

The city had been promised public areas and conference space totalling 37,000 square feet, and that had been cut back by more than half to 14,000 square feet.

But Mayor Mike Young commented that McKenzie's suspicions were unjustified. The mayor said he did not subscribe to the view that there was anything underhanded in the firm's approach.

"I think they are one of those cumbersome international conglomerates where the board room doesn't know what they are doing down below," he said.

Besides, Young added, he much prefers the scaled-down height of the revised plans for the hotel. The height is reduced from eight to four storeys, and the number of hotel rooms from 199 to 127.

Council endorsed a recommendation by the Advisory Planning Commission that a public hearing be held on the firm's application to amend its land-use contract.

In other business, council also cleared the way for a public hearing on a proposed commercial-residential complex on property bounded by Pandora, Belmont, Fort and Stadacona.

Ald. Murray Glazier was one of three aldermen voting to reject the application before a hearing is even held.

Native Council Balks At Gun Laws

OTTAWA (CP) — Indian, Eskimo and Metis organizations have begun campaigns to have their people excluded from the proposed federal gun control laws.

The Native Council of Canada, representing about 750,000 non-status Indians and Metis, has told the government it will not ask its people to abide by the gun laws unless changes are made.

Native people have an aboriginal right to make a living from hunting, fishing and trapping, and the gun is the tool of their trade, says the native council.

Gun controls basically would require all gun owners to buy a federal licence. Licences would be sold only to applicants who could produce two guarantors, from an approved class of persons, who would swear the applicant was fit to own a gun.

Many native people living in areas would have to travel long distances to obtain a licence, says the council.

And native families, many of whom live below the poverty level, would have to pay for a licence for each hunter.

Other parts of the proposed law says that guns and ammunition must be properly locked away and that persons under 18 years of age must obtain special permits to possess a firearm.

The council has asked the government how native people living in shacks will be able to provide locked storage for their firearms.

It also says that native children are taught at an early age — "as part of their total training to protect the environment" — how to handle firearms.

MLAs Invited To Budget Meet

Final discussions of the Greater Victoria school board's $46.8 million budget will begin Tuesday when provincial MLAs will be invited to a board meeting to learn of the district's "raw deal."

Secretary-treasurer Ernie Shaw explained at an information meeting Thursday the new mill rate will be 52.75, about 11 mills more than last year meaning an increase of 27.5 per cent in school taxes.

The province will pick up only $1 million of a projected $4.9 million increase, said Shaw, calling it a raw deal.

Board chairman Bill Ross noted that although $7.5 million had been paid out by the province in special grants — none of it has gone to the Greater Victoria district.

He said assessed values are roughly one-eighth of real market values, estimating a homeowner with an assessed property value of $6,500 would face an increase of $21.56 in school taxes.

A $10,000 assessment would mean a $113 rise in school taxes.

The real impact of education costs will fall on owners of expensive homes, industry and small businesses.

Ross said the previous NDP government absorbed 44.31 per cent of education costs last year, while the current Social Credit government will kick in only 36.69 per cent.

Local MLAs invited to the meeting are Scott Wallace (PC—Oak Bay), Sam Bawlf (SC—Victoria) Charles Barber (NDP—Victoria) and Lyle Kahl (SC—Esquimalt).

Regressive Voting Practice

One thing about Victoria city council, it can always be found slugging it out for the business interests of this community. If it would show the same concern with people projects such as malls, sidewalk hawkers and street musicians we would have more patience with these doughty burghers. The latest back-pedalling is only at half speed, though. The city should be thankful for small blessings.

Council's new idea concerns bringing back the corporate vote. Under the old system, abolished by the former NDP government, a designated representative of a company was allowed to vote in the municipality in which the firm was operating. In a few cases this meant some individuals had the opportunity of voting four or five times. Usually though, it meant a person had two votes in one or two municipalities, negating the idea of one man, one vote. Safe in the hands of Social Credit, our timorous council will submit a resolution at next months' meeting of Vancouver Island municipalities urging government to reinstate the corporate vote, but only on a one person, one vote basis. That still doesn't prevent a company with five votes designating five different corporate officers and telling them how to vote for the firm.

Yet businessmen have a fair argument in that if they pay taxes in one municipality they should have a right to cast a vote on how their taxes are spent. It is also true that their investment in a community is probably far greater than most householders. But should investment be a condition of franchise? If the businessman lives in the community where he works he automatically has a voice. To give him an extra vote in another municipality simply because he works and employs people at a certain address negates the idea of representation by population. It is wrong in a truly democratic electoral process. Business already has much stronger clout than the average voter. In Victoria alone we have a strong chamber of commerce, a downtown businessmen's association and various shopping centre associations, all of which in one way or another lobby for business interests. Then we come to city council, almost entirely peopled by businessmen. How much clout does business need to get its point across?

One point neatly avoided in such arguments is whether a corporation is a person. Since only people are supposed to vote how can a corporation vote?

In the past there would appear to be a sliding scale in defining when a corporation takes on human form. The polling booth had the effect of magically transforming a company into a voter under the old law. But when a company or business interest is found to have salmonella organisms in the kitchen — as was the case with a Victoria hotel a few years back — the health inspector would not reveal the name of the establishment let alone publicly admonish its officers. Health Minister Marc Lalonde also refused to name names when a number of Yukon restaurants in Whitehorse were charged with serving substandard food. Suddenly, these businesses are unpersons.

Such minor flecks in the democratic ethos indicate where the system is weighted. When Victoria's city fathers take their pet peeve to the next municipal meeting it will probably be endorsed by likeminded shellbacks.

The public's only hope is that Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis will have the good sense to ignore this regressive step propped up by Victoria City council's confused thinkers.

New Olympic Sport

Athletes who come to Canada this summer to compete in the Olympic games will all be required to take part in a sport newly-developed just for the 1976 event — crowding a dozen into the two-bedroom suites of the Olympic village in Montreal.

Side events will include the 19-storey walk-up (there will be only one elevator for every 1,000 athletes in the village), see how many days you can go without a shower (hot water will be in short supply) and how to feed your friends nourishing meals of crackers and ketchup (guest menu prices start at $1 for a glass of mineral water).

Unlike much of everything else associated with the Montreal games, however, it seems it was planned this way. Montreal didn't want to be stuck like Munich in 1972 with a white elephant. The Germans overbuilt their village, and had half of the 5,000 suites built for the athletes' quarters unsold after the games ended. So Montreal has built only 1,000 suites.

Organizers miscalculated slightly, though. They planned originally for 9,000 athletes but some 12,000 will actually be coming. Oh well, once you've got nine in a suite three more won't make much difference. Actual sleeping arrangements will have two in the kitchen, four in one bedroom, four in the living room and two in the second bedroom.

To put the best face on things, the Olympic village officials recently sent a letter to all national sports federations concerned which said Montreal wanted "to create an interesting, happy and joyful Olympic village where comfort, which is less important, will give way to a living humanism and continuous animation."

In other words, the joint will be jumping. There should be a gold medal for endurance for all the athletes who manage to stay the 17 days of the games without developing a.) insomnia, b.) incurable body odor, or c.) a bad case of nervous indigestion. Lively and animated, indeed!

DAVID MACDONALD

Retornados Flood Portugal

LISBON — Every day they come in their hundreds to Lisbon's great square, the Rossio, to stand together in groups and talk of their plight, their past, their future.

Neatly dressed, stabbing the air with their forefingers, nodding courteously at passersby, they are Portuguese and yet not Portuguese, a group of angry, disillusioned, frustrated refugees from a world that no longer exists.

From one end of Portugal to the other they are known as the retornados, the returned ones.

They are the white settlers, half-breeds and blacks who fled to Portugal when its new military rulers decreed that almost-overnight dissolution of the vast Portuguese empire.

They are also a major headache for the reigning sixth provisional government and a lively political issue in Portugal's first free election for a parliament since the 1920s.

Even given Portugal's chronic economic problems since the revolution of two years ago, these people stand out as being disadvantaged. Even given Portugal's chronic economic problems since the revolution of two years ago, these people stand out as being disadvantaged. They are broke, unemployed, poorly-housed and resented by sections of the Portuguese population.

Some to Canada

The government today estimates that about 650,000 refugees from former colonies fled to Portugal and that the government assistance scheme is helping about 400,000 of these refugees with housing, food, clothes and other items.

Listing where these refugees come from is a drumroll of the rapid decolonization program. The empire that took nine centuries to build has been demolished in less than two years.

When the massive crush of Angolan refugees who make up 90 per cent of the overall refugee total, was arriving in Portugal last October and November, they were accommodated in the smart hotels of Lisbon and Oporto.

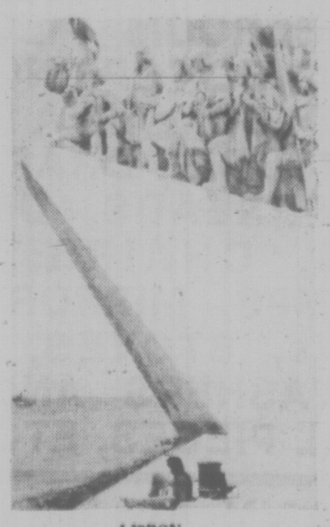
The fashionable Infante de Sagres hotel in Oporto and the exclusive Ritz in Lisbon bulged at the seams with squalling babies and emotional, exhausted families.

Others were sent to a tent city set up just south of Lisbon at the resort village of Caparica, where foreign millionaires used to practise their putting on exquisitely-barbered golf courses.

Some went to stay with distant relations in small villages, the general economic deprivation quickly leading to squabbles and demands that they get out.

The goverment paid meagre unemployment benefits from its dwindling public purse. It also paid, with rather tortuous logic, full salary to many refugees who were civil servants in the colonies but could not find work in Portugal.

It was said that there was an obligation to these civil servants but this obligation is hard to grasp when one considers that they are being paid, on average, 7,000 escudos a month when the national minimum salary is only 4,000 escudos a month.



LISBON
. . . monument to Portugal's explorers

Feeling the pinch, the general run of refugees sought an exit by emigration. Canada's immigration section, the most important part of the embassy in Portugal, had a flood of 5,000 emigration applications.

In good times, Canada takes about 12,000 Portuguese immigrants a year. There are now about 180,000 Portuguese in Canada. But inflation and unemployment in Canada mean that immigration procedures must be tailored to avoid overloading the market with unwanted skills, so the recent annual average intake has been only 6,0000.

Of the 5,000 retornados processed so far, Canada is taking about 400. Most retornados speak neither English nor French and have minimal skills by Canadian standards.

Others will go to Brazil, France and Germany, all more popular than Canada for Portuguese emigrants.

Those who remain complain bitterly about how little is being done for them by the government. An announcement just made by Housing Minister Eduardo Pereira that 6,000 new homes will be built for retornados has already been damned as inadequate by the open-air parliament of the Rossio.

Rightwing Votes

Politicians seeking the estimated 150,000 available votes among the refugees have found the asking price high.

One demand is that the future civilian government pay in cash the amounts the refugees say they lost when their possessions and bank balances were taken by liberation movements as they fled the overseas territories. This could involve millions of dollars that Portugal cannot afford.

The refugees also want guaranteed housing and jobs, two items that could be guaranteed only by a liar in today's Portugal.

It is reminiscent of the era when the retornados arrived on ships in Lisbon harbor with their cars and demanded unsuccessfully, the right to instantly ply for hire as taxis in a city they did not know when there already was a long queue for Lisbon taxi permits.

The conventional wisdom in the socialist party is that the retornado vote can be written off as lost because party leader Mario Soares was foreign minister when the decolonization program was set in motion.

Most retornado votes seem destined for either the right-wing Social Democratic Centre party, known as CDS, or the ultra-rightwing Christian Democratic party, known as PDC.

No matter who gets the support of the retornados in this election, they will remain for the foreseeable future a source of discontent and a continuing political, economic and social problem for Portugal.

Goodbye Suckers

When my family and I moved here from Edmonton in the fall we had no inkling of the surprises that were in store for us.

Surprise! There's no apartments for rent unless you're a millionaire, elderly, and don't drink or smoke. So we had to live in a motel for $200 a month. Surprise! Meat costs on the average 20 per cent more. In fact, everything except fresh produce is significantly more expensive. After about one month of these and other pleasantries I have concluded that about the only good thing B.C. had was an NDP government. Without the NDP it could have been worse.

Well, then the electorate in their wisdom decided to get rid of that too. During the election I was truly amazed at the paranoia and tunnel vision of the electorate. Who cares if Bill Bennett doesn't answer questions or appear in public debates? So what if Frank Calder was a member of the NDP caucus for 22 years. I had to pinch myself to see whether it wasn't all just a bad dream.

After the election I had to continue pinching myself. Thank God our car is insured in Alberta or else we'd be paying over 100 per cent more (I checked.) And that Clarkson, Gordon report (or Bill Bennett's Fun with Figures). I've met many people who still insist it's an audit! The provincial budget, accepted widely in B.C. purely on the basis that it is balanced, is the only one of its kind in Canada and not because the Socreds are ahead of their time. Possibly if Premier Bennett had remained in school longer he would have advanced beyond prehistoric economics.

I went down to the legislature to see if there was any rhyme or reason in Socred policy. I guess if you measured a government's worth in vindictiveness, B.C. couldn't do much better. I really had to laugh when the government cried the blues at Alberta's purchase of PWA. If Barrett had bought it he'd probably be swinging from a limb! Well now they've got it and due to a Conservative government to boot! I'll tell you nobody's crying in Alberta.

All is not lost, however, we're going back to Alberta in a week. British Columbia? Never again! We probably couldn't afford the new ferry rates to get back anyway. In two weeks we should have a nice apartment somewhere near the centre of Edmonton for $160 a month including utilities and I'll have a job on an oil rig for about $600 week. So long, suckers. — Tom Engel, 1325 Miles Street.

Saanich Salaries

If the Mayor of Saanich and his council make a habit of bestowing upon themselves salary increases every four months, in addition to the public relations officer council recently hired to improve its image, it will have to hire an accountant for the exclusive purpose of managing alderman's salary and travel expenses.

I don't think any PR man can make amends or heal the wounds inflicted by council in the summer of 1975, when it capitulated to various bargaining agencies to the detriment of all the municipalities on lower Vancouver Island.

Dipping into the public trough every four months is not normally expected of individuals who claim to have a desire to serve the community. Perhaps the needs of the community may be served after the aldermen first help themselves.

When I spoke to an alderman about the last increase (retroactive to January, 1975), he was most emphatic that he deserved every penny and more. I note that in accordance with the report in the press he is again most adamant that he does deserve another salary increase and he refuses to even reconsider the subject.

There is no doubt that he is attempting to develop the job into full-time employment, at least as far as the salary is concerned.

While only three out of 10 eligible voters in Saanich exercise their franchise, there will be no change in the attitude and policy of the Saanich council. Some aldermens' period in office is long overdue. Two or three individuals are strongly supported by a small but forceful group in the community. While they are in office, the management of municipal affairs will continue to deteriorate and Saanich will continue to be one of the most highly-taxed municipalities in the province and the most poorly administered.—Ted Robbins, 4482 Tyndall Avenue.

Historical Blanks

Last week the only intact archaeological site known to remain in Victoria's Inner Harbor was discovered, then summarily destroyed. This precious record of human activity which spanned thousands of years prior to the advent of Europeans in this area was lost forever under the blade of a backhoe.

The minister of recreation and tourism, Grace McCarthy, had the power to take action to save the site, or at least have a proper investigation carried out prior to its destruction but unfortunately for us and ensuing generations she did nothing.

An archaeological site is a vast repository of cultural and environmental information somewhat analogous to the provincial archives for the historic period. The site destroyed last week on Store Street next to the present location of Capital Iron undoubtedly contained information about the duration of human occupation in the Inner Harbor, the changes in technology through time as evidenced by the kinds and styles of tools in the various cultural layers, and the resources utilized at the site as evidenced by the plant and animal remains accompanying the tools.

Province-wide, British Columbia has suffered a terrible loss of non-renewable heritage resources with literally thousands of archaeological sites drowned under hydro-electric projects, and destroyed by road and rail construction and other forms of land altering activity.

The loss suffered last week on Store Street was particularly tragic because that site represents the only complete site we had left and so now the Inner Harbor joins the Libby Dam pondage, the Bennett Dam pondage, the Mica pondage, Tweedsmuir Park, etc., etc., as blanks in human history forever. A moment of silence for Victoria's pre-history. — Gordon Hanson, former assistant provincial archaeologist, 910 McClure Street.

Predominant Grace

I have not voted for Social Credit but since it got into power — vox populi, vose dei — I think the proper thing to do is to try to co-operate with it. There must be good people in every party. The government has been plentifully criticized, so I would like to find something in it to praise. The first thing is its intention to reduce salaries. Luckily, they don't have to go lower than Mincome. I am on Mincome and find it sufficient. Gandhi, the greatest of politicians of our times, I am sure, did not allow himself as much as our Mincome. Bill Vander Zalm's famous remark about shovels is not so much out of place. A shovel is a good tool, much better than a jackknife or a gun. But a man with a shovel needs a piece of ground to dig. So, dear Mr. Vander Zalm, give with the shovel a piece of land. We have a very large country and the logging barons should not have it all. We should depopulate the cities, the breeding grounds of idleness, vandalism and crime.

I would like to finish my letter with a quotation from Shakespeare. The friar in Romeo and Juliet goes out in the early morning to collect herbs. He meditates about the different herbs — sweet and poisonous — and their powerful grace, and their true qualities. He ends with:

"Two such opposed kings encamp them still
In man as well as herbs — grace and rude will.
And where the worser is predominant.

I wish the chief and all the members of our government that grace be predominent. — Henry B. F. Schmidt, 765 Arden Road.

Pen Friend

I have been desiring for a long time to get contact with some people in your country to correspond in order to create a good friendship. But I did not know how to do it.

I am interested in your country very much. And I want a pen friend in your country.

The exchange of postal cards, pictures and stamps are certainly welcomed and moreover the talks in the letters would be most excellent to learn things about your country. To have a better understanding with each other is the way to the world peace. Don't you think so?

Let me introduce myself. I am 23 years old, my hobbies are records, movies, art of flower, collecting (stamps, postcard and dolls).

I am interested in philosophy and religion. I make birds, flowers, animals and other objects by folding sheets of paper. — Miss Yukiko Ono, Nishitani, Honyabakei-m, Shimoge-g, Oita, 871 - 03, Japan.

Don't Knock the Family. Society Needs It

By KENNETH BAGNELL
Imperial Oil Review

Late one night this winter I turned the dial of my radio until I heard the sounds of conversation. A man was in a studio somewhere with a few experts and they were accepting telephone calls from listeners. The subject was the future of the family and, to judge from the tone of the evening's discussion, it's rather unpromising. To many callers, the family's demise is not around some future corner, but is already here. The ruination of the family has arrived and, to a few of those who phoned, it was not merely inevitable but possibly good.

One woman who called—she might have been in her 30s—said she'd drawn up a list of things wrong with the family, but it would take the whole program to read the list. However, she did take a few seconds to reveal her main thesis that the family was antisocial. She held that society was on the way to a new equality in which special relationships such as the family would be selfish and retrograde.

The defenders of the family were few and, in my view, unfortunate. They seemed in favor of the family that never was, the kind shown on Christmas cards, with mother in apron, daughter in pinafore, father beside the hearth. "There's nothing wrong with the family," one man said, "that can't be fixed if the women go back to being women." With supporters like that, the family doesn't need detractors.

The family does have problems today, but if we're to face them intelligently and deal with them positively, we need something better than the superficial invective of its antagonists or the nostalgia of some of its friends. Attitudes toward family life are altering greatly, reflecting changes in feelings about marriage, work, and sexual morality. And since the family is at the centre of life, the influence of change elsewhere affects it quickly and decisively.

Job mobility, housing shortages, and an inflated economy all put stress on the family, but none so much as the women's movement. The new independence of women is not in itself incompatible with the family, but it does create new strains. At the very least, it calls for a new examination of what the family is all about.

Some of the hostility currently aimed at the family is neurotic and therefore unreliable. A significant portion of it comes from the media, especially television. Young people find it easy to gain access to TV for the expression of their views, especially young people with an unhappy family background. Unfortunately many of them are prone to draw a negative picture of the family. Their work has the power to be seen as truth. But it is not necessarily true. Often it is not even reliable journalism.

Conversely, those who argue for a return to the family of the imagined past do little good. For one thing, it is impossible to return, but beyond that their vision would almost always place wives and mothers in the demeaning status of subservience to the male. And when one member of the family is demeaned, the entire family is lessened.

Perhaps out of the welter of argument surrounding the family today, we'll acquire a new sense of its place and purpose. A family counselor in Toronto, Donald Gillies of the Institute of Human Relations, says: "At times in the past, we've expected the family to provide too much—to look after every emotional need of every member. It can't take all the strain. It cannot do everything. "Yet he goes on to say that a breakdown of the family carries great peril, for if people do not find their needs answered within families, there is little hope they'll be fulfilled outside the family.

During our grandparents' age, the necessary absorption in hard work left little time or inclination for the idea of fulfilling the personal needs of each member of the family. In the sixties, we may have moved to an opposite extreme in that search expecting, as Donald Gillies suggests, that the family could be all things to all members. Kathryn West, a professor of psychology at the University of Southern California, advocates a return to a family in which each person has specific responsibilities. "If a family can become realistic and task-oriented," she says, "it will stick together better than those based just on romantic notions."

Author Herbert Otto (The Family in Search of a Future; Appleton, Century, Croft, 1970) feels that today's family cuts itself off from the world. Encounters with others are superficial—small talk at parties, for example—and usually exclude children. The family he sees in the future will relate more to people outside the family, with learning and growth the aim.

The fact is that society needs a form of family life to protect itself against the most frightening possibility of the future: the dehumanization of mankind. As novelist Anne Roiphe writes: "We may find that intellectual activity is not enough, that achievement in the industrial, technological world, while important, is not sufficient, and that we also, man and woman alike, need the roots into biology, the touch of one another that child rearing brings."

It is natural—and worrisome—to ask if the skepticism toward the family may not be the early signs of the dehumanization Roiphe fears. The skepticism may be merely the surface revelation of a deeper human problem: the tendency to withdraw from human exchanges that are more than casual and fleeting.

Relationships between members of a family are never perfect and at times difficult. But they do offer each of us an opportunity to mature as human beings, for we do not grow in isolation, but in closeness. For such reasons, it is not enough just to examine family life; occasionally we must say a good word for it. It needs it. By offering a unit that keeps us in touch with others, spiritually and legally, the family is a social group providing life's deeepest and most important experiences.

They're at Top of Heap Of Ottawa's Mandarins

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — In the late 1950s when official or bureaucratic Ottawa was tiny, compared to today, the annual public accounts used to list by name and salary all those who made over $6,000 a year plus their expense accounts. Then, in order to make the printing job and the bulk of the accounts manageable in size, this practice was ended. Undoubtedly, this took a lot of fun and interest out of the public accounts for the officials themselves. There was no longer a yearly check on what anyone else of substance was getting.

In the past few months, and particularly as a result of "returns" filed last week in answer to written questions by MPs it's possible to identify name and salary range of almost every "executive" in the departments and agencies of the federal government. The welter of materials was largely drawn by questions asked by Tories Joe Clark and Steve Paproski, and New Democrats David Orlikow and Lorne Nystrom.

I haven't had enough time with the material to spot many of the anomalies—for example, why some departments have so many more senior executives than others with comparable numbers of employees. However, some of the data on those of "DM" (deputy minister) ranking is interesting and easily presented.

There are three salary ranges for DMs. DM-1—$41,000 to $54,000; DM-2—$47,500 to $60,500; DM-3—$54,000 to $66,000.

There are four categories of "SXs"—i.e. senior executives. Most of those of assistant-deputy-minister rank are SXs, SX-1—$27,500 to $36,500; SX-2—$31,500 to $41,500; SX-3—$35,500 to $47,500; SX-4—$41,000 to $54,000.

The salary ranges at these levels were approved by the cabinet last July. That is, new increases were approved, and the order authorizing the increases to be paid for SXs was signed in early September. The order authorizing those for DMs and others of equivalent rank who are also known as "governor-in-council" appointments was signed on October 9 just a week before the clamps of the anti-inflation program went into effect.

CLARK

Please note that this data on DMs and SXs does not cover executives of such crown corporations as the CNR, Air Canada, and the CBC. It does include boards such as the National Energy Board, commissions such as the CTC and the CRTC, and councils such as the Economic Council of Canada.

Only nine men fit into the DM-3 category, i.e. making between $54,000 and $66,000. They are: Marshall Crowe, chairman of the NEB, Basil Robinson, Under Secretary of State for External Affairs; Tommy Shoyama, Deputy-Minister of Finance; Don Thorson, Deputy-Minister of Justice; Michael Pitfield, Clerk of the Privy Council (and mandarin No. 1); Albert Ritchie, special advisor of the PCO; Edgar Benson, President, CTC; Gordon Osbaldeston, Secretary of Treasury Board and Gordon Robertson, Secretary of the Cabinet for Federal-Provincial Relations (and ex-mandarin No. 1).

Traditionally, the most important departments or agencies in Ottawa have been finance, justice, external affairs and privy council office (i.e., the office which organizes the Cabinet). The simple point is that the tradition is being maintained and Treasury Board, a relatively new department, also has the highest status.

There are 38 DM-2s and 42 DM-1s. In total then, there were 89 DMs last October, earning between $41,000 and $66,000. Of course, one must remember that there were literally dozens of SX-3s and SX-4s who were (and are) making over $41,000 a year.

Only two women are in the DM category, Sylvia Ostry, Deputy-Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs is a DM-2, Miss H. Lebel, a vice-chairman of the Canada Labour relations Board, is a DM-1. (Mrs. Ostry's husband, Bernard, is a DM-1 as Secretary-General of the National Museums.)

I have not yet been able to get an exact total of all the DMs and SXs combined in the federal government but it is somewhere close to 1,300 persons.

What is the quality of this large group of federal executives?

The only such record I have found is in the fourth report of the advisory group on executive compensation in the public service, issued in April, 1975. It showed that the performance of SXs of all categories was "fully satisfactory" or "superior" or "outstanding" in the case of some 96 per cent. That is, only around four per cent of the 1,200 plus SXs were rated as merely "acceptable" or "marginal."

The DMs were not rated quite as highly. About 10 per cent of them were only "marginal" or "acceptable."

At least on the basis of records, we have a large number of very good and very well-paid executives in the federal government.

Stop Picking On the Poor —They Have Rights Too

TORONTO STAR
An Editorial

There are in Canada today people who have committed no crime — unless poverty can be called a crime — who regularly have their rights infringed or ignored.

They are people on welfare. The ways in which their freedom is restricted has just been documented by a two-year study by the education trust of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association.

Public policy in Canada is that a person who is needy can be supported by public funds. Too often, however, as the study points out, people who are indigent must suffer unwarranted indignities if they are to claim the support public policy says is theirs.

Welfare administrators and social workers can and do invade welfare recipients homes' without notice or permission, far less a search warrant, to check on people's living arrangements.

People applying for welfare must submit to searching scrutiny not only of their poverty but of their intimate personal lives. Often, they must endure long waits in dismal surroundings before obtaining the help public policy says is their entitlement; sometimes, they are denied help that's rightfully theirs.

Such infringements of human rights are defended on the basis that it's necessary to make sure that taxpayers' money goes only to those in need, that public funds are spent properly, and that people not entitled to help don't get it.

Is it really necessary to be so harsh? Are the indigent, applying for welfare, less likely to tell the truth about their incomes than the affluent, filling out their tax returns? If Canadians can be trusted, by and large, to be honest in filling out tax returns, can't they also be trusted to be honest when applying for welfare?

Since the law in Canada still makes husbands and fathers responsible for the support of their wives and children, it's logical that a man who deserts his family should be sued for their support. Welfare departments often force wives to sue their husbands; why should not this emotionally wrenching practice be abandoned? Let the public authorities pay welfare to the family and go after the deserting husband themselves.

Certainly, some rules are needed to prevent abuses of the welfare system and to catch those who cheat. But governments manage to catch tax evaders, for example, and people who cheat on homebuyers' grants and health insurance payments, without resorting to the kind of abrogation of personal freedom that's inflicted on welfare recipients.

Canada's law-makers and their adminstrators need to be reminded that poverty is not a crime and revise their welfare regulations accordingly.

Moon Over the Moors

russell baker

For lovers of the Gothic tale we reprint, as an idle springtime treat, the entire text of the very latest classic, "Browbeaten Towers."

A governess arrives at a sinister manse. An evil wind is blowing memories of old ghosts across the fog-shrouded moors. It feels like the Nineteenth Century, not only because there are sinister manses all over the countryside, but also because the governess' bosom is heaving and a fierce brooding laird with flared nostrils is striding the battlements.

The governess' timid knock is answered by a tightly corseted housekeeper. She hates the governess, and the governess sees at once that this is because the housekeeper is consumed with love for the brooding laird but fears to avow her passion least he strike her with his riding crop.

Suddenly an angry but manly voice runs through the great stone hall. "Mrs. Rivers! Send me my steed!"

The housekeeper throws open a great door, and a mighty black stallion with fiery red eyes dashes forth and with a toss of his great mane mounts the steps to the battlement.

"Does the laird not ride furiously across the fog-shrouded moors?" the governess asks.

"We do not answer questions by governesses in this manse," says the housekeeper. "If the laird prefers to ride on the battlement, he has his reasons."

The governess is sent to a tiny, unheated room, and no one speaks to her for three weeks. At night she can hear ravenous mastiffs barking from deep inside the manse and, of course, there is the insane cackling of some poor demented soul who is kept locked in a secret cage. Otherwise, it is an uneventful existence except for the heaving of her bosom.

One day on the fog-shrouded staircase she encounters a beautifully muscled gentleman in greatcoat and riding breeches, and though he immediately covers his face with a towel she knows it is the fierce brooding laird. He raises his riding crop to strike her, crying, "I will na' ha' wenches waylaying me on my own staircase." But some inner sweetness stays his brutal hand. He has heard the heaving of the governess' bosom.

"What a panic's in thy breastie," he murmurs gently, extending a strong but tender hand to stroke her chestnut curls. Emboldened, the governess urges him to remove the towel from his face that she might gaze upon his cold, dark, cruel but manly features and glowering black brows which, nevertheless, cannot conceal the tenderness and suffering evident in his coal-black eyes.

Her request sends the laird into a towering rage and he races to the stables and whips his steed. At midnight that night, however, she is awakened by a knock at her door. It is a summons from the laird. He wants her to come riding with him on the battlement.

For two hours they ride back and forth on the roof under a fog-shrouded sky filled with the baying of old hounds and talk of many things. In the dark the governess senses that the laird has powerful thighs and a heart broken by some dreadful event whose secret she can never know.

Suddenly the moon rises over the fog-shrouded moors, flooding the battlement with pale ghostly light, and just as suddenly the laird throws his saddle over his face and thrusts the governess down the stairwell, closing the battlement door between them.

"I could hear your bosom heaving two floors below!" It is Mrs. Rivers, the housekeeper. She has gone insane with jealousy and foggy shrouds. Beside her is an apparition of madness, a wizened and bent gray figure whose face is completely undistinguished except for a magnificent set of glowering black eyebrows. It is the laird's Uncle Angus, locked up these 20 years past for insanity and for having eyebrows that the laird couldn't bear to look at, cackles Mrs. Rivers.

In her jealousy, she has become an avenging crone determined to expose the laird's secret to the governess. With a timber, she and Uncle Angus batter through the door to the battlement.

There, in the ghostly light, the governess sees them attack the laird with the timber. He falls unconscious. The triumphant Mrs. Rivers leans over him and removes the saddle covering his face. "There!" she cries. "See your precious laird now for what he is!" The governess looks and recoils. The laird hasn't a single hair in his eyebrows.

"There's something wrong here," she tells Mrs. Rivers. "In the novel I'm appearing in, I am supposed to conquer a fierce brooding laird with glowering black brows. Is this 'Aylechester Towers?' "

"Good heavens," says Uncle Angus, "this governess has wandered into the wrong novel by mistake. This is 'Browbeaten Towers.' 'Aylechester Towers' is going on in the sinister manse down by the bend in the highway."

The governess apologizes for the mistake. "It could happen to any governess," cackles Uncle Angus. The laird, who has regained consciousness, is not amused, however, and he strikes her with his riding crop. Mrs. Rivers yawns and heads for bed. The next governess is due at breakfast time.

LOCKHEED OPTIMISTIC

OTTAWA (CP) — A Lockheed Aircraft Corp., official expressed optimism Thursday that the company can solve its financial difficulties before its offer to sell 18 Orion anti-submarine aircraft to Canada expires next week.

George Kalember, managing director of Lockheed of Canada Ltd., said negotiations with Canadian banks over borrowing upwards of $300 million over slightly more than three years are progressing.

"We hope to have things resolved in the next couple of days," he said.

Lockheed's difficulty in raising money to finance the first stages of the Orion project has held up signing a contract to provide the aircraft to the defence department. Total cost of the aircraft to the government will be $1 billion.

The company has talked with all major Canadian banks about borrowing. Kalember said he could not speculate how many will be in the consortium that lends the money.

It is expected the cabinet meeting scheduled for next Thursday will deal with the Lockheed financing plan, which will force some changes in the contract.

That will be just one day before the twice-extended Lockheed offer is due to expire at the end of the month.

AIB Agrees To Hear Wage Cut Protest

OTTAWA (CP) — The Anti-Inflation Board has agreed to reconsider a controversial decision to roll back wage increases for 1,500 miners at Elliot Lake, Ont., that has been protested by both companies and unions, sources said Thursday.

Officials of Denison Mines Ltd., Rio Algom Ltd. and two locals of the United Steelworkers of America met privately with board officials Tuesday to argue against the rollbacks.

The two companies had argued that expansion plans would be adversely affected because miners would leave Elliot Lake unless they are given wage parity with workers at Sudbury, 100 miles away.

Maintenance Law 'Failure'

OTTAWA (CP) — All marriage maintenance orders made in Canada should have full and immediate effect in every province and territory, says a study paper released Thursday by the federal Law Reform Commission.

"Failure is the universal characteristic of the traditional system for enforcing maintenance orders in Canada," said the paper, prepared by Toronto lawyer Edward F. Ryan.

It said interprovincial and federal-provincial co-operation on an unprecedented scale is essential to improvement of maintenance order enforcement.

Ryan recommends enforcement techniques be uniform or compatible in all parts of the country. This would allow a Family Court in one province to order a certain enforcement technique against a person in another province.

One problem now exists when husbands desert their families and move to another province. He becomes difficult to find and delays in getting him to pay are inevitable. Provincial laws also vary, Ryan adds.

The commission already has proposed a system of unified Family Courts throughout the country, and Ryan suggests all maintenance obligations be dealt with by the enforcement services of this proposed court system.

"Effective co-ordinated tracing services should be established in all Family Courts in Canada, with provisions for exchange of information among courts and for court-supervised access to public records dealing with location of individuals and their employment status."

Also recommended is legislation to provide for attachment of wages for an indefinite period, in place of periodic garanishee orders.

The traditional garnishee order is too complex and difficult to be of much use to the average person seeking to enforce a periodic maintenance payment, said Ryan.

Air Canada Optimistic It's Flying Into Black

HALIFAX (CP) — Continually rising costs — including a projected fuel bill of $186 million for 1976 — hopefully will not stop Air Canada from getting "back in the black" this year, the national airline's newly-appointed president and chief executive officer said Thursday.

"I believe Air Canada can get back into the black even in today's inflation - warped economy . . . without enforcing an austerity program," Claude Taylor said in his first major public speech since his appointment as head of the airline Feb. 16.

However, he indicated at a later news conference that a domestic fare increase could be expected this fall.

Without speculating on the percentage or precise date of the increase, Taylor said it would depend on the price for western crude oil to be set by Alberta and Ottawa in July.

Taylor, speaking to Halifax business, labor and political leaders, stressed Air Canada can "no longer afford to play servant to every demand placed upon us," and will have to tailor its schedules to relate more closely to market demand.

Overcoming the $20 million deficit the airline has posted in the last two years will also mean more efficient use of aircraft and disposing of inefficient aircraft such as the company's 12 DC-8s, he said.

Interior changes also are being considered so that more passengers can be accommodated. Planes will be used more frequently and "we will seek to rationalize our schedules to fly fewer planes with more passengers."

One reason the aviation industry is in its present financial state is that too many airlines have been permitted to compete on certain routes, he said, and Air Canada will strive to prevent excessive competition.

Taylor was optimistic the Air Canada Act, which he hoped would be passed by the federal government this year, would assist the company.

"The airline will have a new debt-equity ratio . . . probably 50-per-cent debt, 50-per-cent equity and more in line with capital structures within the industry."

At the present time, there is a 97-per-cent debt, three-per-cent equity situation "that means we pay a great deal of interest to the government, to the detriment of our income statement."

VACCINE STILL UP IN AIR

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada, still shopping for vaccine to run its planned mass inoculation program against swine flu, has not put its finger on exact costs and cannot guarantee the program will end in time.

Despite these uncertainties Dr. A. B. Morrison, head of the federal health protection branch, said Thursday he is confident the government is doing the right thing even though Canada is the only country other than the United States to decide on mass inoculation.

In an interview, Dr. Morrison said the variables include a quest for the cheapest method of running the program, results of tests with experimental vaccine in the U.S. which will not be known until mid-June, and the feared epidemic of swine flu next fall or winter remaining only a possibility.

The federal government announced the vaccination program a month ago and last week provincial governments agreed to distribute the vaccine through their public health services.

About 12 million people are to be inoculated, with priority for the chronically ill, people over 65, and those between the ages of 20 and 50.

Central Saanich Councillors Being Squeezed Over Rec. Site

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

The question of a recreation centre for the Saanich Peninsula appears to be squeezing Central Saanich council into a lonely corner.

The council dealt itself out of a stormy partnership with North Saanich and Sidney on the much-debated project this week only to learn later that some of its own ratepayers want council to deal itself back in.

No one argues there isn't a need for a recreation centre on the peninula. The bone in each council's throat is a familiar one: money. The only thing ratepayers can be sure of at the moment is that before anything is built, large or small, one or two, they'll get a chance to vote yea or nay to it.

Last year the talk was of a $3.8 million complex, to be built by the three partners on a 17-acre site in North Saanich and to include swimming pool, ice arena, activity rooms, tennis courts.

Today the talk is of a much smaller complex to be built there by North Saanich and Sidney and an even more spartan centre to be built separately in Central Saanich.

What happened? To twist a metaphor, the smaller they are, the harder they squall. The three little councils couldn't get together and they exchanged parochial insults in the process of parting company.

After withdrawing from the partnership this week, Central Saanich has set a committee composed of aldermen Frank Waring, Dave Hill and Donald MacLaurin on the chore of discovering what can be built and operated for three extra mills on the tax bill, meaning about $700,000.

That could mean a barebones ice arena similar to the one just completed at Sooke; a prefabricated structure which would go up on some site already owned by the municipality.

Mayor Jean Butler says some proposal could go to the voters this summer.

Counhil has a firm idea of what should be spent on recreation, she says, and that's really what produced the breakown in the patnersrhip. The others wanted to spend more and wouldn't consider less.

If the go-it-alone centre proposal turns out to be a bit basic, it will at least be "a start — and hopefully we'll be able to add to it."

Now on to the scene comes a group of Central Saanich residents which thinks council should be part of a larger and better recreation complex.

About 50 of them met earlier in the week, and another meeting is scheduled at the home of G. D. "Boots" Gurr, 1198 Dignan, tonight. Gurr has been elected president of the Saanich Residents for Recreational Centre Committee.

"I'm absolutely positive that the majority are in favor of a regional facility and disenchanted with the parochial attitude of council," he says.

His group will get their petitions on the road this weekend. If there is a goodly collection of signatures, would council pay any attention?

"Council would have to," says Mayor Butler. "But I think people haven't been informed sufficiently about why we've taken the stand we have.

"We'll be getting a letter out to everyone in Central Saanich early next week explaining our position."

Cows Underpriced

OKANAGAN FALLS (CP) — Ranchers in the southern Interior want more compensation for cattle slaughtered in an effort to eradicate a disease called blue tongue.

In a motion passed at the spring meeting of the Southern Interior Stockmen's Association Tuesday, the cattle men asked that the compensation now set at $475 for a cow-calf pair be increased to $700.

WAGES END PAGES?

WINNIPEG (CP) — The speaker of the Manitoba legislature, Peter Fox, said Wednesday he will end the tradition of using high school students as pages, if forced to pay the pages the province's minimum wage.

He said the four pages—all high school students—get $325 a session and if the current session ends by May 31, that will average about $1.89 an hour. If the session extends to June 30, the pay will drop to $1.52 an hour.

The Manitoba minimum wage is $2.35 for people 16 and 17 years of age and $2.60 for adults. Two of the four pages this session are 16 years old, one 17 and one 18. All are high school students.

They are paid overtime rates for hours worked beyond regularly scheduled sittings.

"It's not the pay," Fox said. "In many jurisdictions they work for nothing. Many people want the privilege of being involved in the process. There is an educational value involved which you cannot measure in dollars and cents."

None of the pages are complaining of the pay. Instead they say the exposure to the activities of government provides invaluable educational experience and affords the opportunity to become involved in the governing process.

West Should Secede

EDMONTON (CP) — The four western provinces should secede from Canada to form a commonwealth of western Canada, says a former Alberta MLA.

In a letter to the Journal Thursday, Dr. J. Donovon Ross, a Social Credit MLA from 1952-1971, says he and other western Canadians are growing tired of the treatment they receive from the federal government.

"Many of us who have been privileged, during the past 15-20 years, to serve as ministers of the Crown in the wetern provinces, will attest to the many frustrations and defeats we suffered in dealing with our counterparts in Ottawa, who suggested in actions, if not in words, that the ideas and desires of the western provinces were of little concern to them," the letter says.

Assiniboine Dikes Holding

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dikes were holding "reasonably well" downstream from Portage La Prairie on the Assiniboine River Thursday night but it was too early to tell how the flood-threatened communities between Portage and Winnipeg would fare as high river flows approached.

An Emergency Measures Organization spokesman said late Thursday that the situation upsteam from Portage was "considerably brighter" after a peak was reached but there was no definite opinion on what might happen to the downstream communities of Poplar Point, Baie St. Paul, St. Eustache and St. Francois Xavier.

Bail Tightens Monday

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Victoria Bureau

OTTAWA — Amendments covering rape trial procedures and the "laundering" of the proceeds of crime by organized crime groups, will be proclaimed law next Monday, Justice Minister Ron Basford has announced. Most of the Criminal Law Amendment Act—1975 will be proclaimed law on that date.

New amendments will toughen up bail procedures for those accused of narcotics trafficking, possession for the purpose of trafficking, murder, or conspiracy to commit these offences.

"Several of these measures involve the protection of the public against violent crime, they therefore are closely related to the objectives of the peace and security program," Basford said in a statement issued here.

Large scale crime syndicates organized on an international scale use legitimate companies as a front to hide their profits from police investigators.

When the police know exactly where to find these hidden profits, at present they can do nothing because the law prohibits only what was actually obtained through crime, not the proceeds into which it may have been converted.

The amending act changes the Criminal Code so that possession of the proceeds are also prohibited, thereby adding one more instrument with which to fight organized crime in Canada, said the minister.

In the case of rape trials, until now they have been different than other type of trials because judges must warn the jury of the danger of convicting the accused if the victim's story is not corroborated — for example a witness testifying that he or she actually witnessed the act. As an automatic requirement this is repealed. This means that the same standard of proof, that is proof beyond a reasonable doubt, is applied as in any other type of trial.

Rape trials were also different because the defence lawyer had the right to cross-examine the victim about her past conduct and general character. The result has often been that the victim seemed to be "on trial", not the person accused of rape. This right is eliminated from the Criminal Code, subject to certain exceptions, said Mr. Basford.

The judge also now must, upon application, prohibit publication of the identity of the rape victim.

Basford said it is hoped these measures will encourage more victims to report the event to the police and that the trials will not be so much of an ordeal for those involved.

On the question of bail reform Basford said there have been some "spectacular incidents" of persons committing "further violent crimes while free on bail. He said the amendments coming into effect April 26, it is hoped, will help prevent incidents such as occurred in Calgary early this year when a man out on bail shot and killed a police officer.

The Bail Reform act amendments to be proclaimed toughen the law by stipulating that in a number of instances accused persons, not the Crown, will have to demonstrate to the judge why he or she should be released.

Some of the provisions of the act will not be immediately proclaimed.

All of the drinking and driving provisions, including the roadside screening measures, will not be proclaimed at this time, pending arrangements being made with the provinces.

Liberal Lawyers On List —Basford

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lists of lawyers approved to act on the federal government's behalf have many liberals on them — but not because of patronage, says Justice Minister Ron Basford.

"Yes, there are a lot of Liberals on the lists but that's because there are a lot of good Liberal lawyers," Basford told a news conference.

The minister was responding to questions about what a Toronto newspaper referred to as Liberal Party patronage lists from which the federal governmet chooses lawyers to act for it in court.

The report said Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CHMHC) is required by the government to use Liberal Party notaries when doing business in Quebec. In other provinces, CMHC is to use lawyers who have shown they loyalty to the federal Liberals.

Basford said it is merit, not patronage, which determines who gets on the lists.

"The lists come from suggestions from MPs on both sides and from lawyers on both sides," he said. "I haven't had any complaints about the lists."

Basford said that up until three years ago the lists were private but since then the government has released the names of lawyers employed and the total money paid them in a given year.

The minister said he removed two people from the lists — both prominent Liberals — "Who were not providing the standard of service necessary."

Basford also said he has never looked at the lists and "I'm a little surprised a the public flurry there has been on this issue."

PACIFIC WESTERN AIRLINES EXPANDS AIR FLEET

EDMONTON (CP) — Pacific Western Airlines added four Boeing 737 jets, worth almost $28 million, to its fleet in 1975.

The annual report of the government-owned airline, tabled in the legislature, said it added two 737s in the spring of 1975 at a cost of $13.6 million, financed by long-term debt.

Two other jets were added later in the year at a cost of $14.4 million, financed on long-term leases.

The airline also sold a Boeing 737 aircraft for $4.5 million.

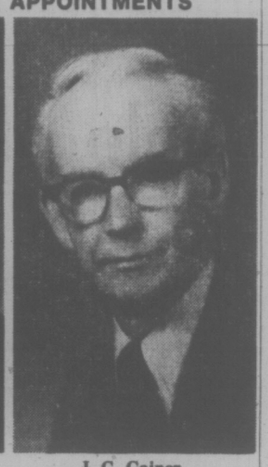
GULF CANADA APPOINTMENTS

W. C. Renton



J. G. Gainer

Gulf Oil Canada Limited announces the appointment of W. C. Renton as Coordinator — Environmental Affairs, Exploration and Production Department, Calgary. He will be responsible for direction on environmental matters to all sections of the Exploration and Production Department, and will serve as liaison for that department with government agencies and other industry representatives.

Mr. Renton joined Gulf Canada's Exploration and Production Department in 1966 and has served in various management operating positions prior to his present appointment.

Mr. J. G. Gainer will continue as Technical Advisor — Environmental Affairs — Western Canada, responsible for direction on environmental matters to all departments in Western Canada and the Territories.

Mr. Gainer joined the company in 1951, and in 1967 assumed full-time responsibilities for the Exploration and Production Department's environmental affairs. He transferred to his present position and responsibilities in the Environmental Affairs Department in 1973. Mr. Gainer has represented Gulf Canada and the industry on many provincial, federal and international environmental committees and task forces. ***

Big Market Profits Come from Big Money

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

The small investor is the backbone of the stock market — but that's about all that can be said for him.

He seldom makes a nickel and, while he keeps brokerage houses busy, he never makes them rich.

In Toronto, 81 per cent of the orders placed in 1975 came from small investors buying or selling shares under $5,000 in value.

The brokerage houses were happy to get this business but they were happier with the 19 per cent of their orders over $5,000 in value because this small group produced 72 per cent of their commission income for the year.

A large sale is no more work than a small one and it is infinitely more profitable for everyone concerned.

The small investor is always welcome when he phones but some brokerage houses wonder why some of them bother.

For example, at the beginning of April a Vancouver penny mine began to take off. It started at the 60 cent range and when it hit 65 cents a lot of heavy buying came in.

Two investors are of particular interest.

One bought 10,000 shares at 65 cents each for a price of $6,500 plus $150 commission. When he sells he will have to pay a similar $150 commission so his total cost will be $6,800. This is $6,500 for the shares plus $300 in commissions.

It is clear that until the stock reaches 68 cents he hasn't made a nickel. Fortunately for him, the price has since risen to 80 cents and beyond so he is in the chips.

Then there is investor number two. On the same day he bought 200 shares of the same stock at the same price of 65 cents.

The shares cost him $130 plus the minimum commission of $15. He will face another minimum $15 when he sells. His total cost will be $160, consisting of $130 for the shares plus $30 for the commissions.

It is clear that for him to get $160 for his 200 shares, the price will have to rise from 65 cents to 80 cents, a hike of 15 cents a share.

As indicated earlier, the price did take a spectacular jump and hit the 80-cent mark. As a result of the sensational climb he is able to break even on his investment.

And a good thing, too, because he likely needs the money.

While the small investor was breaking even, the high roller was scoring a paper profit of $1,200 in three weeks, based upon the $8,000 value minus the total cost of $6,800, including commissions.

The big buyer has higher risks on the downside but most of them bail out if the price falls 10 per cent, so if the stock went below 60 cents he would have taken his $800 loss.

By contrast the small investor tends to ride the elevator down to the basement, sometimes holding even if the price falls to a dime.

On the upside the small investor is also prone to stay in too long. When this particular stock hits 95 cents, if it does, Mr. Big will sell and take his $2,300 profit.

One Victoria broker said the routine is a bit sad but most of the small investors will not listen to advice. Mr. Big, on the other hand, is more eager for any assistance available.

The advice is almost always the same. Never invest more than you can afford to lose, buy in as large amounts as you can afford, and take your profit when it is there. If the stock falls, bail out.

Mr. Big knows these things and follows this approach. The small investor knows these things, too — and often talk along these lines — but they seldom follow their own advice.

Lie Tests Allowed In Police Complaint

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Police Board decided Thursday to allow lie detector test results to be admitted as evidence at the board's first public hearing into any citizen complaint against the police.

The five commissioners allowed the results although they were told by lawyers that no Canadian criminal court has accepted polygraph test results as evidence.

William Butler, 20 and Lauchlan McDonald, 20, both of Richmond, testified at an earlier hearing that they were beaten Sept. 17 by plain-clothes police constables Richard Steven and Terrence Blythe.

They said thay were taken out to a laneway by the two officers and Butler, who was handcuffed, was kicked, kneed and had his head banged several times on the pavement and that McDonald was slapped twice.

The two men said the incident began when one of them made a joking remark about "smoking some MDA" while at a downtown hotel.

The results of the complainants' polygraph tests will be considered when the inquiry resumes May 6. The two constables were asked to take the test but declined, citing a standing instruction from the police union not to take such tests.

Board counsel Allan McEachern said the board's decision to use the test results is not binding.

'Either I'm Insane Or Sane'

KELOWNA (CP) — Eddy Haymour, whose fight for an island in Okanagan Lake led to a hostage-taking incident in Beirut last February, said Thursday he will discuss his claims Monday with government officials in Victoria.

Haymour said he was informed that a meeting had been arranged with Attorney-General Garde Gardom and Environmental Minister Jim Nielsen.

He said he was happy that Premier Bill Bennett had made the meeting possible so quickly.

"I hate waiting," said Haymour.

"I will tell the ministers two main things: Either I am insane and therefore the sale I made (of Ogopogo Island) was invalid, or I am sane and they owe me for 20 months I spent in jail and a mental institution. There are other points I will go into as well."

GIANT PANDA is the way a British-conceived magnesium and fibreglass diving suit nicknamed Jim appears. On display at a North Vancouver company, suit was used in world diving record in Arctic waters, completing a series of dives to 905 feet last week for bottom times of more than five hours. Suit can be used at depths of up to 1,500 feet without need for decompression.

PHANTOM PLANE MYSTIFIES RCMP

TERRACE (CP) — An RCMP officer in Terrace witnessed what he thought was the crash of a light plane, but apparently no plane was involved and the incident remains unexplained.

Constable Bill Toffan was patrolling Highway 16 west of Terrace Wednesday night when he saw a vehicle with its lights flashing proceeding ahead of him. When he drew closer to the vehicle he discovered it was not on the road, but just above the highway.

Constable Toffan said when he drew abreast of the airborne vehicle there was a blinding flash. He thought he witnessed the crash of a light plane. He said he was so startled he nearly lost control of his car. He stopped and investigated the area on foot but found nothing.

A rescue Co-ordination Centre spokesman in Victoria said there have been no aircraft reported overdue in the area, about 60 miles east of Prince Rupert.

Sale of Land To Aid Project

VANCOUVER (CP) — Union Steamships Limited Thursday agreed to sell a 3.5-acre parcel at Snug Cove on Bowen Island to bolster a sagging Sechelt subdivision project the company is involved in at Sechelt.

Solicitor Scott Stewart, representing Interfacial Designs Limited of Sechelt, told a special hearing on the project that the Bowen Island land to be sold had an appraised value of $150,000 two years ago.

The hearing was ordered by Tom Cantell, British Columbia Superintendent of Insurance, after he halted the multi-million-dollar Sechelt project because of alleged contraventions of the Real Estate Act.

Glenmont Holdings, Union Steamships Ltd., S. James and Associates Ltd., Sechelt Lands Ltd. and Interfacial Designs Ltd. have all been implicated in the development, a 241-lot project called Seaside Village. Sechelt is 35 miles northwest of Vancouver.

Union president Stanley James did not appear at the hearing, but submitted a letter through Bud Gairns, an officer of Interfacial, saying the Bowen Island land would be sold to help Seaside Village out of its financial difficulties.

The superintendent of insurance had alleged that purchasers of lots in the subdivision were required to enter into building contracts with one or more of Glenmont's agents, but no such representation was contained in prospectuses filed for the development.

The hearing was also told that outstanding liens totalling $81,962 are still levied against several of the lots by contractors who have not been paid for materials and work provided for the project in Sechelt.

Stewart said James has also agreed to inject interest-free money into the project to cover any required expenses so that homes now under construction can be completed.

The Interfacial spokesman said also that Western Wholesale Lumber Ltd. has agreed to supply building materials so that the project can proceed despite the outstanding liens by other contractors.

Cantell agreed to adjourn the hearing for 60 days to see if the problems hounding the development can be worked out.

RUB PARLORS SUE VANCOUVER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Vancouver body rub establishments Thursday launched a B.C. Supreme Court action to have the city's new body rub parlor bylaw declared invalid.

International Athletic Corp. Ltd., which operates The Studio, and Try-San International Ltd. which operates The Swedish Touch, attacked the legality of the bylaw which sets licence fees at $3,000 and places the parlors under new regulations.

The firms say that city council did not have the power to pass the bylaw and that the bylaw is so uncertain it is incapable of interpretation.

The firms also say the bylaw is unfair, oppressive and discriminatory in that the licence far exceeds the fees required by other city businesses.

The companies also contend that the bylaw is illegal because it delegates a judicial, discretionary or legislative power to the city's chief licence inspector.

The new regulations also require body rub employees to wear a non-transparent garment covering the body between the neck and the knees.

Salmon Arm Employees Get Parity with Kelowna

SALMON ARM (CP) — Civic workers Wednesday ratified a two-year agreement with the municipality giving them basic wage parity with their counterparts in nearby Kelowna. Jim Kelly, chief negotiator for the Canadian Union of Public Employees local 1908, said inside workers will receive a 28-per-cent increase during the contract term and outside workers will receive a 35-per-cent increase with full retroactive pay. Workers also will receive three weeks' vacation after one year.

Hit by Dayliner

NANAIMO (CP) — A small car was struck by the CP Rail Esquimalt and Nanaimo dayliner Thursday at an uncontrolled crossing near the downtown area. Ed Lusk, 17, driver of the car, and a passenger escaped injury.

Rights Setback

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The Patients' Rights Association's plans for hospital reform received a setback Wednesday at a meeting of the Prince George hospital board. Patients' Rights trustee candidates and every resolution and constitutional change proposed by the group were overwhelmingly voted down by a crowd of more than 1,000 which supported the 1975 slate of trustees.

Habitat Cleanup

VANCOUVER (CP)—Habitat Forum organizers have issued an invitation to join a cleanup of the 100-acre site at Jericho Park May 15 and 16. The non-government conference that parallels the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat) will be held from May 27 to June 11, while the government Habitat conference will be held downtown from May 31 to June 11.

Prisoner Faces Trial

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Prisoner Dwight Gay Lowe, 20, was ordered Thursday to stand trial on a charge of attempted murder in the Oct. 16 stabbing of George Thomas Piper, a guard at the B.C. Penitentiary here.

Judge Hugh Ellis committed Lowe for county court trial following a preliminary hearing that began Wednesday. There was a ban on publication of evidence at the hearing.

Lowe was transferred to the Dorchester, N.B. federal prison on March 3 after a hostage-taking incident at the B.C. penitentiary under an agreement between penitentiary officials and three prisoners who held three guards at knifepoint for 14 hours.

The other two prisoners — Andy Bruce, 27, and Dwight Lucas, 21 — were sent to Dorchester five days after the Feb. 19 incident but Lowe was kept here temporarily because he was required to appear in court for statutory remands every eight days.

PRESIDENT SUED

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Calgary mining company Thursday started a B.C. Supreme Court damage action against a Victoria man who was its president.

Woodreef Minerals Ltd., is seeking damages against Russell H. Bullied of Saanichton, for alleged breach of his duties to the firm in connection with an underwriting in Australia.

Woodreef says that Bullied eroded the firm's financial position and that this precluded it from raising funds for the operation of its Australian subsidiary. Woodreef Mines Ltd. claims that, as a result, the subsidiary was placed in receivership.

Prosecutor Staff Additions

One person has been added to the staff of regional prosecutor J. W. Anderson and a second is expected to join next month to bring the total back to its regular nine.

Armand Petronio, who was called to the B.C. bar in 1974, started work last week and has already appeared at trials in provincial and county courts. He came to Victoria from Vancouver where he was with a law firm in which Ald. Harry Rankin is a partner.

Anderson declined to release the name of the other newcomer because hiring arrangements haven't been completed.

The two replace Barry Mah Ming and Scott Marshall who are entering private practice in Victoria.

The $100 Canadian Olympic Gold Coin ...destined to become one of the most outstanding coins in history... why you should buy yours now

1 The Canadian Olympic Gold Coin is the first $100 face value Olympic coin ever issued.

2 It is the second Olympic gold coin of any kind ever issued by a host nation. In 359 B.C. Philip of Macedonia, the father of Alexander the Great, issued the first Olympic coin ever struck in gold. Now the Government of Canada is issuing the second host nation Olympic gold coin in history.

3 In the entire 3,000 year history of the Olympic Games, the Canadian Olympic Gold Coin is the highest denomination Olympic coin ever minted.

4 With a $100 face value, this is also the highest denomination coin ever issued in North America.

5 It will be minted in a limited edition. The quantity of Canadian Olympic Gold Coins to be minted is far fewer than other modern Olympic coin issues except for Helsinki.

6 The Canadian Olympic Gold Coin is minted by the Royal Canadian Mint, internationally acclaimed for its rigidly controlled standards of quality and workmanship. This coin is legal tender and backed by Canada for its full face value.

7 All previous Canadian gold coin issues have increased significantly in value. (See table). All these facts enhance the value of this unique coin. That's why it could prove to be a solid and timely investment.

This truly remarkable Uncirculated quality Canadian Olympic Gold Coin is being offered in limited quantities at official issue price of $105.00 until June 15th, 1976. Because demand for this coin is expected to exceed supply, purchases of the 14 karat Gold Coin are limited to five (5) coins per customer.

The outstanding investment performance of Canadian gold coins

Canadian gold coins with a face value of $5 and $10 were issued during the years 1912 to 1914 and have increased significantly in value.

Even the most recent Canadian gold coin, the 1967 $20 Centennial gold coin, has shown a significant increase in value in the 9 years since its issue. (See table.) The remarkable appreciation on the three Canadian gold coins may explain why coin investment counsellors often recommend them. Although no assurance can be given that any particular coin will appreciate in value, the $100 Canadian Olympic Gold Coin will certainly interest knowledgeable collectors the world over.

The return on a $100 investment in Canadian gold coins

Coin	Quantity Minted	Return on $100 Investment*
$5 gold Canadian 1912-1914	295,634	$3,200
$10 gold Canadian 1912-1914	364,059	$3,700
$20 — 1967 Centennial gold	337,512	$ 300

*Based on values of very fine quality coins as published in Coin Stamp Antique News, January 1976.

The ultimate souvenir, the treasured gift

The $100 Canadian Olympic Gold Coin will be cherished for generations as a keepsake and souvenir of the historic days when Canada played host to the world.

A history-making coin in 14 karat Gold

The 14 karat Canadian Olympic Gold Coin is a Brilliant Uncirculated coin. That is, it has a brilliant finish and comes to you in uncirculated condition. Each 14 karat Canadian Olympic Gold Coin weighs 13.3375 grams with a fine gold content of 7.7759 grams. The diameter measures 27 mm and the thickness of the coin measures 1.818 mm. "Beaded" markings appear on both sides of the coin.

What does Flyers' Dave Shultz think of Toronto fans?

SCHULTZ ELBOWED BY FAN

TORONTO (CP) — Police are investigating an incident at Maple Leaf Gardens in which Dave Schultz of Philadelphia Flyers was elbowed Thursday night by a spectator during a National Hockey League playoff game.

Police said the incident, which took place during the game between the Flyers and Toronto Maple Leafs, will be investigated to see if charges are warranted.

Schultz was making his way to his dressing room late in the second period after drawing a fighting major and a 10-minute misconduct.

The Philadelphia player said a spectator appeared in the hallway leading to the dressing room and elbowed him "in the side."

"It didn't knock the wind out of me or anything," he said.

Witnesses, including assistant coach Mike Nykoluk of the Flyers, said the fan then fled from the hallway. He was not seen again.

The Leafs won the game 8-5 to tie the best-of-seven quarterfinal 3-3. The game produced a playoff record 185 penalty minutes.

Both Nykoluk and a doorman, who refused to give his name, looked unsuccessfully for the fan later in the game.

Schultz, who has been booed and cursed with cries of "Suck, Suck" for much of the game, at first went to the penalty box when handed the misconduct penalty.

Nykoluk and Barry Ashbee, another assistant coach with the Flyers, along with an usherette and a doorman, said the abuse was unusually vicious.

"They were calling us names, swearing at us, telling us to shut up," said usherette Carol Huntley.

Tibor Kolley, a photographer for The Globe and Mail who was stationed near the penalty box, said Schultz retaliated with a threatening gesture.

Kolley said that at that point Schultz stood up and, escorted by two policemen, headed for the dressing room, saying "I quit."

When Schultz returned to serve the remaining minutes of his penalty at the start of the third period, he was angry.

"He said he would never play in Toronto," said Nykoluk. "He said he was quitting between the second and third.

"He has taken incredible abuse tonight."

Later in the third period, Schultz was ejected from the game, drawing a double game misconduct after a fight with Toronto's Dave Williams.

Pyramid of Fights And Five by Sittler

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Red Kelly had his pyramids scattered all over Maple Leaf Gardens but it was captain Darryl Sittler who won Thursday night's Stanley Cup playoff game for Toronto Maple Leafs.

Sittler matched a National Hockey League playoff record by scoring five goals to lead the Leafs to an 8-5 win over Philadelphia Flyers, forcing a deciding game in the best-of-seven quarter final.

The brilliant performance by Sittler, whose victim was veteran Philadelphia goalie Bernie Parent, was the one bright spot in an evening of hockey brawling that produced a playoff record 185 penalty minutes and left NHL referee-in-chief Scotty Morrison visibly shaken.

Kelly, who started out the playoffs with a single pyramid under the Toronto bench, had multi-colored pyramids scattered in strategic positions around the Gardens, which the Toronto coach argues is itself a pyramid.

Calling the victory another "miracle," Kelly said he will be taking his pyramids to the Spectrum, hoping their mystical powers will give the Leafs their first win on Philadelphia ice since 1971.

"They send out a vibration," he says. "A wonderful vibration."

Sittler, the Leafs' top scorer during the regular season, hadn't scored a goal in eight playoff games.

He ended the drought when he beat Parent once in the first period, then scored three times in the second period and once more in the third. He wound up tying the playoff record for most points in a game when he drew an assist on a goal by Clair Alexander.

He matched the five goals scored by Rocket Richard of Montreal Canadiens in 1944 and the six points produced by Montreal's Dickie Moore in 1954 and Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins in 1969.

Sittler said Thursday's performance meant more than his record points output in a game against Boston during the regular season. He scored six goals and drew four assists in an 11-4 Toronto win.

The Leaf captain scored twice in a 32-second span midway in the second period to give the Leafs a 4-1 lead, then scored again in the last minute of the period after the Flyers had reduced Toronto's advantage to a single goal.

After he restored the three-goal margin early in the third period, the Leafs matched every Philadelphia goal with a goal of their own.

Alexander, Jack Valiquette and Errol Thompson were the other Toronto scorers. Orest Kindrachuk, Tom Bladon, Larry Goodenough, Bill Barber and Reggie Leach were the Philadelphia scorers.

Three Philadelphia players face criminal charges as a result of the third game of the series here a week earlier, but that development didn't appear to inhibit either team Thursday.

The game produced five game misconducts, three misconducts, 11 majors and 25 minors.

The brawling seemed to go on all night, but only three fights produced major penalties. The main event began with less than four minutes to play with a high stick by Philadelphia captain Bobby Clarke.

Before order was restored, Philadelphia's Dave Schultz had two game misconducts and a single-game record for penalty minutes.

He finished the night with a minor, a major, a misconduct, two game misconducts and 42 penalty minutes, four minutes more than Toronto's Forbes Kennedy drew in a 1969 game against Boston.

Schultz, who held his nose in response to the jeers of the Toronto crowd as he left the ice, drew the first game misconduct for being the third man in a fight and the second for prolonging his battle with Toronto's Dave Williams.

Philadelphia's Bob Kelly and Toronto's Dave Dunn had their own fight going on at the same time and also drew game misconducts.

Earlier, Schultz drew a major and misconduct for a fight with Toronto's Scott Garland, who drew the same penalties.

Other fights matched Philadelphia's Jack McIlhargey with Williams and Philadelphia's Mel Bridgman with Toronto's Kurt Walker.

Toronto defenceman Brian Glennie drew a major after he cracked Schultf on the head with his stick in the first period. Later, he suffered a broken jaw when he blocked a shot by Bridgman with his chin. He will be out for the season.

A shaken Morrison promised to instruct referee Lloyd Gilmour to clamp down from the start of Sunday's game.

He said he will tell Gilmour "to keep sending them to the (penalty) box, and if they won't stop fighting, throw them out of the game."

Goring Hero in Overtime

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Centre Butch Goring, one of the heroes in Thursday night's 4-3 overtime win by Los Angeles Kings over Boston Bruins, thinks the Kings have a good chance to capture the series when the teams return to Boston for Sunday night's deciding game.

Goring's 30-footer at 18:28 of the overtime period tied the best-of-seven National Hockey League quarter-final 3-3.

"We feel real good about going to Boston," Goring said. "It's a one-game thing. Anything can happen."

Los Angeles coach Bob Pulford said the Bruins may have felt they had the game won when they led 3-1 late in the final period.

But Don Cherry, Boston coach, said his Bruins kept giving the puck away in their own end.

Mike Corrigan, whose two goals in the third period led the Kings' comeback and tied the score at 3-3, called the ovation "just great."

The home crowd also exploded with an ovation for Corrigan after his goal with 2:12 left in regulation tied it 3-3. Goring was carried off the ice by delirious teammates while the fans remained standing, whistling and stomping.

The winning goal by Goring bounced into the net off the post, eluding goalie Gerry Cheevers.

After a scoreless first period, the Kings grabbed a 1-0 lead on Tommy Williams's 50-foot slap shot, but 39 seconds later the Bruins tied it on Bobby Schmautz' second goal of the series.

Boston's Gregg Sheppard stretched the Bruins' advantage to 3-1 with 15 seconds left in the second period to give Boston what appeared to be a commanding lead.

Corrigan's first goal of the night narrowed the lead to 3-2 and his second goal seven minutes later sent the game into overtime.

Auckland Team Added As Bates' Opposition

Some world-class softball will be played in Victoria this summer.

Victoria Bates officials confirmed Thursday that Reading, Pa., which shares the world title with Bates and New Zealand, will play a four-game exhibition series June 26-27 at Royal Athletic Park.

At the same time, Victoria manager Jack Bell announced that Auckland, a team expected to add six players from the New Zealand squad that shares the title, will play a doubleheader here July 13.

Park Pacific Apartments and CFAX Radio have agreed to underwrite the cost of bringing the U.S. champion Reading team here.

The three teams were declared world champions when the final games of the 1976 world tournament in New Zealand were cancelled because of poor weather.

Bell said most of the Reading players who were in New Zealand are expected to play here with the possible exception of Carl Walker, who now lives in Detroit.

Walker played a key role in the Reading offence and was responsible for the home run that gave Reading a 1-0 victory over Bates in the world tourney.

Doubleheaders against Reading will be played at 7 and 8:30 p.m. June 26 and 1 and 3 p.m. June 27. Tickets, which are expected to go on sale soon at the Memorial Arena box office, will be priced at $4 for doubleheader or $7 for all four games.

The Auckland team, which opens a North American tour against Bates, finished second in the New Zealand playoffs last year.

Other exhibition appearances for Bates, who open their Pacific Coast Fastball League season Saturday at Abbotsford, are in Terrace (May 15-16) and Cedar Rapids, Iowa (July 23-25).

Bates will also compete in the international 14-team Mr. Sports Tournament July 16-18 in New Westminster and are considering offers to enter a number of other tournaments throughout North America.

Up-Island Threats Still in Running

Bill Wakeham and Don Atkinson refuse to allow the CFAX-sponsored Vancouver Island Open golf tournament to fall into the strict control of Victoria district players.

The two provide up-Island representation as 16 first-round survivors advance to Royal Colwood for Sunday's second round of competition in the popular match-play tournament.

Wakeham, of course, always has been a "problem." The Cowichan professional is a four-time winner of the Island Open title and a regular threat.

The unheralded Atkinson, an amateur from Nanaimo, may have a more difficult time. Atkinson faces tournament medallist Fred Worthington of Cedar Hill.

Handicap division survivors lead the way Sunday, starting at 8:52 a.m.

Canadian Hoop Squad Winds Up With Loss

DES MOINES, Ia. (CP) — Canada's national basketball team finished up its spring tour of the United States with its second defeat in a row Thursday night, losing 82-77 to the Iowa All-Stars.

The Canadians began the series of games against Amateur Athletic Union teams with a loss, then won six games in a row before losing the last two for an over-all 6-3 record.

Martin Riley of Winnipeg was high Canadian scorer Thursday with 15 points. Derek Sankey of Vancouver and Bill Robinson of Chemainus, added 14 points each and Ken McKenzie of Vancouver had 11. Cameron Hall of Dundas, Ont., had 14 rebounds.

The Canadians were to head home today, with training to resume May 10 at Montreal before a planned European tour.

Ranks Are Getting Thinner

Only six hockey teams still have a chance to be hockey's 1976 Memorial Cup champions.

Another club fell by the wayside Thursday night when Saskatoon Blades defeated Kamloops Chiefs 6-5 to win their eight-point semi-final series 8-4 and advance to the Western Canada Hockey League final against New Westminster Bruins.

Other survivors are Hamilton Fincups, Sudbury Wolves, Sherbrooke Beavers and Quebec Remparts.

The Fincups lead the best-of seven Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A final 2-0 while Sherbrooke and Quebec open their Quebec Major final tonight.

Fred Williams scored on a three-on-one break with nine seconds left in the game to give Saskatoon its victory over Kamloops.

The Eastern Division champions, who held period leads of 4-1 and 4-3, fell behind early in the third period but quickly rallied to tie the score at 5-5, setting up Williams' tie-breaker.

Wes George led the Blades with two goals and a pair of assists and other goals were contributed by Bernie Federko, Blair Chapman and Dell Chapman.

Barry Melrose, Darryl Ferner, Ryan Walter, Dave Robinson and Larry Lestander scored for the Chiefs.

Saskatoon held a 44-35 advantage in shots on goal before only 2145 fans, smallest crowd in the series.

The best-of-seven final to determine the WCHL representative in the Memorial Cup playoffs will start Sunday in New Westminster.

Islander Win Caps Uphill Series Climb

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (CP) — Eddie Westfall, his foot in a bucket of ice, said it best about New York Islanders' uphill 4-2 quarter-final playoff seies victory over Buffalo Sabres.

"We were down 2-0 and came back to win four straight," said the Islanders captain, who played the last three games with a broken bone in his foot. "I have to think we proved we are the better team."

The Islanders shut down the Buffalo attack, limiting the Sabres to 17 shots on goalie Billy Smith as New York edged the Sabres 3-2 Thursday night to clinch the series. Only four of the shots came in the third period.

"I really didn't have a tough shot in the last period," said Smith ,who reversed the situation that prevailed in last year's playoffs when Glenn Resch was hot and Smith rode the bench.

It was left winger Clark Gillies, at six-foot-three, 215 pounds the heaviest foward in the NHL, who scored the winning goal. He passed out from the corner to centre Bryan Trottier, then hustled in front and picked up the rebound of Trottier's shot.

A former baseball player in the Houston Astros system, Gillies batted the puck past Sabres goalie Gerry Desjardins. The time was 5:58 of the third perod.

Gillies' goal broke a 2-2 tie fashioned by Jerry Korab at 4:09. The Sabre defenceman fired a 55-footer through Smith to tie it.

Earlier, Jude Drouin had opened the scoring, only to have Gil Perreault rush almost the length of the ice to tie the game. Drouin scored his goal at 7:45 of the first period and Perreault got the equalizer at 4:42 of the second period.

Westfall put New York ahead when he tipped the puck off his foot past Desjardins at 13:07 to give New York a 2-1 lead at the end of two periods of play.

Floyd Smith, the Sabres coach, was disappointed, but said "We gave it our best shot but injuries hurt us.

"This is no alibi but we didn't have everybody ready. The Islanders closed us down and forechecked us to death."

Cowboys, Jets Tangle Tonight

By Canadian Press

With memories of one of the worse incidents of violence in recent hockey history still fresh in their minds, Calgary Cowboys go against Winnipeg Jets tonight in the opening game of the World Hockey Association Canadian Division final that has the potential to restore the league's tarnished image.

A sell-out crowd is expected for both tonight's and Sunday night's games in Winnipeg. The best-of-seven division final then shifts to Calgary for games next Wednesday and Friday.

While the Cowboys and Jets will be opening their series, Houston Aeros and New England Whalers will be trying to take command of the East and West Division finals.

The Whalers hold a 2-1 margin in wins over Indianapolis and are looking for another solid performance from rookie goalie Cap Raeder in Hartford tonight. The Aeros, defending champions, won their series opener 8-6 Wednesday and are at home again tonight trying to make it two straight over San Diego Mariners.

The Cowboys and Quebec Nordiques engaged in a benchclearing brawl in Quebec City that left the WHA's leading scorer, Marc Tardif, in hospital and threatened to halt the series that Calgary eventually won in five games.

But the final should be a confrontation of a slick-passing, fast-skating and high-scoring squad of Jets meeting a well-disciplined fierce-checking parade of Cowboys.

In 12 regular-season games between the two clubs—Winnipeg won eight—only three players received more than 16 minutes in penalties with Calgary's Butch Deadmarsh the most-penalized with 38 minutes.

Wests, Bays In Cup Final On Saturday

Victoria West will be seeking a 13th victory and Oak Bay will be trying for its first, when the two premier division teams clash in the Vancouver Island Soccer League's Jackson Cup final Saturday at Royal Athletic Park.

Wests have won the Cup 12 times, more often than any other club, since it was first donated by Sir John Jackson in 1915.

Gorge and the now-defunct Esquimalt team each won the title seven times.

Salmon Action Perking At South End of Island

"Fantastic" was the word often used to describe salmon fishing around the southern end of Vancouver Island during the past week — despite the bout of windy weather that kept most fishermen off the water Tuesday.

Bertram Crowe easily topped the list of catches with a 29¼-pound chinook landed around 9 a.m. Thursday near Chesterfield Rock in the Finlayson Arm end of Saanich Inlet.

Crowe was using a blue hootchie, 200 feet of line and two pounds of weight when he tied into the lunker.

Another husky chinook, a 24-pounder, was landed Wednesday by Harmon Leong and many limits have been taken on strip, hootchies and plugs.

Other fishermen, using Coronation bucktails and lighter tackle on the surface are picking up numerous bluebacks in most sections of Finlayson Arm.

Further north in the Inlet, many chinooks to 16 pounds have been caught between Willis Point and McKenzie Bay as well as in Indian Bay and off Henderson Point, with anglers using hootchies or anchovies and 150 feet of line with a planer.

Some blues to three pounds are also turning up on surface gear.

Waters off Wain Rock are yielding chinooks to six pounds but blues in the area are scarce.

George Ross had the heaviest fish among excellent catches of chinooks off Oak Bay with a 21-pounder taken Tuesday in The Gap. Howard Pepper has been coming back with numerous fish to 15 pounds from the same vicinity and although the blues are becoming less plentiful they're now nearing the four-pound mark.

Halibut to 50 pounds are coming in from Chain Flats and there have been reports of some larger ones lost out at Constance Bank. Catches of ling cod have tapered off but a few are still coming in off the Discovery Island light.

Pedder Bay fishermen are picking up chinooks to 20 pounds on both sides of Bentinck Island, off Christopher Point and near William Head. Ling cod to 11 pounds are coming in on jigged Buzz-Bombs from the vicinity of Race Rocks.

Phil Hale topped a catch of 32 fish by 19 boats Wednesday with a 27-pounder taken between Beechey Head and Alldridge Point. Fishing wasn't great earlier in the week but picked up dramatically on Wednesday for fishermen using strip, anchovies or blue and white hootchies with 50 to 100 feet of line and two pounds of lead.

Fishing well out from Secretary Island, Vern Musfelt of Sooke managed to connect with a 25-pound chinook Sunday while trolling with a five-inch minnow, 60 feet of line and a pound of weight. Fishing pressure has been light in the Sooke area.

Further up-Island, fishermen are landing chinooks to 20 pounds near Bold Bluff, through Sansum Narrows, in Smith Bay and around Porlier Pass while trolling with strip, hootchies or squirts. Moochers have also been striking it lucky in the same spoth.

Any pink-colored surface lure is good for blues to two pounds off The Fingers at Nanaimo, but a downrigger and about 200 feet of line is needed to catch chinooks to eight pounds. Numerous catches of the latter species have been landed with green and white hootchies or strip.

Rainy Bay is yielding chinooks to 28 pounds on deeply-trolled strip at the mouth of Alberni Inlet.

Most of the salt-water action near Courtenay centres on a concentration of blues to three pounds off Bates Beach. Many limits have been taken on flashtail and dodger or No. 4 Tom Mack Spoons.

Fishermen trolling small red hootchies or flies are pulling in blues while others using strip, fluorescent white hootchies or Stingsildas are bagging chinooks to 25 pounds in Seymour Narrows and near Menzies Bay, Maude Island and the Cape Mudge Light.

Trout anglers are starting to tie into some excellent catches in Elk, Somenos, Quamichan, Dougan's, Westwood, Brannan, Sproat, Dixon, Comox, John Hart and McIvor lakes. The main producer is still bait but a few fish are starting to grab flies.

Winter steelheading is almost over, but a few bright fish are still coming in from the Koksilah, Oyster, Tsolum and Quinsam rivers.

Wak Wak Is on Way For Ebb Tide Clash

There'll likely be a heavy smell of linament hanging in the air Wednesday at Royal Athletic Park.

Ebb Tide of Victoria, which will include former premier Dave Barrett in the lineup, is scheduled to face Wak Wak Club of Japan in an exhibition rugby match at 6 p. m.

The players on both sides are aged 40 and up.

Ebb tide won the initial contest, which consists of three 20-minute periods in deference to the ages of some players, last season.

Wak Wak will arrive in Vancouver from Tokyo on Sunday and is scheduled to play in Swangard Stadium on Monday.

The touring side arrives in Victoria on Tuesday and leaves Friday to play a Saturday match against the Whoi Whoi Club of Vancouver in the University of British Columbia Thunderbird Stadium.

Tickets to the Victoria match ($2 for adults, $1 for students and pensioners) are available from any Ebb Tide member or at the gate Wednesday.

Walt Welcomes Modest Streak

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles Dodgers are on a winning streak — one in a row.

That may not sound like much, but it is for the Dodgers, who have had their problems this season.

The Dodgers have won only three of 11 games, including Thursday night's 7-2 decision over Houston Astros in a National League baseball game.

"We had a good spring training and everybody worked hard but we haven't had any good pitching until the last two games," said manager Walt Alston.

"I don't expect to knock too many fences down but we are not hitting up to par. While we haven't played well enough to win many, we have only been bombed out in one game this season (an 8-3 loss to Houston)."

Doug Rau, Thursday night's winning pitcher, saw the game as a turning point in Dodger fortunes.

"A lot of good things happened tonight," said Rau, who was one of them with six strong innings. "We had good fielding and (Joe) Ferguson's home run shows that his timing may be baack."

In other National League action Thursday, Montreal Expos defeated Chicago Cubs 12-6 in a wrapup of a game suspended from Wednesday and then lost the regularly-scheduled contest, 5-4 in 11 innings.

In the only American League game, Kansas City Royals beat Milwaukee Brewers 2-1.

Dusty Baker's bases-loaded single climaxed a three-run fifth inning for Los Angeles. Rau struck out six and allowed five hits before running into trouble in the seventh.

Loser Joaquin Andujar, who allowed the first six Dodger runs, had control trouble.

Two Island Clubs In Hockey Event

Two Vancouver Island teams, two from Vancouver and one each from Burnaby and the Okanagan will compete this weekend in the British Columbia Women's Field Hockey Federation tournament.

The emphasis on regional rather than club representation is designed to give players a chance to engage in competition stronger than generally provided by club teams.

The format, a federation spokesperson said Thursday, also enables provincial selectors a better opportunity to assess the abilities of most of the leading players in B.C.

"We feel fans also enjoy the prospects of watching the best players," the official added.

Forming the second team are Fern Perkins, Maureen Songhurst, Sharon Mackie, Robin Wilson, Vivien Davies, Lynn Derry, Morven Morrison, Stephanie Doney, Judy Broom, Lynn Poulson, Liz Munn and Suzanne Hibbert.

All games will be played at the University of Victoria.

Weekend schedule:

SATURDAY
10 a.m. — Island I vs Vancouver II.
11:20 a.m. — Vancouver I vs Burnaby; Island II vs Okanagan (pitch II).
1:30 p.m. — Island I vs Burnaby.
2:30 p.m. — Okanagan vs Vancouver II; Island II vs Vancouver I (pitch II).

SUNDAY
9:30 a.m. — Island II vs Vancouver II; Okanagan vs Burnaby (pitch II).
10:50 a.m. — Vancouver I vs Island I.
1 p.m. — Vancouver I vs Okanagan; Vancouver II vs Burnaby.
2:20 p.m. — Island I vs Island II.

Williams Lake Driver in 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Ed Crombie of Williams Lake, has become the 71st entry in the 60th running of the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race May 30, race officials said.

Crombie's letter and fee, postmarked on the April 15 deadline, arrived this week. Crombie, a rookie, has entered a Vollsted chassis with a Foyt engine.

AROUND OUR SHORES

Incredible as it may seem, 199 of the world's top sailors have entered the single-handed Atlantic race that starts from my old home town of Plymouth on June 5.

The largest boat entered is the 236-foot Club Mediterranee. She is so large she had to be built and launched upside down, skin divers pumping water into her compartments to allow her to be righted. The huge four-masted schooner will be raced by the French ace Alain Colas.

This may be the last year a boat of this size will be allowed to compete in the trans-Atlantic, which ends at Newport, R.I. and is sponsored by the Observer newspaper and organized by the Royal Western Yacht Club.

Britain's national boating authority, the Royal Yachting Association is keeping an active eye on this year's event.

The RYA is concerned over the possibility of the Club Mediterranee running and perhaps sinking cross-channel ferries or fishing vessels. The rules may be changed to set a maximum over-all length by the time the 1980 race comes around.

The 70-foot multihull Kriter III, the former British Oxygen built for Robin Knox Johnston and Gerry Boxall, is an odds-on favorite at this time. She will be sailed by Frenchman Jean Yves-Tertain, who will need nerves of steel to drive this 26-knot racing machine.

Vancouver Island sailors will indulge in their own brand of single-handed racing this weekend.

The Canoe Bay Sailing Club will be staging their second annual invitational single-handed race on Saturday. The 10½-miler, which starts off the Sidney wharf at 11 a.m., is expected to draw a large field. The initial 1975 race was sailed by 43 competitors and CBSC has a record for always-increasing numbers in their events.

For those who want to have another try, the Maple Bay Yacht Club is holding its single-handed race the following day.

Many of the CBSA types will pass up this one in order to compete in the club's 17-mile Russell Island race, which begins at 9 a.m. on Sunday.

Certain to be out is Don Doby's Rampart, which finished first in the recent 18-mile Zero Rock race. She edged out Willie Fahning's Dominique, Rory Morahan's Star Waggon, Gordie Inglis' Water Melon, Peter White's White Squall, Ken Martin's Sara, Alan Dickinson's Viking Daryl Foster's Tzonqua, Cam Thomson's Cal-Lorri and Peter Grant's Skaga.

Also in the Sidney area, dinghy sailors of the Saanich Peninsula Sailing Association will be racing again on Saturday, beginning in the area of the Van-Isle Marina gas dock at 1:30 p.m.

Three races were sailed riding up in top spot. Next came David Myerscough, Tim Bussey and Eric Jespersen.

Dinghy sailors of the Esquimalt Squadron, Canadian Forces Sailing Association will also be racing Sunday, starting at noon. There'll be competition in Lasers, Fireballs and 420s.

Things are winding down at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club as skippers work on their boats in preparation for opening day and sailpast festivities on May 1. Just to keep their hand in, however, the club's Laser sailors will have fun racing on Saturday, beginning at 1:30.

Canadians Must Qualify

HAMBURG, West Germany (Reuter) — The International Gymnastics Federation announced Thursday the draw for next month's Olympic qualification tournament here and said host country Canada also would have to qualify.

A spokesman for the federation's technical commission told a news conference that a request by Canada for automatic qualification to the Montreal Games had been turned down.

He said the Cubans had not replied to telegrams asking if they wished to compete. But the time limit for entries was being left open for them to avoid any later protest and they had been included in Group Two of the tournament.

The federation substituted the Hamburg tournament for an Olympic qualifying arrangement held earlier this year, which had been marred by poor judging.

Teams had been allowed to meet opponents of their choice and the qualifying norm had been 350 points. Some which would normally have found difficulty in scoring 300 points had qualified surprisingly easily.

Fourteen teams are included in the tournament as well as individual gymnasts from Belgium, Yugoslavia, Mexico and Australia. The top six teams will qualify for Montreal.

In Montreal, Tom Kinsman, technical director of the Canadian Gymnastics Federation, expressed displeasure with the decision.

He said that the decision to establish a qualifying competition was incorrect and that the timing of the competition "for kids in university is simply atrocious." The competitions will start May 2 in Hamburg for women and a week later in Weisbaden for men.

"We are sending them into a major competition with no long-range preparation in a situation where just a few mistakes could drop our teams out of the Olympics completely."

Gymnastics is the only Olympic team sport in which the host country does not receive a bye into the competition. The top six countries in the sport — currently the Soviet Union, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Japan — automatically qualify, while dual meets are held to select six more teams for a total of 12.

Among Canadians seeking Olympic berths will be Philip Delesalle of Victoria.

The draw:

GROUP 1
Section A
USA, West Germany, Bulgaria, Poland.
Section B
Canada, Holland, Italy, France.
GROUP 2
Section A
Britain, Switzerland, Norway, Spain.
Section B
North Korea, Cuba and individuals from Belgium (4), Mexico (4), Yugoslavia (2) and Australia (1).

the sound approach to quality KENWOOD 700 LINE

The new KENWOOD 700-Line is a trio of high fidelity components, tuner, control amplifier, and power amplifier, which embody everything for the very highest quality audio reproduction. They set new standards of audio excellence, and give a new meaning to the phrase 'the state-of-the-art.' The age when fans could be impressed by inflated performance figures, strained to show the product in the best light, is over. Every figure in the following performance specifications is a guaranteed minimum performance value. In every case actual performance as measured should comfortably exceed the rated values. And in top-of-the-line 700 T.M.C. these conservatively stated figures are good enough to speak for themselves, good enough not to need exaggeration.

We realize that the "700" Series isn't for everyone, but if you are looking for the finest stereo equipment made, then you have to look-and-listen — to the "700" Series.

OLYMPIC OARSMEN DROWN

HAMBURG, West Germany (AFP) — Two of East Germany's Olympic rowing eight were drowned three weeks ago while training on Lake Mueggel, just outside Berlin, the West German daily Die Bild-Zeitung reported in its Friday edition. The Bild report said the East German Rowing Federation had confirmed the deaths of the two oarsmen, who had been training with the Olympic eight in high winds. But the federation refused comment on the fate of the cox, who, say eye witnesses quoted by Das Bild, also drowned. Das Bild quoted witnesses who said a fierce wind was blowing on Lake Mueggel at the time of the accident.

The East German Rowing Federation is reported to have identified the drowned oarsmen as Fro Cottbus and Fro Leipzig.

Seattle Pro in Front

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mike Reasor of Seattle, a career struggler on the pro golf tour, swept past some of the game's stars with a seven-under-par 65 that gave him the first round lead Thursday in the $175,000 New Orleans Open.

Reasor, who has yet to win in eight years on the tour, finished 121st on the money-winning list last year and has collected only three cheques this season — two of them coming in events in which the major stars were not playing.

But his performance Thursday over the 7,080-yard Lakewood Country Club course staked him to a two-shot lead over two other longshots and defending-champion Billy Casper.

Tied with Casper at 67 were Wally Armstrong and Monty Kaser — like Reasor career non-winners.

Casper had the second place alone until he bogeyed the final hole but was far from upset about it.

Ben Crenshaw, a two-time winner this year and runner-up in the Masters, withdrew before the start of the round, suffering from a case of flu.

Gar Hamilton of Toronto shot nines of 37-35 for an even par 72, seven shots behind the leader.

Reasor, a personable character who caddied for Arnold Palmer in the 1966 U.S. Open, missed the cut seven times and failed to qualify in four events in the first 12 tournaments he attempted this season.

But he broke through two weeks ago in the Magnolia Classic (played opposite the Masters) with a seventh-place finish and last week in Tallapasite the Tournament of Champions, tied for 15th.

hassee, which was played op-

"I don't know what's going on," he said with a puzzled look on his face. "Things are just starting to jell.

"And I putted awfully well. And that's the way you shoot low scores."

Reasor, 34, a tour regular since 1969, didn't miss a fairway, missed only one green, didn't even come close to making a bogey and got his birdies in bunches — three in a row starting off and four in a row on his back nine.

The tournament was marred by the death of a marshal Charles Kleb Jr., of New Orleans, who suffered a heart attack while working on the 11th hole early in the day.

POLAND SALVAGES A TIE

KATOWICE, Poland (Reuter) — Poland remained in fifth position in the Group A world ice hockey championship table after a 5-5 tie with Finland Thursday night.

The result of the game, part of the four-team playoff for places five to eight, gave the Poles a two-point lead over sixth-placed Finland and Wset Germany.

Czechoslovakia has already clinched the tournament championship.

The Czechs, who beat the United States 5-1 Wednesday to secure the title, lead the Soviet Union and Sweden by six points with two games remaining to play.

In another Thursday contest, West Germany and East Germany played to a 1-1 tie.

Leszek Kokoszka's third goal of the game in the final minute of play pulled the Poles even in a game watched by a capacity crowd of 10,000.

The game proved to be a fierce struggle with the lead constantly changing, but both teams lacked precision and missed numerous opportunities to shoot.

The dramatic third period saw Kokoszka put the Poles ahead before two goals from Kari Makkonen gave Finland a 5-4 lead, setting the stage for Kokoszka's equalizer.

Riders Reject Offer

TORONTO (CP) — Jockeys on the Ontario Jockey Club circuit say they will refuse to accept mounts at the May 2 opening of the Woodbine racetrack summer meeting unless their demands are met.

Don Hale, secretary-treasurer of the Jockeys Benefit Association, said the jockeys' demands for 10 per cent of the purse earned by their mounts for finishing second and third.

At a meeting after Wednesday's races at Greenwood, the jockeys rejected the latest offer from the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association.

The formula now in use gives jockeys 10 per cent of the purse for a winning mount, $555 for second, $45 for third and $35 for being unplaced in stakes and overnight handicaps.

They were offered $100 for finishing second, $75 for third and $50 for an unplaced mount in a stakes race worth less than $50,000 and $200, $150 and $100 for richer stakes.

TOWN TALK

A rather ancient press release from the Canadian pickle industry informs us that March was "Hamburger and Pickle Month, a tradition celebrated over the last 747 years."

In other words, what we fondly imagined to be a not-very-old North American custom actually began around the year 1229, only 14 years after Magna Carta was signed at Runnymede and when the Crusades were in full swing.

Then, with a hey-nonny-no and a dash of chivalry, he'd whisk her off to the ride-in, to sample the medieval precursor of two all-beef patties, special sauce and all the rest.

The Salvation Army is kicking off its Red Shield campaign in Centennial Square next Friday and in this case it just might wipe out a city hall window.

The Army has decided to take the whole business literally and has imported Dave Cutler, record-holding place kicker with Edmonton Eskimos, to boot a football over a campaign banner raised in the square. (Cutler teaches in a local high school).

"Music hath charms to soothe a savage breast," according to Congreve, but when it's badly played the effect is likely to be that the savage breast becomes more savage than ever.

This seems to be the general philosophy behind the decision by the Market Square tenants association to hold weekly auditions of street musicians, to ensure that only the best fiddlers, strummers and singers are allowed to perform in the commercial mews complex bounded by Store, Johnson and Pandora.

Ross Sinclair, property manager for developers Fort Victoria Holdings, says some of the minstrels who perform each summer in Bastion Square tend to be short on talent, and the aim of the Market Square auditions is to provide some sort of quality control.

There are about 40 tenants in the mews, offering everything from fish, meat and baked goods to European toys and handicrafts. The feature of the courtyard is a big open air produce market.

Official opening is set for this weekend.

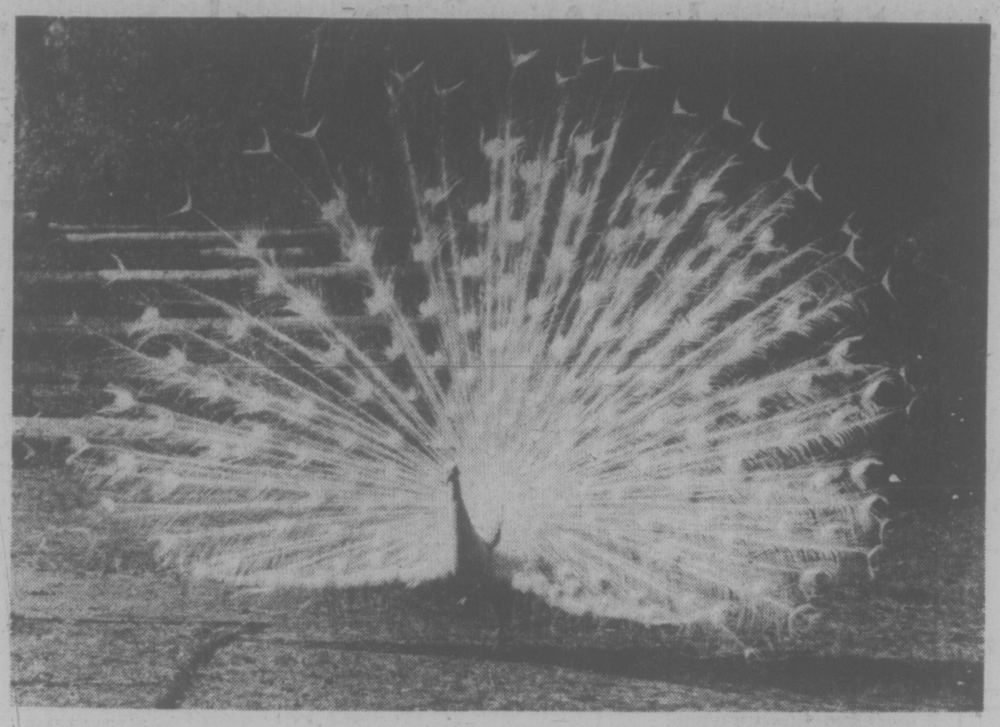
A while ago John and Grace Mune found a hand lying on the boulevard in front of their home at 27 Pilot St. — an artificial hand, we hasten to add, with a steel piece projecting from the wrist.

Mrs. Mune thought it might have somehow gone missing from the Royal London Wax Museum so she turned it over to them.

Not ours, came the reply today from the museum's Edith Bibby. Not wax, for one thing. But maybe the museum can use it in the chamber of horrors where it wouldn't show too much.

Ms. Bibby noted that a man found three fingers on the lawn of the legislature recently. They were wax and had been snapped from poor old Hansel in the museum's Fairyland. Ouch.

BAD WEATHER has kept most of the salmon fishing fleet at home since the spring season started April 15, with the first of them expected to unload their catches in Victoria early next week. Fishermen operating out of Sooke, however, have been making two and three-day sorties to bring in the area's first spring salmon. One that didn't get away is in the grip of Janet Tubman of a Colwood market. (Bill Halkett photo)



Just Like Mae West

If you've got it, flaunt it, the sort of adage attributed to the redoubtable Mae West, has obviously been taken to heart by this peacock at Beacon Hill Park. He decided to strut his spectacular stuff in the sun and was no doubt amazed when the girls didn't all come running. (Bill Halkett photo)

Developers Fought Off

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Staff

Realtors and developers are trying to clock-bust an old Oak Bay neighborhood, a public meeting was told Thursday night.

But the residents of the area bounded by Oak Bay Avenue, Foul Bay Road, Goldsmith Street and Elgin Road made it clear to council they want no change in their neighborhood.

And several residents suggested "block committees" be formed to make sure houseowners keep each other posted about approaches from people who want to buy their homes.

Council called the meeting at the Senior Citizens Centre to hear from residents what — if any — form of redevelopment they want because of many inquiries being made.

But council, in a letter to residents, made it clear it has not approved any application to change the single-family house zoning and no applications are under consideration.

Just over 100 persons attended the meeting, from an area which has 116 single-family houses.

Street by street they were polled, informally, as to whether they want no change whatsoever or whether they want some degree of change.

Seventy of those present expressed views — and 54 of them wanted no change whatsoever.

Unanimously opposed to any change were Goldsmith, Meadow Place and Elgin residents. A minority on Milton, Byron and Chaucer favored some change and only along Foul Bay did a majority favor some change — eight against five.

Numerous residents said they have been approached to sell their homes and a number of them said they were told that townhouses were planned in their place.

But Ald. John Goult, chairman of council's zoning committee who acted as chairman of the public meeting, said there is no proposal before council for a change of land use.

He pointed out council has no control over purchasing of property and options on property, but without any zoning approval developers are "taking a gamble."

He also said, in response to one resident, that any complaints of realtors pestering or pressuring property owners should be made to the Victoria Real Estate Board.

The hot seat of the night was held for a time by Jack Mears, president of Oak Bay Realty Ltd., who said "I can't avoid making the observation — we are in a free democracy. Each of you has a castle and what you do is up to you. No one can force you to do anything."

In response to a question about how much property he owns in the nieghborhood, he said his son owns a house in which he lives and his company has options on two properties.

Asked if he knows of other speculation going on, he said "no."

MAN ROBBED

Two youths are in custody after a 49-year-old man was robbed in Beacon Hill park at noon Thursday.

Victoria police said Alan Parliament, 139 Clarence, was walking along Lovers' Lane near the Cook Street entrance at about 12:35 p.m. when he was grabbed by two youths. They demanded his wallet, took out $8, handed the wallet back and fled.

Parliament ran to a nearby house where police were called.

A police cruiser was in the area looking for a man who held up the Toronto Dominion Bank in Fairfield Plaza an hour earlier and spotted the two suspects near the lane.

CYCLIST INJURED

Colwood RCMP said Michael Dennis Lanning of 2314 Millstream was travelling northbound at 3:15 a.m. when his motorcycle left the road and struck three highways roadmarkers.

Traffic-Free Mall Eyed

Victoria's Government Stree Mall may yet justify its name this summer, as a traffic-free haven for pedestrians.

At the city council meeting on Thursday Ald. Murray Glazier advocated a "significant closure" of the mall to vehicular traffic, telling colleagues he would like to see this implemented "during an important time period, probably weekends and on several blocks."

Glazier said he wants to see the mall "very much populated by people, not cars, for a good and important part of this summer."

But Ald. Bob Wright, who earlier this year was temporary chairman of the traffic committee and seemed to be under the impression that he still is, told Glazier he has "no intention of bringing down a recommendation such as that."

Wright reminded council that it had agonized for several weeks over formulating a new downtown traffic pattern which was partly based on providing access to Government between Humboldt and Yates.

"I don't think we will be closing traffic out of the mall," he stated.

Ald. John Hayes, who noted somewhat pointedly that he is now chairman of the traffic committee, informed council: "The possibility of closing the mall to traffic for a set period of time, such as during the month of August, has not been entirely ruled out."

He said once the new traffic pattern comes into operation at the end of May it will be closely monitored, and if the results indicate that a temporary closure is feasible it will be introduced on an experimental basis.

Commented Mayor Mike Young: "It's a question of whether we close our eyes, our minds or the mall."

Anglicans Must End Insularity: Bishop

The danger of white Anglican insularity in a world where colored Anglicans predominate carries the risk of dying alone, Bishop of British Columbia Roy Gartrell told church delegates meeting here Thursday.

In his charge to the opening of the 73rd synod of the diocese of B.C. the bishop told some 225 clergy and lay delegates one of the things Anglicans here are liable to be unaware of is that "on any given Sunday, there are more black and brown Anglicans worshipping in church than in all the white countries combined.

"The problems faced by the church in Africa particularly are so different from ours as to shake us in our conception of the church," Gartrell said.

In the West "one can almost sense the tide receding from Anglicanism" while in Africa numbers are being added so fast it is impossible to supply sufficient ordained ministers.

"To have a white face in those areas is no asset, hence the attempt, courageous attempt, to supply an indigenous ministry," the bishop said.

The result has been development of a lay ministry for such things as baptisms, communions and acting under authority of the bishop "in a way at which some in Canada would look askance," and shock some conventional Anglicans.

OPEN SPACE SHUT

The Open Space theatre at 510 Fort Street will be closed for two to three months while "major renovations" are in progress, a spokesman said today.

Artistic director Bill Bartlett said the Greater Victoria Theatrebox Society which administers Open Space has been negotiating for the purchase of the building, and has asked its architect to come up with "plausible modifications" to the theatre.

With April's performance program almost completed, he said, "it seemed the best time to look into these changes."

The gallery at 510 Fort is unaffected by the work and will remain open.

Ask The Times

Q. Do you have any idea how Nanoose, between Nanaimo and Parksville, got its name? I imagine it's an Indian name. T.O.

A. Yes it is. The name is actually a corruption of the Indian term nu-nuas, meaning "tending inwards," in reference to Nanoose harbor.

STUBBORN FIRE

About $5,000 damage was done when fire broke out in a house at 5290 Rocky Point Road at 11:30 p.m. Thursday, a spokesman for the Metchosin volunteer fire department said today.

Firemen spent two hours at the scene fighting the stubborn blaze which was confined to the roof.

Cause of the fire hasn't been determined but is suspected of being either electrical or a faulty chimney. Names of the occupants were not available.

Loot Was $2,800

Victoria police said today the shotgun-wielding man who held up the Toronto Dominion bank, 1568 Fairfield Thursday got away with $2,800.

Police are looking for a man described as five feet three or four inches tall, between 25 to 30 years of age, weighing about 135 lbs. with a pale complexion, pimply face and light brown hair.

The man was wearing a green and black workshirt, and either green or blue pants. He dropped a navy blue toque as he fled the bank.

Empress Convention Plan Splits City

Empress Hotel manager Ted Balderson said today he will endorse any Victoria brief to Canadian Pacific to double the convention facilities at his hotel in place of a civic centre.

He was commenting on a speech to the Rotary Club Thursday by Eric Charman, immediate past president of the Victoria Real Estate Board, who urged Victoria merchants to vote against a Chamber of Commerce proposal to increase the business tax to provide a start-up fund for a civic centre.

The ballots went in the mail to 937 merchants Thursday afternoon and some had received them today.

Balderson said he would like to see a two-storey car park constructed at the present parking site to hold 300 cars, compared with the present total of 160 cars.

In addition, he would like to see the Crystal Ballroom expanded to hold a banquet size of at least 1,000 compared with the present limit of 600.

Mayor Mike Young said today he would give full support to a brief to CPR headquarters urging expansion at the Empress.

"Getting action out of CPR historically has been difficult, like trying to move mountains, but if there is any chance at all, I am sure council will support this proposal."

He declined comment on the vote being conducted by the chamber.

Ald. William Tindall today said he will vote against the chamber proposal to raise the business tax to six per cent from five per cent, favoring the Empress proposal instead.

Ald. Bob Ellis, who was one of the originators of the business tax increase proposal, urged merchants to vote yes, despite the Empress expansion plan.

He said that if the CPR agrees to the idea, the business tax increase could be rescinded.

Chamber president Jack Hutchins said today he would give full support to any brief urging expansion at The Empress. As far as the chamber ballot was concerned, he would make no recommendation on how merchants should vote.

"The time has come for them to make up their own minds," he said.

He said the board of directors of chamber voted unanimously to endorse the tax increase proposal but the ballot was at the request of Mayor Young and the important thing now was to get a free expression of opinion. The merchants have until May 10 to return their ballots.

In his speech to Rotary, Charman was critical of the ballot, calling it deceptive because it talks of a one per cent increase, when in fact the increase is 20 per cent.

The five per cent business tax brings in about $1 million per year. An increase to six per cent would bring in 20 per cent more or an extra $200,000.

Charman said the ballot also lacked adequate controls because whoever opened the envelope at a local business could mark the ballot and mail it in.

"The merchants should vote no or just ignore it entirely," Charman said.

Ald. Tindall said the business tax might have to be doubled to 10 per cent from five per cent, just to handle the debt servicing of any civic centre constructed in Victoria.

If the structure costs $10 million, it would require revenues of $2,200 every day of the year just to pay the interest on the loan.

"The mathematics of the thing are staggering."

Tindall said a study in Washington State showed that of 1,300 conventions held that year, only three per cent were larger than 500 people.

"It would be folly to construct a convention centre for 2,000 or 3,000 people here in view of the experience of Seattle and Vancouver."

Of the Washington State conventions in 1974, 62 per cent were for 200 delegates or less.

A convention hall on the scale suggested by Balderson and run by private enterprise made far more sense, Tindall said.

Under the chamber of commerce proposal, a civic centre of unspecified size would be constructed in Victoria on grants from provincial and municipal governments and from funds provided by the merchants.

As a start, the merchants would contribute about $200,000 in the form of a one per cent increase in the business tax. This starting fund would attract other grants.

In his speech to Rotary, Charman said the merchants were being too optimistic about the conventions that could be attracted to Victoria in the winter months.

In eastern Canada large conventions tended to go to Florida and in the west many were going to California, Arizona or Nevada.

They'll Go to Nearly Any Depth

caveat emptor

By LYNNE GORDON

Fraudulent home improvement contractors will sink to any depth to get a homeowner to sign a contract.

One flagrant example comes from a fraud investigation officer. He tells a story about a 70-year-old widow living alone in her own house. She was devout and the Bible was an important part of her life. An unscrupulous home improvement contractor found out about her interests and started coming by to read the Bible to her. Eventually, after gaining her trust, he talked her into signing a $20,000 contract for home improvements she couldn't afford. He even helped her mortgage her house to raise the money.

Whenever she hesitated about signing the contract, he told her that if he didn't get this contract, he'd be fired and couldn't afford to lose his job because he had four children to support. The clincher came on the day when his "boss" came rushing up to the elderly lady's house threatening to fire him if he didn't come up with a contract soon.

In the end when the fraud came to light, the woman refused to become a complainant for the police, because the young man would be fired and his children would be out on the street.

That was one case where the police couldn't act. But there have been others where consumers have overcome their embarrassment at being "had" and have agreed to become complainants. They gave fraud investigators what was needed to start investigation and lay charges.

The pitch usually begins with a flyer stuffed into a mailbox and followed up by a visit from a smartly-dressed salesman driving an expensive car.

Among other things, he may attempt to find out where the consumer does her banking (all too often the victims are elderly women alone in their homes). He can then check with the bank, explaining that he is a contractor doing a job for Mrs. X and would like to know whether she has enough in her account to cover a $10,000 contract. The teller doesn't need to tell him how much she does have but a confirmation can be given that there's enough to cover the amount of the cheque. Now the unscrupulous operator knows that she's good for at least $10,000.

Homeowners who sign these contracts, expect that everyone is as honest as they are.

Usually the work is started, at least the demolition part, but if any finished work is attempted, it's usually very poor quality and needs to be re-done by another, honest contractor.

The honest contractors are as anxious to get rid of the fly-by-nighters and fraudulent contractors as consumers are.

You can make some checks to determine whether you do have an honest contractor.

First of all, always ask for two or three estimates on any home improvement work you want done. Don't necessarily go for the lowest quote. It may not be a bargain — the workmanship and materials may be inferior. Look for the middle range . . . the average.

You can also check the contractors work by asking for names of past customers. Talk to them and, if possible, visit them to look at the work.

Check the reputation of the contractor you've chosen as extensively as possible. Call the Better Business Bureau and the provincial consumer protection bureau. Also check with the municipal licensing commission to make sure that the contractor is licensed.

Where you do your banking is none of the contractors business. You should also be skepitcal of a contractor who demands a large down-payment before starting work. After he gets most of the money, he may disappear leaving you with an unfinished job. A modest sum, such as $100 on a $5,000 contract should be sufficient to show your goodwill.

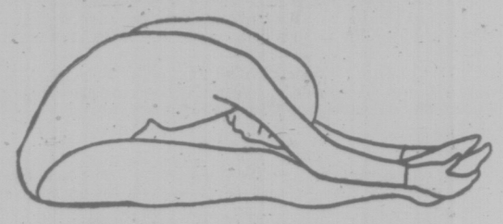
This Isn't Your Average Sit-Up

By NORA ANDERSON



(Third of a Seven-Part Series)

Here is the Head-to-Knee, a forward-bending exercise that at a quick glance, (see sketch 2) resembles a sit-up. However, there is actually very little similarity between this asana and the conventional sit-up.

To do the Head-to-Knee, lie flat on your back with your arms extended overhead on the floor.

Do a short cleansing breath (a quick forceful exhale) "a and the inhale as you begin to sit up very slowly.

Co-ordinate your inhaling with the motion of sitting up, and sit up so slowly that the muscles quiver slightly. When you are sitting straight, begin to exhale and bend forward toward the knees.

Learn to bend from the pelvic region of the back and always coordinate the breath with the motion. The head should be tucked towards the knees and the hands should be resting on the feet.

Hold the position as best you can — without any pain or discomfort. Let the muscles relax in the position and feel the sensation of a pleasant stretch.

Next, inhale until you are sitting erect again.

Then exhale as you slowly descend to the floor and rest.

When you are descending, do not let gravity force you to the floor. Using the strength of the muscles, descend slowly of your own will.

Let the muscles quiven; tnis will give them a thorough and deep exercise.

The benefits of the exercise are the strengthening of the abdominal muscles, the strengthening of the hamstrings in the back of the knees, increased flexibility of the thighs and the spine, and the toning of the muscles in the stomach and thighs. This exercise should be repeated two to three times.

Next week we will do the TWIST, which is a neutral exercise.

dear abby

Wife's Buddy, Too?

DEAR ABBY: Buddy, a guy I work with, likes to fish and so do I, so last weekend he and I went on a fishing trip. When we came home and Buddy met my wife for the first time, he looked her up and down, and then he turned to me and said, "Hey, man, you must be nuts to leave a beautiful gal like that alone for the weekend."

Do you think I was?—LIKES TO FISH

DEAR LIKES: I don't know about THAT weekend, but the next time you go fishing, be sure to take Buddy with you.

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I married a widow. I owned a home, but it was too large for two people, so I sold it and moved into hers. She had a mortgage on it, which I paid off, then I bought her home from her and put it in both our names.

The problem is her son. He has been in a lot of trouble with the law. (Burglaries.) Right now he's on probation.

He has always carried a key to his mother's house, which means he can come and go as he pleases, whether we're home or not.

I have missed a pair of expensive binoculars, a portable TV and a very good camera. I believe this young man took them and sold them. His mother thinks so, too, and she has asked him for the key. He gives her one excuse after another and still has the key.

How can we get the key back without making an ugly scene?—CHICAGOAN

DEAR CHICAGOAN: Forget the key. Change the locks.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a mature, 15-year-old girl, and I can't wait until my next birthday so I can quit school and leave home.

My mother is always on my back about something. Nothing I do ever pleases her. She has never trusted me, even when I had nothing to hide. She makes me feel so low and cheap. I can't wait to get away from this house and HER.

There is this dude I really dig. He's 22 and being divorced. I'm not supposed to be seeing him, but I see him anyway. He says when I turn 16 I'll be able to do what I please, then he'll take me on the road with him. He's a trucker and makes good money.

It wouldn't be a shacking up deal, Abby. He wants to MARRY me as soon as his divorce comes through. He's got two kids, but his wife keeps them, and she doesn't hassle him because he's always been on time with the support cheques.

I love this dude, and the only thing I can say against him is that he gets awfully mean when he drinks. But he's not an alcoholic, and he never drinks on the job.

Help me decide what to do. Anything would be better than living here.—WANTS TO RUN

DEAR WANTS: Of all the reasons to marry, yours is the poorest. Please get some counselling, dear. Your school has a service for troubled students. And a talk with a clergyman would help. But the word from here is to stay home and get your head together.

DEAR ABBY: I am 23 years old, divorced and the father of a beautiful two-year-old daughter.

Every week I drive 650 miles to see her. We love seeing each other, but when I prepare to leave, she cries and begs me not to go. It just tears me apart.

I love her so much I can't bring myself to let her forget me. Some of my friends are divorced, and they never see their kids. They say that it's just a matter of putting them out of your mind and that if I really loved Lisa, I would be a man about it, get out of her life and stay out.

Would it be more humane to Lisa if I just walked out of her life and never came back so that she could forget about me? — DESPERATE DADDY.

DEAR DADDY: I disagree with your friends. In time Lisa will learn to accept the fact that you come and go. She will also realize that you love her. If you suddenly disappear forever, she'll assume you've deserted her. Continue seeing Lisa whenever possible and try to build a good father-daughter relationship.

Hospital Ombudsman Offsets Loneliness

OTTAWA (CP) — The loneliness, fear and frustration many people feel in the often impersonal atmosphere of large hospitals is being eased by a new hospital worker — the hospital ombudsman.

Ombudsmen, or patient representatives, help protect hospitals and doctors, say some medical observers. They soothe patients who might begin a malpractice suit or complain to the media, creating damaging publicity.

U.S. hospitals have been using ombudsmen for 12 years but Canadian hospitals only started hiring them about three years ago.

A U.S. government study is said to show the number of malpractice suits dropped dramatically with the advent of patient representatives.

Helen Pilon, an ombudsman at Ottawa General Hospital, is one of seven in Canada. She says she feels her work has done much to brighten the hospital stay of patients.

"Most people come to me with little nagging problems," she says.

"I've learned that you have to look beyond their words and try to understand the true complaint. I come across a lot of loneliness."

To fight this loneliness, Miss Pilon has begun a volunteer visiting program.

"You'd be surprised how much it means to people to be visited by someone they believe really cares how they are. Many patients feel their doctors don't have time to care — that they rush in, poke them and leave."

Miss Pilon says she spends much of her time explaining things to people — why they are being discharged, hospital routines, and their doctor's diagnosis, for example.

"People are more informed now because of television and newspaper articles and they want honest answers to their questions." Miss Pilon says she can go "right to the top" to get these answers and has never found any resistance among her co-workers.

She says 12 years as head nurse on the 3:30 p.m. to 11:30 shift, when she was responsible for all the hospital and had to solve any problems that came up, was excellent training.

medical report

By DR. WILLIAM J. WELCH

It may come as a shock to devoted young mothers and fathers that they could be neglecting their young ones, but it is certainly neglect that is responsible for more small children being killed or injured inside automobiles than outside.

Moreover, neglect accounts for the fact that after the critical early months of life, the automobile is the leading cause of the death of children.

According to Anne Marie Shelness and Dr. Seymour Charles, the absence of proper restraining devices especially designed for children and infants is responsible for this wholly unnecessary carnage. Simple parental action in applying safety restraints is all that is needed, but such information, according to Ms. Shelness and Dr. Charles, is simply not being made available.

As a matter of fact, the U.S. government is now pressuring state governments to enact legislation that requires the use of safety belts. But these requirements do not include infants and small children, which leads many to the conclusion young ones are less vulnerable than grbwnups in motor accidents. Actually, they are more vulnerable.

The use of a conventional safety belt is better than no restraint at all, but for children in general, and particularly for those weighing less than 40 pounds, special restraining devices designed to distribute the crash forces over a large body area are needed.

Such devices that have successfully withstood actual crash testing are now on the market. They are more expensive than those that meet minimal government requirements. Moreover, they must be installed correctly, and the harnesses must be carefully attached both to the child and the car seat.

Rearward facing, cradle-like carriers with an inner safety harness for infants can be secured to the car seat by a conventional lap belt. Others have protective shields for older children, traditional forward-looking seats with upper and lower anchorage straps and internal safety harness, and safety harnesses that attach directly to the car seat.

These crash-tested devices can be bought in department and juvenile specialty stores, as well as through many new-car dealers.

A Way to Solve 'Weighty' Problem

Here's a "weighty" problem that you can solve with just a small investment:

If you've tried to buy a small scale of any kind lately, you know they can be pretty expensive. But if you've got a few ordinary materials around your home or shop, you can make one for nothing.

Reader Gordon Solberg wired a burlap sack to one end of a carpenter's level and an empty paint bucket to the other. Then he tied a string around the middle of the level, suspended the whole works and shifted things back and forth until the level was . . . well, level.

Whatever you want to weigh goes in the burlap sack; then pour water into the bucket until all is level again. Measure the amount of water you used with an ordinary measuring cup that's divided into fluid ounces (there are 160 fluid ounces in one Imperial gallon of water, which weighs 10 lbs.). You can probably get within an ounce of the actual weight, which isn't bad for a scale that can be thrown together in five minutes!'.

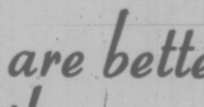
The main disadvantage of such an instrument is that you have to measure water each time you weigh something. Solberg decided to make a scale that he could calibrate just once. The result — a simple spring scale.

Just hang up a spring, dangle a known amount of water from the end and mark how far the spring stretches. The accuracy of such a scale is limited by the stretchiness of its main working component. A loose, very elastic spring can measure small weights quite precisely, but too much weight can permanently deform the spring. A stiff coil can measure larger weights, but it doesn't stretch much per pound of additional load, so it's more difficult to calibrate. So you'll have to play one against the other.

No, your homemade scales won't be the most accurate in the world — but you can't beat the price.

Unity Bid Fails

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—A three-year effort to unite the sharply divided Missouri synod of the Lutheran Church has failed, a church official said.



indoor gardens

I read recently in your column that one of your friends had a Ficus Benjamina, and had decided these trees are commonly called "Weeping Figs" because they're weeping over their lack of ability to produce that succulent fruit.

Well, tell your friend to cheer up! It CAN have figs. My "Binnie" did. I keep her in a north window, water her only when the soil dries out, and lo — this year she produced two figs. I sent you one of them. They both fell off but were on the the very top branch on both sides of the leaf node. How do you like those "apples"? — P.R.

DEAR P.R.:

To be perfectly honest, we were delighted, but our friend is weeping more than ever now because the fig you sent us was so small she felt sorry for it. However, you Ficus Benjamina WILL produce small, green, hard berries (the seeds for this beautiful tree-like house plant are inside these berries), so figs or no figs it's never going to be a total loss.

By the way, many Benjaminas have a tendency to drop their leaves during winter months, but don't fret — they'll either come back right where the tree stands come spring, or, if your tree isn't too heavy to carry, a couple of weeks outside once the weather becomes mild won't hurt it a bit. Oh, and if it ever bears another fig, send it along and we'll try to bake the world's smallest fig-newton.

OVERCOME BY SMOKE Burkett Robinson, 64, is revived by Victoria ambulance attendant after fire in Waverley Rooms, 1417 Douglas Thursday night sent tenants scurrying to the street. Fire started at about 10 p.m. in basement. No major damage was done. Robinson and another tenant, Violet Kent, 55, were taken to Victoria General Hospital for treatment of smoke inhalation. Mrs. Kent was admitted with a leg injury received before the fire.

'Court Tying My Hands'—Inmate

A 32-year-old Wilkinson Road jail inmate lost a legal argument Thursday in Victoria provincial court for his freedom, then started a verbal argument that "the court is tying my hands."

What started out as a routine weekly remand for Larry Alan Preston, a long-time Victoria resident, wound up with Judge Harold Alder rejecting his bid for freedom and advising him to get Legal Aid and either go to a higher court or wait until May 6 in provincial court.

Preston is scheduled for a preliminary hearing May 6 on a Saanich escaping charge laid in connection with the 10-man Wilkinson Road break Dec. 16. He was arrested in a Victoria home the next day.

Known as an expert in the finer points of the law, Preston told Alder the prosecution had "lost jurisdiction over both the offence and the person" and he therefore should be set free.

He said he had been held in Wilkinson on another charge which was disposed of later, then presented a stack of documents which had been months in preparation to prove his claim to freedom because the crown missed one of his weekly remands Jan. 6.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett and Preston argued over the usual legal guide in such a case — a 1970 Manitoba appeal court ruling that jurisdiction is retained even if one remand is missed, so long as the accused person is back in court a week later, as Preston was Jan. 13.

Preston said a 1975 Vancouver court ruling changed that, but Birkett replied the circumstances were different and, anyway, Preston should save his argument for May 6. Alder supported that and added a suggestion that Preston could also go to a higher court.

Preston counter-suggested an identically-worded new charge to solve the problem but Alder said he could only order another weekly remand. That started a new argument as Preston then asked for a court order giving him access to a law library, a phone and witnesses.

The judge proposed Legal Aid but Preston had disagreed with two appointed lawyers and wanted to defend himself. He claimed Legal Aid had refused to assist him but a Legal Aid spokesman said outside court that "is not correct."

The spokesman declined to add details because "the office is still in the process of dealing with the matter."

When Preston charged that "the court is tying my hands," Alder replied that "it is not . . . you are trying your own by not obtaining counsel" and again urged an application to Legal Aid.

Preston said a judge in 1963 had issued an order allowing him to study law books and added, "I want it to go on the record that I object to the court's position . . . I again ask for some order to facilitate a meaningful defence."

"You seem to have some access," said Alder. "You must have access to a library somewhere."

Earlier in the day, Preston had appeared in county court before Judge E. J. C. Stewart on charges of breaking and entering and theft. He was remanded for the seventh time.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

"I just meant to throw the pitcher . . . I didn't expect to break the window" was the way a Victoria woman explained an April 4 incident to Saanich police, prosecutor Peter Birkett said Thursday in Victoria provincial court.

Juanita Lorraine Steigenberger, 2512 Fernwood, pleaded guilty before Judge Harold Alder to a Saanich charge of mischief. Birkett said the empty beer pitcher was thrown from just outside the door of a cafe of 1520 McKenzie after the management had refused further service to two men and one woman.

Birkett said the pitcher shattered a front door window two feet by seven feet, valued at $93.80, but the pitcher didn't break.

Alder put Ms. Steigenberger on probation for seven months, gave her until Oct. 31 to pay $93.80 of the damage and added an order for 30 hours of community-service work.

In the court section of Judge Blake Allan, an 18-year-old Prince George youth who robbed a friend was sentenced to 12 months in a detention centre for youth, to be followed by two years' probation.

Larry Joseph Lesperance pleaded guilty April 9 to the theft of seven credit cards Feb. 19 from a friend who gave him a ride and to three other charges of uttering, false pretences and making a false statement in using the cards Feb. 19 and 20.

Allan ordered Lesperance to repay a total of $367.72 to three Victoria firms within eight months of his release to make up for losses they sustained when the cards were used.

Christopher Ward Ingalls, 18, chose trial by county court judge on a charge of escaping and being unlawfully at large March 30 from the Jordan River camp while Gary Allan Smith, 18, chose trial by judge and jury on an identical charge.

Alder set their preliminary hearings for July 30 after learning the two are in custody on other matters. Smith was jailed last November and Ingalls March 22; eight days before two inmates of the camp were reported missing at 11:30 a.m. and picked up four hours later.

The inmates were hitch-hiking on a road two miles from the camp when a guard on the way to work drove by.

A charge of trafficking in speed in Victoria Sept. 25, 1975, was read against Laurelle Rose Lomax, 18, a resident of the Fraser Valley community of Mission who was charged under the name of Lori Head. Alder approved her release on her undertaking to return next week for possible election of trial method.

In traffic court, Dean Thomas Daly, 37, of 3951 Douglas, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving Friday in Saanich and was sentenced by Judge William Ostler to a jail term of 24 days to be served intermittently. Daly was also ordered to take the impaired-driver course.

Ten persons who pleaded guilty to separate drink-and-drive charges were fined a total of $3,200 by Judge William Ostler.

Largest fine was $500, imposed against Harold John Hole, 61, of 2666 Topp, for impaired driving April 9 in Saanich. He was also barred from driving for two years.

Vernon Wong, 29, Work Point Barracks, was fined a total of $500 for impaired driving and refusing to take a breath-analysis test early Thursday in the Colwood area.

Fined $400 each for impaired driving were Martin Michael Cooper, 39, of 7941 West Saanich, stopped April 3 in Sidney, and Douglas James Robertson, 51, of 1138 Yates, April 8 in Sidney.

Other penalties for impaired driving were $300 for Robert John Hodgson, 25, of 1621 Fernwood, April 2 in Central Saanich; $300 for Hugh Robert Marks, 24, of 71 Marler, Friday in Saanich, and $100 and a six-month driving ban for Peter Jones, 32, of 10433 Patricia Bay Highway, April 8 in Sidney.

Fines for driving with a breath-analysis reading of more than .08 per cent were $250 for Glenn Victor Barlow, 17, of 1412 Beatty, April 10 in Colwood; $250 for Valde Maureen McCrae, 26, of 2817 Jacklin, April 13 in Victoria, and $200 for William John Prunkl, 20, of 4105 Tuxedo, April 14 in Saanich.

Nickolas Ludwig Scherf, 25, of 1246 Fairfield, was fined $200 by Alder, who also put Scherf on probation for one year and ordered him to do community-service work.

Scherf pleaded guilty March 23 to a Victoria charge of attempting to utter a forged medical prescription Feb. 13 at McGill and Orme pharmacy, 649 Fort.

Apartment Parking Leaves Council Split

Victoria city council found itself sharply divided on a matter of parking philosophy Thursday, when it turned down by a 5-3 vote a land-use contract application for a co-operative apartment at 530 Simcoe Street.

The development was proposed by the Dome Co-operative Housing Association as a low-cost project using provincially-owned land to provide 47 small suites (about 550 square feet) to its over-40 membership.

Because it couldn't meet the 130 per cent parking requirement under the R32 apartment zoning category, the group sought to bypass the regulations under a land-use contract.

The Advisory Planning Commission (APC) had recommended rejection of the application because parking standards were "unacceptable," but Ald. John Hayes urged concil not to accept the APC's recommendation.

He pointed out that all the units would be one-bedroom suites, one-third of the co-op's members don't own cars and, in any case, tenants' guests would not be able to park on the streets for there is no on-street parking available in the area.

Hayes said the co-op had been working on the scheme for two years, and in that time the city had "moved the goalposts" on its members by increasing parking requirements from 100 per cent (one parking space for every unit) to 130 per cent.

Dismissing that argument as "specious," Mayor Mike Young said such hazards were a fact of life in the development business. "They took too long to get on with it; it's not our problem," he said.

But Young agreed there was some logic in Hayes' statement about the lack of on-street parking, and Ald. Bob Wright and Ald. Bob Ellis also supported that point of view.

Ellis said the city should be trying to discourage the use of cars, and the Dome apartment provided such an opportunity.

Ald. Alf Hood, zoning committee chairman, warned council that it was treading on dangerous ground in considering any relaxations to its residential parking standards, which were only established recently after "months and months of agonizing."

He also noted that there is no guarantee the present number of co-op members who do not own cars will not increase in the future.

Ald. Murray Glazier said it was naive to suppose that the mere fact of not providing parking spaces would limit the number of vehicles. People visiting the apartment would have to park somewhere, and if no street parking was available in the immediate vicinity they would park further afield and place additional pressure on adjacent residential streets.

Although the Dome co-op was described by the APC as a "middle - to - low - income group," Ald. Ron McKenzie said as members are in their forties with their children off their hands they "could buy boats, trailers etc., and without any parking provided, we could end up with one hell of a mess down there."

$440,000 In Grants Possible

Recent federal incentives for municipalities to encourage development of moderately priced housing should make the city of Victoria eligible for at least $440,000 in grants, Ald. Murray Glazier told city council Thursday.

In view of current concern over the 1976 budget, he said, it's interesting to note that the money doesn't have to be set aside for housing purposes, and can be absorbed in general revenue.

It comes from a federal program which gives municipalities $1,000 for every building permit issued for rental and condominium units which meet certain requirements.

These include stipulations on site density and floor area, and the requirement that unit price must fall within the Assisted Home Ownership Program (AHOP) limits, now set at a ceiling of $45,000 for Victoria.

Ex-N. Saanich Alderman Dies

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in Holy Trinity Anglican Church, West Saanich Road, for F. Clifford Adams, a former North Saanich alderman and well-known yachtsman, who died here Thursday. He was 76.

Born in Victoria, he had been a resident of the Saanich Peninsula for the last 30 years. He served as an alderman on North Saanich council for two terms from 1966 to 1970.

During his term of office, he was a moving force behind the construction of the Sidney library. At the time of his death, he was chairman of the Deep Cove Waterworks Board.

For 11 years before the war, he was electrical technician with the B.C. Telephone Co. in Victoria. In 1939 he joined the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve and during his service in the Second World War spent considerable time as an anti-submarine technician.

Later he became the first commanding officer of the navy's first electrical school in Halifax. He retired from the naval service as a commander.

He is survived by his widow, Mary, at 10938 Fernie Wynd; two brothers, Adm. K. F. Adams, Sidney, and Donald M. Adams, Vancouver; two sisters, Mrs. E. F. Fox, Duncan and Mrs. F. H. Norton, Saanichton; and two grandchildren, David and Nancy McPhee.

Flowers are gratefully declined; donations may be sent to the B.C. Heart Foundation, 620 View Street.

DEBENTURES OFFERED

Ron Andrews, chairman of the Munccipal Finance Authority of British Columbia, Thursday announced a public offering of $52.5 million of 8¾ per cent sinking fund debentures due May 1, 2001. Andrews, who is also mayor of North Vancouver District, said the debentures were offered to the public at par.

Observatory Re-Opens

Public viewing at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory resumes Saturday from 8-10 p.m., following a two-month closure for instrument maintenance.

After daylight saving time starts early Sunday, public observing hours will be 9-11 p.m. until Sept. 4.

Visitors to the observatory on Little Saanich Mountain may see the 72-inch telescope and exhibits weekdays 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. and on weekends 9 a.m.-8 p.m., May 8 to Sept. 6.

Soliah: Love in the Underground

Times News Services

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Patricia Hearst's underground lover, Steven Soliah, testified Thursday how their love affair and plans to flee to Oregon were wrecked when FBI agents arrested the fugitive heiress last September.

"I lived with her. I slept with her. We had a close relationship. We felt very close to each other," Soliah told jurors in his bank robbery trial.

"We were planning on moving to Oregon," but, "on Sept. 18, I was arrested."

He said he heard on the radio that Miss Hearst's fugitive companions, William and Emily Harris, had been arrested, and how he went to Miss Hearst's apartment too late to warn her.

"I wanted to make sure that Patty was all right," said Soliah. But when he arrived there, he said: "I was arrested."

The young house painter, who became the fugitive heiress's underground lover, told a jury he did not join in the terrorist bank robbery for which he is standing trial and never questioned Miss Hearst about it.

"I had learned not to ask questions," Soliah said at one point. "I didn't feel I needed to know."

He was curious when Miss Hearst stored cash in the refrigerator at one of their hideouts, he said. But he didn't press her on where she got the money.

Soliah told his love story to explain how he was connected to the SLA and Miss Hearst.

"I felt sorry for her at that time," he said. "I felt close to her. I wanted to help her. She seemed kind of confused."

In testimony which lasted a full day, Soliah gave the first public details of Miss Hearst's mysterious "missing year" in the underground which she refused to discuss at her own San Francisco bank-robbery trial.

He placed her in Sacramento for most of that year including the time of the April 21, 1975, Carmichael bank robbery — and said she was determined not to be captured.

"She told me she hated her parents, that she'd been abandoned by them and didn't want to go back to them," he said of the heiress.

"She said she wanted to stay in Sacramento, stay underground. She didn't want to go home."

Miss Hearst said at her trial that she was an SLA captive, too terrified of the Harrises to escape. Soliah confirmed that Miss Hearst "had a hard time getting along" with the Harrises.

NEW YORK — Barbara Walters, co-host of NBC television's Today show, has been hired by ABC television to co-anchor the ABC Evening News and for other news projects. Neither ABC nor Miss Walters disclosed how much she will be paid. However, published reports had put the ABC offer at $1 million a year. "I felt they made me an offer I couldn't refuse," said Miss Walters, 43, who joined the Today show as a staff writer in 1961.

DETROIT — Federal investigators believe former Teamster union president James Hoffa may have been murdered by underworld figures because of his determination to resume union activities, it was reported today. The Detroit Free Press quoted an unnamed high-ranking justice department official as saying: "There was a strong likelihood that Hoffa was coming back to the Teamsters Union. That was a matter of concern to underworld figures who had acquired influence in the union and its pension fund during Hoffa's tenure as well as during (successor Frank) Fitzsimmons."

LONDON — Princess Anne's doctor says she is making an excellent recovery from a riding spill and there is nothing to stop her from resuming competition for this summer's Montreal Olympics. Dr. Richard Bayliss, also said Anne, who is recovering from a mild concussion, still had a headache.

PARIS — Swedish film director Ingmar Bergman, in seclusion at a luxurious Paris hotel, will travel to New York in a few days to make a film in the United States, film industry sources said today. Bergman announced Thursday he was going into self-exile to start a new life and a new career, away from what he called the harassment and threats of Swedish tax officials. In Stockholm Prime Minister Olof Palme said today he was "deeply sorry" that Bergman had gone into self-exile.

LONDON — Former Labor Prime minister Harold Wilson will appear before the Queen on bended knee at Windsor Castle June 14 to receive the title "Sir Harold." Retiring prime ministers are usually offered an earldom, or at least a life barony. But Wilson, who retired as prime minister on April 5, has preferred to remain a back bencher in the House of Commons.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — A former secretary to Howard Hughes says she typed part of the reclusive industrialist's will in 1951, charging some of the billionaire's aides hid the document to conceal that they had "their hands in the till," stealing from him. She wants to tell her story to the U.S. Internal Revenue Service, she said. Mrs. Elanor Rohrbeck, 61, said she was one of two personal secretaries to Hughes in 1951 when she typed an addition to a will originally made by Hughes in 1949. She said she thinks the will still exists. "Hughes once told me that 'every S.O.B. has his hands in my pocket'," Mrs. Rohrbeck said. "He believed that when he died some would be caught with their hands in the till. This is why some of the self-anointed heads (of the Hughes empire) don't want the will found."

NEW YORK — Comedienne Totie Fields' left leg has been amputated to deal with damage caused by phlebitis, a Columbia Presbyterian Hospital spokesman said Thursday. "Her vital signs are good," a hospital spokesman said. "She'll be in the intensive care unit another two or three days."

. . . But Isn't It?

VANCOUVER — Foreign correspondents, especially non-Canadians, tend to work in somewhat of a void, says Diane Willman, CBC stringer in Beirut.

Willman, an Australian who also works for the Australian Broadcasting Corporation is on her first visit to Canada.

"Until I came here, it never occurred to me that anyone in Canada actually listened," she said Wednesday.

McCarthy Myths Charged

Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy is perpetuating myths about women, according to a Victoria woman who is trying to break down those myths.

Norrie Preston of the federal advisory council on the status of women said remarks by McCarthy this week "have helped to perpetuate the myth that women are not interested in earning a living or establishing economic independence."

The minister told a luncheon celebrating Secretaries Day Wednesday that the government will make opportunities available for women in higher civil service positions but it cannot legislate equality.

The reality is, said McCarthy, that women have the additional burden of being wives and mothers and have always had to work harder.

"She's saying that all women must do is put forward a little extra effort and those higher positions will be available," said Preston.

Women make up about 40 per cent of the work force and 100 per cent of low paying jobs, she said.

In 1901, said Preston, 15 per cent of working women held professional jobs and in 1971 the percentage is still only 16.

So women are still locked into job ghettos, she said.

Preston agreed that women have added responsibilities but said that should only mean taking at most about 10 to 15 years out of a career and that time does not account for the employment figures.

McCarthy should establish special job programs for women to help encourage an end to discrimination, not perpetuate it, said Preston.

Meteor Shower

HONG KONG (UPI)—More than 100 meteorites, including a fireball that weighed almost two tons, fell on northeast China last month in one of the largest known meteorite showers in history.

FISH AGREEMENT RENEWED

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the United States have renewed for a year an agreement under which fishermen from both countries have certain rights and privileges to fish in the other's waters.

The external affairs department said the agreement is extended while consultations continue on a reciprocal agreement that will cover the 200-mile offshore zone that both countries are working toward.

The present agreement was concluded in 1970 and revised in 1973. It provides that fishermen from both countries can fish for designated species in designated areas of the other country's territory on a reciprocal basis.

Coast Guard War Urged Against Logs

BROOKS

Tougher laws are needed against logging companies which scatter logs and menace pleasure craft, says Capt. Don Brooks, Port Alberni harbormaster.

To enforce those laws, he adds, the Canadian coast guard must be expanded.

"There's a need for something like the U.S. coast guard. You don't get away with spilling logs on the Columbia River. If there's a spill the coast guard patrol boat is there the next morning and you're going to be cleaning up that mess."

The latest victim of a deadhead is the $40,000 pleasure craft Lucky Louie, belonging to Surrey Mayor Ed McKitka that sank in eight minutes after hitting a deadhead near Saturna Island. McKitka has sworn to mount a campaign for action against the floating menace.

Brooks has been harbormaster of Port Alberni for 15 years.

He said the Port Alberni Harbor Commission began insisting the forest industry cooperate on a prevention of spills and cleanup program about 10 years ago.

"The program received more attention when recreation boating became the thing to do. They're very vulnerable to floating logs and deadheads. The commission came on very strong and started an intensive program at that time," he said.

The program is jointly sponsored by the commission and the forest industry. The latest piece of equipment added to the commission's inventory is the 40-foot Harbor Clearwater, a self-propelled and self-loading barge that operates seven days a week, patrolling and collecting logs and deadheads.

The Nanaimo Harbor Commission has had a harbor debris program in effect since 1961. Port manager John Dunham said, in addition to the Nanaimo Harbor patrol boat, the commission, forest industry and the provincial department of highways jointly share the cost of an independent salvager, employed to keep the harbor and its approaches safe.

Brooks says "local input" at such places as Port Alberni, Nanaimo, New Westminster and Vancouver, where port authorities can enforce control, has greatly reduced the problem.

"If two or three boats hit logs or deadheads on a weekend somebody soon hears about it on Monday morning," Brooks said.

George Mackay took over as Victoria harbormaster from Capt. Ron Newell on July 1, 1975.

He reports the Greater Victoria mill operators are "very, very good . . . most cooperative." The operators have two patrol boats that make rounds every day, picking up logs, repairing booms and retrieving worthwhile salvage.

"I haven't any real complaints," says Mackay, "If the odd log is swept in from the Strait of Juan de Fuca, which we can't avoid, I get the coast guard to pick it up if it's a danger to the harbor."

The danger areas, Brooks says, are in places where there is no local authority, such as Johnstone Strait, Tahsis Inlet and Howe Sound.

In such areas, he stresses, it is essential that legislation be toughened, whether it is on the provincial or federal level.

As long ago as October, 1968, Charles Gress, then the newly-elected president of the Canadian Port and Harbor Association, said log debris was a major problem. The B.C. Research Council studied the problem of floating debris, financed by the North Fraser, Fraser harbor and the Vancouver port's National Harbor Board.

In September, 1970, Ray Williston, then resources minister with the former Social Credit government, promised legislation to help solve the problem. That legislation never came.

Not only pleasure craft are threatened. Earlier this month, the 38-foot herring boat Flora was repaired at Philbrook's Shipyard Ltd. in Sidney.

"She hit a deadhead in Saanich Inlet and it stove in two 1¼-inch cedar planks. If they hadn't stuffed the hole with blankets and got the bilge pumps going she would have gone down," general manager Ted Hopkins said.

Floating flotsam, Brooks says, will always be part of the B.C. boating scene because of the importance of the forest industry to the province's economy.

Labor Fed Attacks WCB Critics

Employer groups have launched an attack on the Workers' Compensation Board and the Social Credit government is supporting and encouraging it, according to the B.C. Federation of Labor.

"Since the election of the Social Credit party as government of this province, employers' organizations have mounted an attack on the assessment levels, administration, compensation benefit levels and services of the WCB," says a brief presented to the government Thursday.

"Such attacks have been made in the past . . . what is new and most disturbing to the affiliates of this federation is that the current attack appears to be supported and encouraged by this government."

Members of the federation met with Labor Minister Allan Williams and said they received a fair hearing of the 44-page brief.

But they said they have no hesitation in stating the board function has deteriorated under the new government.

"Since February," says the brief, "it has become apparent that the appeal process is being interfered with by the commissioners of the WCB.

"In several cases of favorable decisions to workers by the board of review, the file has been referred by the claims adjudicator to the commissioners who have reversed the decision."

Like the Confederation of Canadian Unions, which presented a similar brief Wednesday, the federation criticized the dismissal of former WCB chairman Terry Ison.

Federation members are demanding a voice in choosing the new chairman and said the advertisements for the job make it apparent a business, public relations type is being sought.

"We are dismayed that the search for suitable applicants is being conducted by P. R. Ross and Partners," says the brief.

The federation is also concerned about the firm's appointment to prepare a management study.

Having Ross do the work is like having social workers look into the Vancouver Stock Exchange, said spokesman Marianne Gilbert.

In a similar study for the Alberta government, the firm recommended the accident prevention functions of the WCB be transferred to the labor department, a move the federation rejects.

WCB commissioners appear to be retreating from progressive new regulations concerning noise control, says the brief, and the federation "vigorously opposes" reduction of the WCB's hearing branch.

The federation also said workers' compensation payments should be equal to a worker's regular salary.

"Labor has never suggested that an injured worker should be able to make money on compensation, but to suffer a financial loss as well as a physical injury is a double penalty on workers," the brief said.

Amnesty Appeal

MOSCOW (AP) — Alexander Nekrich, a Soviet historian who was expelled from the Communist party in 1967 for criticizing the late Josef Stalin, has appealed for amnesty for all political prisoners throughout the world. Nekrich, 56, currently a senior researcher at the Soviet Academy of Science institute of general history, asked all historians to support his appeal.

"With 50 tons of logs breathing down your neck..."

"With 50 tons of logs breathing down your neck, it's nice to know you won't slide around. From Vancouver to Calgary, nothing fazed those little Fiats.

The 128 is unusually roomy. It took four big men. Comfortably.

Icy logging trails, deep snow, or fast highway cruising. Heavy loads, big people, hard work. They never put a foot wrong."

It was no modern Saga of the West! But it was quite a test of a car. Two cars, to be exact. A Fiat 128 sedan, and the new Fiat 3P hatchback coupe.

The occasion: A photographic session in the Rockies and the foothills of Alberta. Vancouver photographer Toby Rankin and one of the drivers, Montrealer Robi Roncarelli, know cars. Both raced and rallied in club events, as Rankin puts it, "in our impetuous youth". But the Fiat 128 was unfamiliar to them. And a surprise to both. Some sample quotes:

Rankin: "The cars would start off on steep hills, in packed snow, no fuss at all. With my car I'd have had to back right down to the bottom and try again." (Rankin owns a small import — a sporty, expensive one. But unlike the Fiat, it doesn't have front-wheel drive.)

Roncarelli: "Fantastic handling. Rankin would say things like 'take the bend a foot from the snowbank, slide the rear end round so I can take a side shot, then straighten out in front of the tree.' And it would do it like that." (The 128 has won the Canadian Winter Rally five times — a record that will most likely never come close to being equalled.)

Rankin: "That's a really solid car. No squeaks or groans — and some of those logging roads were rough."

Roncarelli: "The engine had the guts to keep going at high speeds mile after mile. It pulled powerfully up the mountains even at low revs."

Rankin: "We had crosswinds gusting to at least 40 and it was as steady as a rock."

"A car that can maneuver as well in the snow as the 128 would find our hills and downtown traffic a breeze to handle" —Vancouverite Rankin.

The writer: "I was in the back most of the time. Boy, there's a lot of room! I'm big, but my legs weren't cramped at all and the back seat's really comfortable. Most aren't."

Verdict: "Tremendous little cars!

Rankin said: "I like the hatchback. I can get my camera gear in and out fast and it makes a great platform for running shots!"

Fiat 128 3P Coupe.

Fiat 128 Sedan.

Note — The Fiat 128 costs more than most other small cars. But if you want more space, and guts, and front wheel drive, and super handling, as Roncarelli observed: "It's more than worth the extra money." But you'll have to take a test drive to know for sure, won't you? Do that!

FIAT 128 SEDAN. Front-wheel drive. Independent suspension all round. Power-assisted disc brakes up front. Rack and pinion steering. 13 cu. ft. trunk. Steel-belted radials. 2-door, 4-door and station wagon versions. Guts, space, and great handling — the superior small car. FIAT 128 3P COUPE. The virtues of the sedan, plus a hatchback, fold-down rear seat and beautiful lines.

The 131. High-performance engine with handling to match — a family car.

In performance, the Fiat 131 is in the same league as the Volvo 242, BMW 2002 and Audi 100LS. But it costs a lot less. It comes as a sedan or station wagon. Has 5-speed gearbox (five!) or an on-the-floor automatic you can shift for yourself if you have a mind to.

Classic Spider, or mid-engine X1/9. Some choice!

The Fiat 124 Spider — one of the world's few remaining genuine sports cars. Fast. Roomy. Comfortable. And open to sun, wind and admiration. On the other hand, there's only a handful of mid-engine sports cars. And only one at the price of the X 1/9. Some choice!

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

The late Helen Sobel was acknowledged to be one of the finest players the world has ever seen. Although she was an all-around excellent player of the cards, her defensive play was superlative. An example can be observed in today's deal, which was played in the Vanderbilt Cup Championships of 1945. She was sitting West.

Opening lead: Ace of ♣.

Not having any desirable opening lead, Mrs. Sobel elected to open the ace of clubs. At trick two she led the club deuce, dummy's king taking the trick. On this lead South discarded his four of spades.

A spade was then played to South's ace, after which a second spade lead was ruffed in dummy. Declarer's problem now was how to get back to the South hand to ruff his last spade with dummy's remaining trump. He feared that West had no more clubs, so he cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds preparatory to trumping a third diamond lead. On the diamond king Mrs. Sobel dropped the queen!

Declarer now had to do some more thinking. After considerable musing, he apparently decided to trust the fall of the diamond queen somewhat more than the club opening as being from a doubleton. So he led a club off dummy, East following suit with a low club.

After more thought, he decided to ruff with the seven of hearts, insted of with the nine or jack, for he would need the high hearts more the next time he ruffed a club or a diamond lead out of dummy.

The upshot of it was that West overruffed the seven with the eight and led another trump. East now had to get a trump and a spade trick, and the contract was down one.

In retrospect, declarer could have made the hand in many different ways. However, whether he played the hand correctly or not, is really immaterial, for his play should not be permitted to detract from Mrs. Sobel's excellent falsecard of the diamond queen. Had she not played this card, declarer would have led a third diamond to get back to his hand for the ruffing of his remaining spade.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Saturday, April 24

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (MARCH 21-April 19): What appears to be a mystical experience might be your way of delving beneath what appears on surface. Golden Rule now is tremendous ally. You could be visiting hospital, institution or aiding one who is temporarily incapacitated.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Involvement with one who "tempts" you is indicated. Have fun without being extravagant. Message will become increasingly clear. You will have to face yourself in morning. On another level, this is time to evaluate hopes, desires. You could be grasping at straws.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you refuse to let go of losing situation, you pay heavy price. If willing to move ahead, into future, you are rewarded — materially, emotionally and spiritually, too. Message crystalizes. You'll perceive!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on new starts, greater freedom, inventiveness. Idea can be transformed into profit. Know it and act accordingly. Long-range plans subject to change. Avoid travel commitment. You might want to revise route, time, maybe even ultimate destination.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Teach, learn, utilize extrasensory perception. Rise above petty differences, especially where family is concerned. Aquarian could be in picture. Accent on financial statements, frank talk with partner, mate regarding money.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What has been "tied up" in litigation or other ways could be released. You once again will have a choice. See beyond the immediate; be flexible. Communicate, make inquiries and make good use of information obtained as result.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You have to review, revise, read between the lines — and build on a more solid base. Don't rely too heavily on others. Do what must be done in direct, specific thorough manner. Aquarius, Taurus and Scorpio could be in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Changes, the creative process — these are highlighted. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons could be in scenario. Accent on verve, style, the hearing of your own drummer. Means be you — the world will get in step!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may be pushing away those who would be genuine and valuable allies. Know it and review situation. Be diplomatic — correct breach within family circle. Domestic adjustment is necessary. You gain through understanding, not force or argument.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): See people as they are — romantic haze could create distortions. Know it and make necessary corrections. Short-term proposition could be "fluffy" and lack substance. Pisces, Virgo might be involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Money position gets stronger — even though you may not immediately be aware of it. Capricorn, Cancer persons figure in important ways. Spotlight on possessions, payments, collections, basic budget and income.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Finish rather than initiate projects. Lunar cycle enables you to "close" for better deal or arrangement than originally anticipated. Update objectives. Imprint style. You are due for more attention — most of it favorable.

IF APRIL 24 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have unusual voice, a sweet tooth, compassion for persons who are less privileged than you. Possible change of residence, domestic adjustment could be featured in 1976. Taurus, Libra individuals play important roles in your life. November could be an outstanding month for you this year.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"The meeting last week?" said Steve. "I guess most of the kids were there."

Jack smiled. "Quite a big turnout then. About five hundred, eh?"

"Not that many, Dad, but our teacher made us figure out the exact number," the boy replied. "There would be one over if we tried dividing them all into fours or sixes, but one too few for fives or sevens."

How many?

(Answer Monday)

Yesterday's answer: PUZZLES was 1488902.

POETIC PROTEST

TRENT, England (CP) — Poet Michael Brassington, 33, decided to cut the post office down to size after a dispute over a bill. He sawed down a telegraph pole, nailed a stuffed owl to the stump and left a protest note in the bird's beak. The post office, which operates Britain's telegraph service, called police and the poet was fined £50, $100.

Strikers Unanimous ... All to a Tee!

By United Press International

A rash of U.S. labor disputes today tied up a variety of fields from tires and television to tracheotomies and transportation. Even the flow of beer was affected.

A strike by the United Rubber Workers against four major tire manufacturers led the list of disputes.

Elsewhere, young doctors continued a strike against three major Los Angeles county hospitals; nurses picketed a hospital in Willimantic, Conn., and San Francisco city craft union workers picketed a convention hall and idled public transportation.

Construction workers on strike for two weeks in Kansas City prepared to vote Monday on a new contract. The walkout has blocked downtown projects, including work on the Radisson Muehlebach Hotel where preparations are in progress for the August Republican national convention.

A spokesman for Anheuser-Busch, Brewers of Budweiser, said groundwork had been made for resuming negotiations in a strike of beer bottlers against the company which began March 1.

Negotiators for the striking National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians prepared a counterproposal in their three-week strike against the National Broadcasting Co.

SOME NEW HUSBAND COULD GO TO DOGS

BELCHERTOWN, Mass. (AP) — Selectmen in this rural town in western Massachusetts are thinking of involking an old New England custom to get the services of a dog catcher and pound keeper.

The problem is no one wants the job, which pays only a $5 fee for catching a stray animal and $2 a day for feeding it.

Selectman Bernard Wilkes said the board now is thinking of reverting to an old Yankee custom — giving the job to the most recently married man in town.

'A Climate Of Hatred' Blast Cause

BOSTON (AP) — Recent racial violence in Boston might have created the climate for a bombing at the Suffolk County courthouse in which 22 persons were injured, Gov. Michael Dukakis says.

"At this time — and I stress at this time — there is no evidence linking that bombing with the racial incidents which have occurred in the city during the past month," the governor said in a televised address Thursday night.

"But there is no question that the violence that has plagued this city has created a climate of hatred and irrationality which could give rise to senseless acts such as this morning's bombing."

After three nights of violence, police reported only scattered incidents of cars being stoned, with no injuries reported, Thursday night.

The courthouse blast — state police bomb experts said the bomb probably was six to 10 sticks of dynamite wired to a timer — devastated the probation office on the second floor of the courthouse.

It blew an eight-inch hole in the floor, under the spot where the bomb was placed near a bank of elevators.

Police said they have no suspects and only the physical bits-and-pieces from the blast scene as clues.

A police spokesman said descriptions of the man believed seen putting the bomb in place varied so much they were useless.

Meanwhile, a march against violence sponsored by Mayor Kevin White was to be held today.

The governor and prominent churchmen said they will join the procession.

But city council president Louise Day Hicks, a leading opponent of busing for school integration; the anti-busing group ROAR Restore Our Alienated Rights; and the Boston Police Patrolman's Association said they will not participate.

Flip Lips Eyed To Save Salmon

OLYMPIA (AP) — State and federal environment officials and public utility districts say they may have come up with the answer to a special kind of water pollution problem facing the Columbia River.

Flip lips on dams may solve fish-killing supersaturation.

The Columbia and Snake Rivers were listed by the department of ecology recently as among 13 top trouble spots for water pollution in the state.

Supersaturation is the prime problem, not industrial and municipal dumping.

Supersaturation causes "the bends" and death in fish. It occurs when pounding water cascades over a dam spillway and causes air to dissolve in the depths.

The Columbia and Snake have numerous dams and are the key to the region's hydroelectric power production.

Flip lips, giant concrete devices shaped like shoe spoons, are attached to spillways so water is directed to the surface of rivers, rather than plunging.

There's one catch: Flip lips cost at least $1 million a dam and there are no guarantees they are the right answer.

There are no figures on the actual fish kill, but state officials believe the problem is substantial enough to warrant a solution.

"It is not possible to predict at this time what the total effects of nitrogen are on the salmon population," says a fisheries department report.

"Undoubtedly, fish are succumbing to gas-bubble disease, but with the present data, estimates cannot be made."

Baboons' Final Fling

CINCINNATI (UPI) — "The "great escape" pulled off by 50 baboons at Kings Island Amusement Park will be their last act.

"They bowed out with their 'great escape.' We do not plan to put them back on display."

Park officials are using apples "spiked" with potent sleep-inducing tranquilizers in their latest attempt to capture the frisky baboons that escaped park fences nine days ago.

"We hope this stuff puts the baboons to sleep so we can pick them up and put them in cages," Alyward said.

"We're using a higher concentrated dosage than we tried before.

Luring the baboons back home and then switching on an electric fence didn't work either.

The young, 15-pound baboons escaped the park's Lion Country Safari area 12-foot high fence April 14.

Park officials managed to keep all but one in the immediate area by placing fresh fruit on the ground.

One footloose baboon ran away and was last seen five miles north of the park. Officials managed to shoot another baboon with a tranquilizer dart gun earlier this week and capture him.

A New Use For Ancient Salt Domes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Millions of barrels of crude oil stored in ancient salt domes along the US. gulf coast soon will form a first hedge against a possible new oil embargo.

Some of the oil to be stored in the hollowed-out domes will come from domestic supplies.

Some, however, will come from the very nations that imposed the 1973 embargo and hold the power to declare a new one.

The domes are huge pillars of salt, from two to five miles across and up to 10 miles deep, which date back 225 million years.

They would be hollowed out with water and then filled with from 15 to 90 million barrels of oil each.

Experts believe there would be no leakage from the domes and little adverse environmental impact.

Scrambler Satellite

CAPE CANAVERAL (Reuter) — A satellite was launched here Thursday to allow secret communications between military and political leaders of North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations.

The 1,540-pound NATO 3-A satellite was the first of three that will be linked with 16 major ground terminals in the $340-million system.

Dates for the launching of the other two satellites have not been announced.

Each is programmed to handle 950 phone calls independent of national communication systems.

Conversations will be kept secret by use of "scrambling" equipment, a NATO spokesman said.

Co-Eds Stage Hostage Incident

ATLANTA (UPI) — Spelman College co-eds held 14 trustees in a meeting room today in an attempt to force the selection of a black woman as president of the predominantly black school for women.

"We're not going to let them out, it doesn't matter how long they're in there," said Margaret Lee, one of the protesters.

The trustees, who included seven whites, refused to rescind their selection of a black man to head Spelman and spent Thursday night playing cards and dozing in chairs.

They were given water but no food.

The trustees became captives Thursday as they met to name a successor to Albert Manley, who is retiring after 23 years as the first black president of the liberal arts college founded in 1881 by two New England school teachers.

Campus police rushed to the scene but did not take any action. City police were not called.

The protesters Thursday night allowed trustee chairman Francis Rogers, who is a diabetic, to leave the room.

Later, Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., went to the school and negotiated the release of Manley and honorary trustee Mrs. David McAlpin, who cannot cast votes.

Fading Blooms Require Removal

Garden displays of daffodils are merging now with tulips of all hues including mauve and purple but still excluding a real blue. An old variety named Blue Parrot is the nearest to blue so far.

Cool weather encourags a long season of bloom from spring bulbs so we shouldn't complain at lack of sunshine and heat. Three weeks for individual blooms is not unusual among the daffs.

Tying a tag on a few stems, noting the date when blooms begin unfolding, is of interest when skeptics claim daffodils (or other flowers) last only a few days. Our favorite Beersheba is known for its 22 days of perfection.

But now as April progresses it is time to make the rounds to remove flower heads as they begin fading. We notice the seedpods swelling behind the flowers, showing that bees have been at work pollinating even though we may have thought the days chilly.

Take off the seedpod with the fading flower, leave the stem and all the green leaves to continue their work of renewing the bulb.

Give a handful of bulb fertilizer 6-10-10 if you have it, or 6-8-6, to each group of five or six bulbs, water in well to encourage the leaves to remain green for about another six weeks.

By the end of May daffodil leaves are likely to become limp and finally yellow showing their work is done. Only then shall the gardener cut them off. By mid-June the earliest flowering daffs may be lifted for summer storage if the space is wanted. This is not essential each year in normal garden soils but is indicated when overcrowding is noticed, or bulbs are producing smaller and fewer flowers.

Gardeners have varying ideas about cutting bulb flowers for giving away or for house decoration. Some think it harms the bulbs to remove flowers, others leave them on until the leaves wither.

Commercial bulb growers have display beds where bulb customers may see the flowers, but the fields where bulbs are grown to fill orders may never see a fully opened bloom. As buds begin opening, the field rows are constantly checked to see that every bulb is flowering true to its varietal name, and that all are free of distortion and disease. Any bulb not conforming to rigid standards of excellence is "rogued" out — that is, destroyed. Once in the proverbial blue moon, a strange bulb may turn out to be a useful "sport".

The next step after all flowers have been checked in the fields is to remove every flower head so that all growth efforts are directed to improving the bulbs. Tulips are treated the same way as daffodils.

From this, it can be judged that early cutting of blooms from home garden bulbs does more good than harm, but for garden display purposes we like to leave flowers until they lose their freshness. Then they must be taken off to give the bulbs a chance to rebuild before growth ceases.

Only when tulips, daffs and hyacinths are replaced each fall with newly imported top size bulbs may the flowers be left until they wither. Few of us can afford this luxury so we must care for what we have in the best way possible. Bulbs, and their increase, will last the home gardener indefinitely when treated as living plants and given the basic treatment necessary for their well-being.

SO SORRY CLARENCE

Times News Services

OTTAWA — The five men accused is the Sky Shops scandal appeared in provincial court here Thursday for a bail hearing surrounded by a phalanx of sympathetic policemen.

One officer was even heard to apologize to NHL president Clarence Campbell for any inconvenience.

The five were freed on $100,000 bail each, pending preliminary hearing June 21.

Both before and after the brief appearance, the five were protected from reporters and cameramen by a squad of police even being led to and from the courtroom by backstairs and tunnels.

The five, Senator Louis Giguere, Campbell, Louis Lapointe of Montreal, Gordon G. Brown of Freeport, Bahamas, and James Lavery of Toronto surrendered to the RCMP 2½ hours before their 2 p.m. court appearance.

Giguere made a profit of $95,000 on the sale of shares in Sky Shops Export Ltd. in 1972.

He was offered 5,000 shares at $1 each shortly after the federal transport department reversed an earlier position and decided to extend Sky Shops' lease on the duty-free shop at Montreal's Dorval airport until 1980.

At the time Campbell was president of Sky Shops, Lapointe was board chairman, Brown was vice-president and Lavery was treasurer.

Government To Lease Marguerite

The provincial government has decided to lease the Princess Marguerite for the coming season and is inviting offers from private enterprise.

Transport Minister Jack Davis said two private groups have indicated an interest in the vessel and said they are prepared to operate on the Victoria-Seattle run as well as on other cruises.

The government has apparently decided to lease the ship because it would solve two problems — settlement of wage negotiations with the unions involved and securing suitable terminal facilities in Seattle.

"A private company could work out arrangements both with the unions and the Port Authority better than the government could," said Davis.

A decision will have to be made on the lease proposals by the end of the month as the Seattle service is to start in mid-May.

Davis said the latest offers involve a one-year lease arrangement with automatic five-year extension upon satisfactory performance.

Other lease bids are to be submitted to R. C. McHaffie, general manager of B.C. Steamships Ltd. at 254 Belleville St.

The government announced two weeks ago that it had held discussions with people interested in buying the vessel and Davis said it would be sold if suitable arrangements could be made to ensure continuation of ferry service to Seattle in the summer months.

Union spokesmen expressed bewilderment at Davis' statement that the lease arrangement would help solve wage negotiation problems.

"We applied for a conciliation officer from the federal government two weeks ago so a third party is going to settle it," said Ron Welch, senior spokesman for the Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, representing about 60 Marguerite workers.

The leasing agreement is not going to make any difference to negotiations, he said, since all talks have been going on with McHaffie.

"We weren't dealing directly with the government anyway," said Welch.

SMELLY MONEY ANNOYS PENSIONERS

Post office workers, who distribute the pensions, also say they are fed up with getting their hands dirty counting out greasy, smelly notes.

Ambush Kills 4 Whites

PRETORIA (AP — Four white South Africans have been killed in an ambush on the border of South-West Africa and Angola, a defence force spokesman said today.

Reports that another seven were injured in the ambush Thursday were not immediately confirmed.

The spokesman said the four who died in a hail of machinegun fire were ambushed in a troop carrier close to the South-West African border.

It was not clear whether those killed were troops or civilians.

All South African troops were withdrawn from Angola last month but are still engaged in a hit-and-run war with guerrillas of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), fighting to free South-West Africa from South African control.

Since Nov. 11 last year, 29 members of South Africa's armed forces have been reported killed in the border area. The troops are attempting to prevent infiltration by SWAPO guerrillas along the 1,000 mile border with Angola.

Many of the troops are conscripts serving three-month tours of duty before returning to civilian life.

South-West Africa is governed by South Africa under a mandate disputed by the United Nations. A conference, excluding SWAPO, is currently attempting to devise a constitution as a prelude to independence.

Nanaimo Pickets Removed

NANAIMO — Pickets came down from all district schools today, allowing students and teachers to resume classes on a limited basis.

But the Nanaimo school board is continuing with its application to the B.C. Supreme Court for an injunction to stop picketing of schools, a board spokesman said.

Board secretary-treasurer Jim Thorpe said that even though the pickets have been removed, the injunction hearing in Supreme Court chambers in Vancouver would go ahead today.

"We have to go through the motions. The pickets might come back again and we want to be one step ahead," he said.

The pickets were set up Wednesday by striking employees of the school board, members of Local 606 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, and teachers refused to cross the picket lines, shutting down the schools Wednesday and Thursday.

CUPE agreed to take down the pickets after a meeting with the Nanaimo District Teachers Association Thursday afternoon.

"It was never our intention to leave the pickets up for any length of time," said CUPE spokesman Joy Leach. "We wanted to demonstrate that we have a problem here, but education does come first."

Thorpe said the schools are open only on a limited basis for students to hand in and pick up assignments from teachers. But he said some teachers today are attempting to conduct classes on a full-time basis.

Joe Kilner, school board chairman and chairman of the Mid-Island Public Employers' Association, bargaining agent for all public employers in the Nanaimo-Ladysmith area, said supervisors "will try to maintain some degree of cleanliness in the schools."

Toll Was 22,836

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — February's earthquake in Guatemala claimed 22,836 lives, shows a United Nations report released Thursday. The quake also left 77,000 persons injured, about 250,000 houses destroyed and "well over" one million people homeless. Monetary damage has been estimated at $748 million.

150 Beirut Bodies

BEIRUT (Reuter) — More than 150 bodies were found in Beirut and its suburbs Thursday, indicating that a ceasefire called three weeks ago is a mockery. The figure matches daily tolls during some of the fiercest fighting in the civil war.

Exxon Profits Up

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Exxon Corporation, the world's largest petroleum company, today reported first quarter earnings of $730 million on revenues of $13.08 billion, or $3.26 a share, compared with earnings for the same period in 1975 of $598 million, or $2.67 a share, on revenues of $11.91 billion.

Arms for Pakistan

WASHINGTON (WP) — The United States is preparing to sell ammunition, anti-tank missiles and jeeps and other military vehicles at about $100 million to Pakistan. The sale of arms would be the first of any great significance since the United States lifted its 10-year embargo on sales to India and Pakistan a year ago.

GASOLINE TAKEOVER?

Times News Services

VANCOUVER — Consideration is being given by cabinet to taking retail sale of gasoline in the province out of the hands of the major oil companies, Transport Minister Jack Davis indicated Thursday.

Legislation restricting multi-national oil company operations within the province is covered in one of the recommendations in an Energy Commission report recently handed cabinet, he said.

"The full report and its recommendations will be released "in the near future," Davis said.

First hint of possible action came in a speech by Consumer Affairs Minister Rafe Mair Wednesday. Mair is one of three members of cabinet who have been giving special study to the report.

In the speech — in which Mair also said the government is contemplating new price clamps on food, clothing and other staples — the consumer affairs minister stated the government will act to ensure relief for service station operators who have been complaining of poor contract dealings with the oil companies.

"We are going to see that the service station operator gets a better break," he said, without giving further details.

Pressed Thursday on the issue, Davis said: "Retailers are having a rough time of it at the moment and we may have to act to protect them."

CUBS FIND HOME: The three bear cubs found in the Sooke area by logger Bill Ferguson are shown at their new home in Vancouver with Linda Le Sage, 15. Linda's family is looking after the cubs until the Stanley Park Children's Zoo opens May 3. At that time, the cubs will go there.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Unions in the British Columbia oil refining industry are planning to go on strike "at any time" to get a settlement similar to the controversial above-the-guidelines pact negotiated in the trucking business.

A walkout involving some 750 drivers, warehousemen and production workers would quickly bring about lineups by motorists to get gasoline.

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union served strike notice at Chevron March 5 and at Shell March 29.

The teamsters served notice at Imperial Marketing March 30.

Negotiations were going on today at Texaco but the outlook was not bright.

Negotiations were virtually suspended at Gulf Oil which the unions plan to leave operating to avoid a total, crisis-causing shutdown. Gulf has refineries at Port Moody and Kamloops.

Vern Waller, financial secretary of the OCAW Local 9-601, said the industry's last offer was not acceptable and a strike could take place "at any time."

Waller said the strike would begin among oil truck drivers of the companies marketing divisions and they would extend their picketing to the production refineries on the Lower Mainland.

"Wherever the trucks go, we'll go," said Waller.

"Our intention is to restrict the flow of gas to the pumps and bring the strike to a quick conclusion."

The OCAW is involved in negotiations at Shell, Texaco and Gulf while the Teamsters have the marketing certification at Chevron as well as Imperial.

About 4,500 teamsters members in the cartage industry got a settlement estimated at 35 per cent over two years.

Oil, Coal Imports Necessary

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will continue to rely on some imports of oil and coal for at least the next 10 to 15 years and perhaps longer, the federal government says in a new strategy paper.

The document, to be unveiled in the Commons on Tuesday, says the earlier goal of self-sufficiency in energy may be too expensive.

It opts, instead, for a policy of self-reliance, under which the country will reduce its dependence on foreign suppliers as much as possible, but will still retain some imports.

The 170-page statement, more than a year in the making, will replace a hefty policy report brought out in June, 1973, but outdated within months by world oil shortages and soaring prices.

In the wake of shortages caused by an Arab oil embargo, the government vowed in a further policy statement in late 1973 to reach self-sufficiency in oil by the end of the decade.

Later, with reports showing a rapid decline on domestic oil reserves, the government backed away from that statement, saying, instead, it hoped to reach self-sufficiency by the mid-1980s when frontier oil and gas are expected to be available.

The document says self-sufficiency is not realistic.

The government report says imports of oil willnot only continue, but over the short term likely will increase.

Hospital Workers Offered 8% Hike

The Blair report recommending terms of settlement for the major union in the B.C. hospital industry calls for an eight per cent wage increase over one year for the 16,000 members of the Hospital Employees Union, union sources confirmed today.

The recommendation is right on the basic minimum increase allowed by the federal wage guidelines, but other fringe benefits included in the package are believed to bring the settlement to about 12 per cent.

The recommendations of Bert Blair, appointed as industrial inquiry commission in the hospital industry dispute, call for improvements in fringe areas such as overtime, shift changes, on-call pay, car mileage, sick leave and special leave, sources said.

In addition new provisions call for a dental plan and would allow workers to cash in sick leave for severance allowance at 40 per cent of the accumulated sum.

The best vacation provision would increase to five weeks after 10 years service from four, and the existing cost-of-living adjustment clause would continue at one per cent for every one per cent increase in the Consumer Price Index, but an existing two per cent "trigger" would be removed.

The HEU is recommending acceptance of the Blair report at membership meetings throughout the province.

The Health Labor Relations Association, engotiating for 97 hospitals, is studying the report prior to announcing its decision by the end of the month.

Neither side has commented directly on the recommendations since receiving the report a week and a half ago.

One Day Quebec Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Teachers and hospital workers across Quebec province walked off the job today, closing most of the province's schools, junior colleges and cutting back service at many Quebec hospitals.

The 24-hour work stoppage leaves about 1.5 million students without classes and effects about 70 hospitals.

The walkout is the latest in a series of continuing one-day strikes by the 175,000-member common front of public service employees, intended to protest the provincial government's intransigence in contract talks.

Union leaders called the mass walkout Thursday following the failure of efforts this week to reopen negotiations which broke off April 7.

Members of the Provincial Association of Catholic Teachers who had earlier announced their intention to walk out today were joined Thursday afternoon by the 60,000-member Quebec Teachers Federation (QTF) and the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers (PAPT), which represents 6,700 teachers.

Today's walkout is the second major one by teachers since the enactment April 12 of a provincial law setting heavy penalties for any work disruption in the education sector during an 80-day period.

Vander Zalm's Attitude 'Disgusts' Researcher

By DON VIPOND
Times Staff

A University of Victoria sociologist said today he is disgusted with the way Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm is ignoring $63,000 worth of research undertaken for his department.

And in one of a series of unanswered letters to Vander Zalm professor Dan Koenig notes the minister's claim on television that people are opposed to community resource boards is refuted by results of one of the sociologist's surveys.

"In a taped interview last night on the CBC news," Koenig's letter to Vander Zalm in February says, "I noted that you stated that public opinion is opposed to community resource boards.

"However, the province-wide survey last year found that more than two-thirds of British Columbians supported such community boards. Moreover, less than seven per cent thought that there was too much local citizen control of social services, while over 60 per cent thought that there was too little local citizen control of social services."

The sociology research for the human resources department was under contract for the former NDP government. In January, Koenig wrote Vander Zalm congratulating him on his ministerial appointment and enclosing material to bring him up to date on the work. He also asked for an appointment with him to gather his views on a final survey.

That letter and another in February were ignored, so in March Koenig wrote once more, pointing out he had to begin planning the survey to meet a year-end deadline and more delay would mean a need for more funding.

That brought a reply April 5 from deputy minister Jim Sadler saying the department had paid a total of $63,020 and there would be no more money.

In a letter to Vander Zalm Wednesday, he said: "I am indeed disappointed that you have not even shown me the common decency to answer my letters."

"I am also shocked that you have shown no interest in learning the views of British Columbians, particularly when I have previously pointed out to you, as tactfully as possible, that your perception of public opinion is at variance with the results of public opinion polls that have been conducted for your department . . .

"I would have thought that you would have expressed at

TOWN TALK

A rather ancient press release from the Canadian pickle industry informs us that March was "Hamburger and Pickle Month, a tradition celebrated over the last 747 years."

In other words, what we fondly imagined to be a not-very-old North American custom actually began around the year 1229, only 14 years after Magna Carta was signed at Runnymede and when the Crusades were in full swing.

Then, with a hey-nonny-no and a dash of chivalry, he'd whisk her off to the ride-in, to sample the medieval precursor of two all-beef patties, special sauce and all the rest.

"Music hath charms to soothe a savage breast," according to Congreve, but when it's badly played the effect is likely to be that the savage breast becomes more savage than ever.

This seems to be the general philosophy behind the decision by the Market Square tenants association to hold weekly auditions of street musicians, to ensure that only the best fiddlers, strummers and singers are allowed to perform in the commercial mews complex bounded by Store, Johnson and Pandora.

Ross Sinclair, property manager for developers Fort Victoria Holdings, says some of the minstrels who perform each summer in Bastion Square tend to be short on talent, and the aim of the Market Square auditions is to provide some sort of quality control.

There are about 40 tenants in the mews, offering everything from fish, meat and baked goods to European toys and handicrafts. The feature of the courtyard is a big open air produce market.

Official opening is set for this weekend.

Awhile ago John and Grace Mune found a hand lying on the boulevard in front of their home at 27 Pilot St. — an artificial hand, we hasten to add, with a steel piece projecting from the wrist.

Mrs. Mune thought it might have somehow gone missing from the Royal London Wax Mustum so she turned it over to them.

Not ours, came the reply today from the museum's Edith Bibby. Not wax, for one thing. But maybe the museum can use it in the chamber of horrors where it wouldn't show too much.

Ms. Bibby noted that a man found three fingers on the lawn of the legislature recently. They were wax and had been snapped from poor old Hansel in the museum's Fairyland. Ouch.

BAD WEATHER has kept most of the salmon fishing fleet at home since the spring season started April 15, with the first of them expected to unload their catches in Victoria early next week. Fishermen operating out of Sooke, however, have been making two and three-day sorties to bring in the area's first spring salmon. One that didn't get away is in the grip of Janet Tubman of a Colwood market. (Bill Halkett photo)

Developers Fought Off

By ROGER STONEBANKS
Times Staff

Realtors and developers are trying to clock-bust an old Oak Bay neighborhood, a public meeting was told Thursday night.

But the residents of the area bounded by Oak Bay Avenue, Foul Bay Road, Goldsmith Street and Elgin Road made it clear to council they want no change in their neighborhood.

And several residents suggested "block committees" be formed to make sure houseowners keep each other posted about approaches from people who want to buy their homes.

Council called the meeting at the Senior Citizens Centre to hear from residents what — if any — form of redevelopment they want because of many inquiries being made.

But council, in a letter to residents, made it clear it has not approved any application to change the single-family house zoning and no applications are under consideration.

Just over 100 persons attended the meeting, from an area which has 116 single-family houses.

Street by street they were polled, informally, as to whether they want no change whatsoever or whether they want some degree of change.

Seventy of those present expressed views — and 54 of them wanted no change whatsoever.

Unanimously opposed to any change were Goldsmith, Meadow Place and Elgin residents. A minority on Milton, Byron and Chaucer favored some change and only along Foul Bay did a majority favor some change — eight against five.

Numerous residents said they have been approached to sell their homes and a number of them said they were told that townhouses were planned in their place.

But Ald. John Goult, chairman of council's zoning committee who acted as chairman of the public meeting, said there is no proposal before council for a change of land use.

He pointed out council has no control over purchasing of property and options on property, but without any zoning approval developers are "taking a gamble."

He also said, in response to one resident, that any complaints of realtors pestering or pressuring property owners should be made to the Victoria Real Estate Board.

The hot seat of the night was held for a time by Jack Mears, president of Oak Bay Realty Ltd., who said "I can't avoid making the observation — we are in a free democracy. Each of you has a castle and what you do is up to you. No one can force you to do anything."

In response to a question about how much property he owns in the neighborhood, he said his son owns a house in which he lives and his company has options on two properties.

Asked if he knows of other speculation going on, he said "no."

MAN ROBBED

Two youths are in custody after a 49-year-old man was robbed in Beacon Hill park at noon Thursday.

Victoria police haid Alan Parliament, 139 Clarence, was walking along Lovers' Lane near the Cook Street entrance at about 12:35 p.m. when he was grabbed by two youths. They demanded his wallet, took out $8, handed the wallet back and fled.

Parliament ran to a nearby house where police were called.

A police cruiser was in the area looking for a man who held up the Toronto Dominion Bank in Fairfield Plaza an hour earlier and spotted the two suspects near the lane.

CYCLIST INJURED

Colwood RCMP said Michael Dennis Lanning of 2314 Millstream was travelling northbound at 3:15 a.m. when his motorcycle left the road and struck three highways roadmarkers.

Traffic-Free Mall Eyed

Victoria's Government Stree Mall may yet justify its name this summer, as a traffic-free haven for pedestrians.

At the city council meeting on Thursday Ald, Murray Glazier advocated a "significant closure" of the mall to vehicular traffic, telling colleagues he would like to see this implemented "during an important time period, probably weekends and on several blocks."

Glazier said he wants to see the mall "very much populated by people, not cars, for a good and important part of this summer."

But Ald, Bob Wright, who earlier this year was temporary chairman of the traffic committee and seemed to be under the impression that he still is told Glazier he has "no intention of bringing down a recommendation such as that."

Wright reminded council that it had agonized for several weeks over formulating a new downtown traffic access to Government between Humboldt and Yayes.

"I don't think we will be closing traffic out of the mall," he stated.

Ald, John Hayes, who noted somewhat pointedly that he is now chairman of the traffic committee, informed council: "The possibility of closing the mall to traffic for a set period of time, such as during the month of August, has not been entirely ruled out."

He said once the new traffic pattern comes into operation at the end of May it will be colsely monitored, and if the results indicate that a temporary closure is feasible it will be introduced on an experimental basis.

Commented Mayor Mike Young: "It's a question of whether we close our eyes, our minds or the mall."

Anglicans Must End Insularity: Bishop

The danger of white Anglican insularity in a world where colored Anglicans predominate carries the risk of dying alone, Bishop of British Columbia Roy Gartrell told church delegates meeting here Thursday.

In his charge to the opening of the 73rd synod of the diocese of B.C. the bishop told some 225 clergy and lay delegates one of the things Anglicans here are liable to be unaware of is that "on any given Sunday, there are more black and brown Anglicans worshipping in church than in all the white countries combined.

"The problems faced by the church in Africa particularly are so different from ours as to shake us in our conception of the church," Gartrell said.

In the West "one can almost sense the tide receding from Anglicanism" while in Africa numbers are being added so fast it is impossible to supply sufficient ordained ministers.

"To have a white face in those areas is no asset, hence the attempt, courageous attempt, to supply an indigenous ministry," the bishop said.

The result has been development of a lay ministry for such things as baptisms, communions and acting under authority of the bishop "in a way at which some in Canada would look askance," and shock some conventional Anglicans.

OPEN SPACE SHUT

The Open Space theatre at 510 Fort Street will be closed for two to three months while "major renovations" are in progress, a spokesman said today.

Artistic director Bill Bartlett said the Greater Victoria Theatrebox Society which administers Open Space has been negotiating for the purchase of the building, and has asked its architect to come up with "plausible modifications" to the theatre.

With April's performance program almost completed, he said, "it seemed the best time to look into these changes."

The gallery at 510 Fort is unaffected by the work and will remain open.

Ask The Times

Q. Do you have any idea how Nanoose, between Nanaimo and Parksville, got its name? I imagine it's an Indian name. T.O.

A. Yes it is. The name is actually a corruption of the Indian term nu-nuas, meaning "tending inwards," in reference to Nanoose harbor.

STUBBORN FIRE

About $5,000 damage was done when fire broke out in a house at 5290 Rocky Point Road at 11:30 p.m. Thursday, a spokesman for the Metchosin volunteer fire department said today.

Firemen spent two hours at the scene fighting the stubborn blaze which was confined to the roof.

Cause of the fire hasn't been determined but is suspected of being either electrical or a faulty chimney. Names of the occupants were not available.

Loot Was $2,800

Victoria police said today the shotgun-wielding man who held up the Toronto Dominion bank, 1568 Fairfield Thursday got away with $2,800.

Police are looking for a man described as five feet three or four inches tall, between 25 to 30 years of age, weighing about 135 lbs. with a pale complexion, pimply face and light brown hair.

The man was wearing a green and black workshirt, and either green or blue pants. He dropped a navy blue toque as he fled the bank.

Empress Convention Plan Splits City

Empress Hotel manager Ted Balderson said today he will endorse any Victoria brief to Canadian Pacific to double the convention facilities at his hotel in place of a civic centre.

He was commenting on a speech to the Rotary Club Thursday by Eric Charman, immediate past president of the Victoria Real Estate Board, who urged Victoria merchants to vote against a Chamber of Commerce proposal to increase the business tax to provide a start-up fund for a civic centre.

The ballots went in the mail to 937 merchants Thursday afternoon and some had received them today.

Balderson said he would like to see a two-storey car park constructed at the present parking site to hold 3000 cars, compared with the present total of 160 cars.

In addition, he would like to se the Crystal Ballroom expanded to hold a banquet size of at least 1,000 compared with the presennt limit of 600.

Mayor Mike Young said today he would give full support to a brief to CPR headquarters urging expansion at the Empresss.

"Getting action out of CPR historically has been difficult, like trying to move mountains, but if there is any chance at all, I am sure council will support this proposal."

He declined commment on the vote being conducted by the chamber.

Ald. William, Tindall today said he will vote against the chamber proposal to raise the business tax to six per cent from five per cent, favoring the Empress proposal instead.

Ald. Bob Ellis, who was one of the originators of the business tax increase proposal, urged merchants to vote yes, despite the Empress expansion plan.

He said that if the CPR agrees to the idea, the business tax increase could be rescinded.

Chamber president Jack Hutchins said today he would give full support to any brief urging expansion at The Empress. As far as the chamber ballot was concerned, he would make no recommendation on how merchants should vote.

"The time has come for them to make up their own minds," he said.

He said the board of directors of chamber voted unanimously to endorse the tax increase proposal but the ballot was at the request of Mayor Young and the important thing now was to get a free expression of opinion. The merchants have until May 10 to return their ballots.

In his speech to Rotary, Charman was critical of the ballot, calling it deceptive because it talks of a one per cent increase, when in fact the increase is 20 per cent.

The five per cent business tax brings in about $1 million per year. An increase to six per cent would bring in 20 per cent more or an extra $200,000.

Charman said the ballot also lacked adequate controls because whoever opened the envelope at a local business could mark the ballot and mail it in.

"The merchants should vote no or just ignore it entirely," Charman said.

Ald. Tindall said the business tax might have to be doubled to 10 per cent from five per cent, just to handle the debt servicing of any civic centre constructed in Victoria.

If the structure costs $10 million, it would require revenues of $2,200 every day of the year just to pay the interest on the loan.

"The mathematics of the thing are staggering."

Tindall said a study in Washington State showed that of 1,300 conventions held that year, only three per cent were larger than 500 people.

"It would be folly to construct a convention centre for 2,000 or 3,000 people here in view of the experience of Seattle and Vancouver."

Of the Washington State conventions in 1974, 62 per cent were for 200 delegates or less.

A convention hall on the scale suggested by Balderson and run by private enterprise made far more sense, Tindall said.

Under the chamber of commerce proposal, a civic centre of unspecified size would be constructed in Victoria on grants from provincial and municipal governments and from funds provided by the merchants.

As a start, the merchants would contribute about $200,000 in the form of a one per cent increase in the business tax. This starting fund would attract other grants.

In his speech to Rotary, Charman said the merchants were being too optimistic about the conventions that could be attracted to Victoria in the winter months.

In eastern Canada large conventions tended to go to florida and in the west many were going to California, Arizona or Nevada.

Today's Movies

Young Guns of Texas (x), on 5 at 3:30. Routine 1962 western featuring the children of well-known film stars, including James Mitchum, Alana Ladd and Jody McCrea.

Dragnet (xx), on 7 at 3:30. Jack Webb, produced, directed and stars in this 1954 crime-drama, based on his successful TV series of the same name.

Thunderball, on 4 at 8:30. An Oscar for special effects was awarded to this 1965 James Bond adventure focusing on 007's (Sean Connery) attempts to stop SPECTRE from detonating two stolen atomic bombs.

The Deadly Game, on 5 at 9. A 1976 pilot for a proposed NBC-TV fall series based on the movie Serpico, which was in turn based on the activities of Frank Serpico, a New York undercover police detective who played a major role in exposing widespread graft and corruption in that city's police department. In this drama, David Birney plays Serpico.

Jenny, on 6 at 9. No rating available on this 1970 drama about an unorthodox marriage-of-convenience between two strangers — she is unwed and six-months pregnant, and he wants to avoid the draft. Cast includes Marlo Thomas and Alan Alda.

Winning (xx), on 8 at 9. Film footage from the dramatic 17-car crash that occured during the 1968 Indianapolis 500 has been edited into this 1969 movie about the on and off-track rivalry of two race drivers in love with the same woman, starring Robert Wagner, Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward.

The Big Parade, on 9 at 9. First in PBS's series on MGM silent classics, this one directed in 1925 by King Vidor, and starring John Gilbert as a wealthy young American who comes of age in First World War France.

Quarantined, on 12 at 10. No rating available on this 1970 drama about a cholera epidemic that breaks out at an exclusive private hospital, featuring a familiar cast of TV faces including John Dehner, Gary Collins and Sharon Farrell.

The Best Years of Our Lives (xxxx), on 7 at 11. One of Hollywood's best is this superbly acted 1946 story about three Second World War veterans trying to readjust to civilian life. An exceptional script by Robert E. Sherwood enhances the Oscar winning performances of Fredric March and Harold Russell, with the remainder of the fine cast including Myrna Loy, Dana Andrews, Teresa Wright, Hoagy Carmichael, Virginia Mayo and Steve Cochran. Recommended.

Winning (xx), on 8 at 11:20. (See earlier this evening for details on this movie.)

The Millionairess (xxx), on 12 at 11:30. Sophia Loren and Peter Sellers star in this 1960 British-made film rendering of George Bernard Shaw's comedy about the romantic misadventures of a very, very wealthy woman in love with a proud, impoverished doctor. Alastair Sim in a supporting role is delightful.

Three Little Girls in Blue (xx), on 2 at 11:45. Predictable 1946 musical about three country girls seeking rich husbands in the big city, starring Vivian Blaine, Vera-Ellen, Celeste Holm, George Montgomery and June Haver.

Three Bites of the Apple (xx), on 8 at 12:30. European locales enhance this otherwise routine 1967 comedy about an adventuress pursuing an English bus-tour guide for his gambling winnings, starring David McCallum and Sylva Koscina. TV's Harvey Korman is featured in a supporting role.

Interrupted Melody (xx), on 4 at 11:45. An entertaining well-acted 1955 biography based on the life of Australian opera star Marjorie Lawrence who was stricken with polio at the height of her career, and who made a triumphant return some years later. Eleanor Parker and Glenn Ford star, with the real Miss Lawrence providing her singing voice.

Cotton Comes to Harlem (xxx), on 6 at 1 a.m. A raucous, racy, funny 1970 movie version of Chester Himes' fictional black detectives, Gravedigger Jones and Coffin Ed Johnson, and their exploits in Harlem, starring Godfrey Cambridge and Raymond St. Jacques. Directed by award-winning actor Ossie Davis and featuring comedian Redd Foxx in the supporting cast.

King Solomon's Mines (xxx), on 6 at 1:50 a.m. Stewart Granger and Deborah Kerr head a good cast in this well-produced 1950 film version of the H. Rider Haggard adventure story about a white hunter guiding a search party through the African jungles. Filmed on location with excellent photography throughout.

Moby Dick (xxxx), on 6 at 2:05 a.m. John Houston directed this excellent 1956 film version of the Herman Melville classic symbolic story of Capt. Ahab and his maniacal chase to destroy a great white whale, starring Gregory Peck, Richard Basehart, and in a marvellous supporting role, Orson Welles.

SATURDAY NIGHT MOVIE — Robert Wagner (above), Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward star in the 1969 drama, Winning, a story of the on and off-track rivarly between two top racing car drivers, to be telecast at 9 p.m. on Channel 8 and 11:20 p.m. on Channel 6.

Today's Highlights

Bonanza, on 4 at 1 p.m. Return of the popular western series starring Lorne Greene, Michael Landon, Dan Blocker and Parnell Roberts. (60 mins.)

Theatre in America, on 9 at 3. A performance of Eugene O'Neil's Pulitzer Prize-winner Play, Beyond the Horizon, a 1920 drama about two brothers whose love for the same woman results in disillusionment for all three. (90 mins.)

Wide World of Sports, on 8 at 4:30 and 4 at 5. A special 15th anniversary show featuring film clips of memorable moments from past programs. Among the athletes are Muhammad Ali, Peggy Fleming, A. J. Foyt, Dorothy Hamill, Evel Knievel and Jim Ryun. (90 mins.)

Comedy Pilot, on 4 at 8. Tabatha — a pilot for a possible comedy series about the romantic adventures of the grown-up witch, based on the character created in the series Bewitched. Tabatha is played by Liberty Williams. (30 mins.)

Saturday Night, on 5 at 11:30. Another edition of NBC's popular comedy series, tonight hosted by Raquel Welch and featuring among the guests, pop singer Phoebe Snow. (90 mins.)

PBS Film Series Presents The Golden Days of MGM

THE GOLDEN DAYS OF MGM, a collection of some of the finest silent films produced by one of Hollywood's major studios, will be presented on Public TV 9 Saturdays at 9:00 p.m., beginning April 24. Each of these masterpieces has been carefully printed and electronically enhanced from the original negatives.

All of the movies in this series were produced in the 1920s — a time when Hollywood was considered the filmmaking capital of the world, and when actors and actresses were treated like royalty. Many of the most acclaimed stars of this period appear during The Golden Days of MGM: Greta Garbo, John Gilbert, Lon Chaney, Lionel Barrymore, Lillian Gish, Joan Crawford, Johnny Mack Brown, Conrad Nagel, and Norma Shearer.

General Manager Dr. Richard Meyer, who serves as series host, points out that despite Hollywood's glamor and tinsel it produced "a number of films — which even by today's standards — provide excellent entertainment, and which helped make film an art form." Dr. Meyer credits the directors "with creating cinema into a respectable cultural bent." On The Golden Days of MGM viewers will have a chance to see the top works of directors such as King Vidor, Clarence Brown, Victor Seastrom and Todd Browning.

Dr. Meyer, who studied film history as part of his graduate work, and who has published articles on film, will introduce each movie, sharing his insights and information with the KCTS/9 audience. He is the author of The Films of D. W. Griffith: The Development of Themes and Techniques in Forty-Two of his Films, — a chapter in Focus on D. W. Griffith (Prentice-Hall, 1971).

The Big Parade starts off the nine-part series. Described as "one of the greatest war films of all times," this 1925 movie is the intensely human and realistic drama of Americans caught in the trenches during World War I. "The Big Parade" begins when a young Yank, John Gilbert, lands with his troops in France, anxious for action and for Great Adventure. The film follows him from a lighthearted affair with a French girl into the brutalities of combat itself. In the end, the hero learns that there is no Great Adventure in war.

Other films in the series include:

May 1: LOVE. Adapted from Tolstoy's Anna Karenina, this romantic epic stars Greta Garbo and John Gilbert.

May 8: THE CROWD. King Vidor's story of two people — how they met, their romance, their marriage, dreams and tragedies.

May 15: MYSTERIOUS LADY. A tale of wartime espionage with Greta Garbo alternately sinister and torn with love.

May 22: HE WHO GETS SLAPPED. Lon Chaney stars as a brilliant scientist who becomes a circus clown after his faith is destroyed.

May 29: A WOMAN OF AFFAIRS. Greta Garbo, John Gilbert, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. chronicle the passions of the twenties.

June 5: OUR DANCING DAUGHTERS. This portrait of the Roaring Twenties stars Joan Crawford and Johnny Mack Brown.

June 19: THE SCARLET LETTER. Nathaniel Hawthorne's classic comes to life with Lillian Gish starring as Hester Prynne. Directed by Victor Seastrom.

June 26: THE TEMPTRESS. Greta Garbo is the seductive heroine of a seething drama that moves from Paris to Argentina.

Wide World Sports Special

Muhammad Ali, the World Heavyweight Boxing Champion; A. J. Foyt, three-time winner of the Indianapolis "500; Evel Knievel, the daredevil who risks his life with spectacular motorcycle stunts; and Peggy Fleming, one of the all-time great figure skaters, are only a few of the world's premier athletes who have been featured on Wide World Of Sports, the longest-running sports series in network television history.

On Saturday, April 24th, the comprehensive sports series celebrates its 15th anniversary with a special 90-minute program, to be aired at 4:30 p.m. on Channel 8 and 5 p.m. on Channel 4.

Great moments from the past 15 years of "Wide World" programs, which totals more than 1,000 broadcast hours, will be aired on the special telecast, including segments from the heavyweight boxing matches fought by Ali, ranging from Sonny Liston to Joe Frazier; performances by noted figure skaters Peggy Fleming, Janet Lynn and Dorothy Hamill, and action featuring such top track stars as Wilma Rudolph, Jimmy Ryun and Jim Beatty.

Also to be seen are dramatic moments featuring skiers Jean-Claude Killy and Olympic Gold Medallist Franz Klammer, along with performances by many other athletes from a variety of sports in locations around the world.

During its 15 years on the air, ABC's Wide World Of Sports has fulfilled the promise of its opening lines, which were written by series host Jim McKay, with the series' creator, ABC Sports President Roone Arledge:

EXPOS ACTION

The Montreal Expos, heading into their eighth season in the big leagues, will host the Cincinnati Reds in their CBC Television opener on Saturday, April 24, starting at 11 a.m.

This year's Expos are a young club. Only five players on the 39-man winter roster will be 30 years or older when the season opened on April 9. Twenty-four of the 39 players will be 24 years or younger. This youthful look is a part of the Expos plan to put together a solid mixture of exuberance and experience. Towards the end of last season it all started to come together, and the Expose, under their new manager, Karl Kuehl, (himself only 38), are looking for bigger and better things this year.

CBC-TV's on-camera commentators during 1976, will be the same, popular twosome who have been bringing fans all the Expos' action for the past couple of seasons. They are — Dave Van Horne, now considered one of the top play-by-play men on the circuit; and Duke Snider, a color commentator who needs no introduction to baseball fans.

This year's Expos-CBC contract calls for a 20-game package, exclusive of World Series play. Naturally, it all goes to the full CBC-TV network, most of it on the prime Wednesday viewing time that has proved to be so popular with the fans in the past.

Today's Movies

The Big Store (xxx), on 4 at 1 p.m. a 1941 Marx Brothers slapstick comedy — for their fans only.

Doomwatch, on 11 at 1:30. No rating on this 1972 British-made thriller about mutants living on the Cornish coast, starring Ian Bannen and Judy Geeson.

The Man Who Could Talk to Kids (xxx), on 6 and 8 at 2:30. Peter Boyle and award-winning child actor Scott Jacoby star in this above-average 1973 made-for-TV drama about a dedicated social worker who comes to the aid of a teen-ager under severe emotional stress. Better than the usual run of its kind.

Johnny Tiger (xx), on 11 at 3. A 1965 drama about the modern-day conflict between Indian tradition and white society, starring Robert Taylor as a teacher in a Seminole Indian Reserve in Florida. Chad Everett and Geraldine Brooks co-star.

Challenge to Be Free, on 4 at 7. (Part 1). Television premiere of the recent outdoor adventure that played in theatres just a few months ago, starring Mike Mazurki as an amiable Yukon trapper who accidentally shoots a state trooper, and becomes the object of a chase through the winter wilderness. (Shown in two parts with the conclusion next Sunday at this same time.)

Gold, on 4 at 9. No rating available on this 1974 British-made adventure about a plot to flood a South African gold mine, starring Roger Moore, Susannah York, Ray Milland, John Gielgud and Bradford Dillman.

Confidential Agent (xxx), on 12 at 9. A slick and entertaining 1945 film rendering of Graham Greene's novel about intrigue and adventure during the Spanish Civil War, highlighted by an excellent cast that includes Charles Boyer, Lauren Bacall and Peter Lorre.

Dark of the Sun (xx), on 12 at 11:25. Rod Taylor, Jim Brown and Yvette Mimieux star in this 1968 British-made adventure-drama set in the Congo, about a tough mercenary leader battling with Simba rebels.

I Want to Live (xxxx), on 5 at 11:30. A chilling gas-chamber sequence offers a powerful indictment of capital punishment in this excellent 1958 drama, starring Susan Hayward in her Academy Award-winning portrayal of convicted murderess Brabara Graham. A thought-provoking, true-life horror story.

Crash Dive (xx), on 2 at 11:45. Routine 1943 Second World War submarine story about underwater warfare and two officers in love with the same woman, starring Tyrone Power, Dana Andrews and Anne Baxter.

Three Bites of the Apple (xx), on 6 at 11:50. European locales enhance this otherwise routine 1967 comedy about an adventuress pursuing an English bus-tour guide for his gambling winnings, starring David McCallum and Sylva Koscina. TV's Harvey Korman is featured in a supporting role.

Three Godfathers, on 4 at 11:55. No rating available on this 1948 western about a trio of bandits who try and care for an abandoned baby, starring John Wayne, Pedro Armendariz, Harry Carey Jr. and Mildred Natwick.

King Solomon's Mines (xxx), on 3 at midnight. Stewart Granger and Deborah Kerr head a good cast in this well-produced 1950 film version of the H. Rider Haggard adventure story about a white hunter guiding a search party through the African jungles. Filmed on location with excellent photography throughout.

The Night of the Following Day (xxx), on 7 at 12:30. a.m. A complex, contrived and generally muddled 1969 melodrama about the kidnapping of a young girl. Marlon Brando has once again squandered his remarkable talent on poor material but the film's three stars are for those few scenes where he displays that unique magnetism and acting brilliance that sets him apart from virtually all other actors. Supporting cast incldues Rita Moreno and Richard Boone.

Moby Dick (xxxx), on 6 at 2:05 a.m. John Houston directed this excellent 1956 film version of the Herman Melville classic symbolic story of Capt. Ahab and his maniacal chase to destroy the great white whale, starring Gregory Peck, Richard Basehart, and in marvelous cameo role, Orson Welles.

CHALLENGE TO BE FREE — a popular wilderness adventure which played recently in Victoria theatres, will be shown in two parts beginning on Sunday at 7 p.m. on Channel 4. The conclusion will be telecast next Sunday at the same time. Above, actor Mike Mazurki and his wolf friend.

Today's Highlights

Third Testament, on 9 at 1 p.m. An encore telecast of Malcolm Muggeridge's six-part series about great writers in search of God. Today's episode focuses on the life and works of St. Augustine. (60 mins.)

Mao's China, on 9 at 2. The life of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and the history of the People's Republic of China, from a feudal nation to a world power are featured in this documentary special, produced in France. (2 hrs.)

American Sportsman, on 4 at 2:30. An encore telecast of one of last season's most acclaimed shows, with actor Robert Redford narrating a report on the tundra wolf. The documentary uses aerial footage to follow the wolf as it stalks its natural prey, the caribou, across the wilderness of Canada's Northwest Territories. (60 mins.)

V.I.P., on 3 at 3:20. Hostess Lorraine Thomson interviews Marjorie Bowker, Alberta's first woman judge in the juvenile and family court; and writer Clifford Irving, author of the hoax biography of the late Howard Hughes. (30 mins.)

Science Magazine, on 2 and 6 at 5. Host Dr. David Suzuki looks at a scanning device that uses X-ray beams to photograph soft tissues of the body. (30 mins.)

Destination America, on 4 at 5. Today's program focuses on the 19-century immigration of hundreds of thousands of Germans to the Midwestern United States, spurred by the availability of cheap, fertile land and religious freedom. Residents of today's large German-American communities recall the wilderness labors of their ancestors, the erection of the first Lutheran church and their growth socially and politically. (60 mins.)

Magtime, on 9 at 7. Tonight's edition of this PBS magazine series includes film interviews with two female radio disc jockeys who discuss their work in a male dominated field; and a review of the film, All the President's Men. (60 mins.)

Nova, on 9 at 8. A report on sleep research focusing on how such factors as drugs and extended periods of isolation affect a person's sleeping habits.

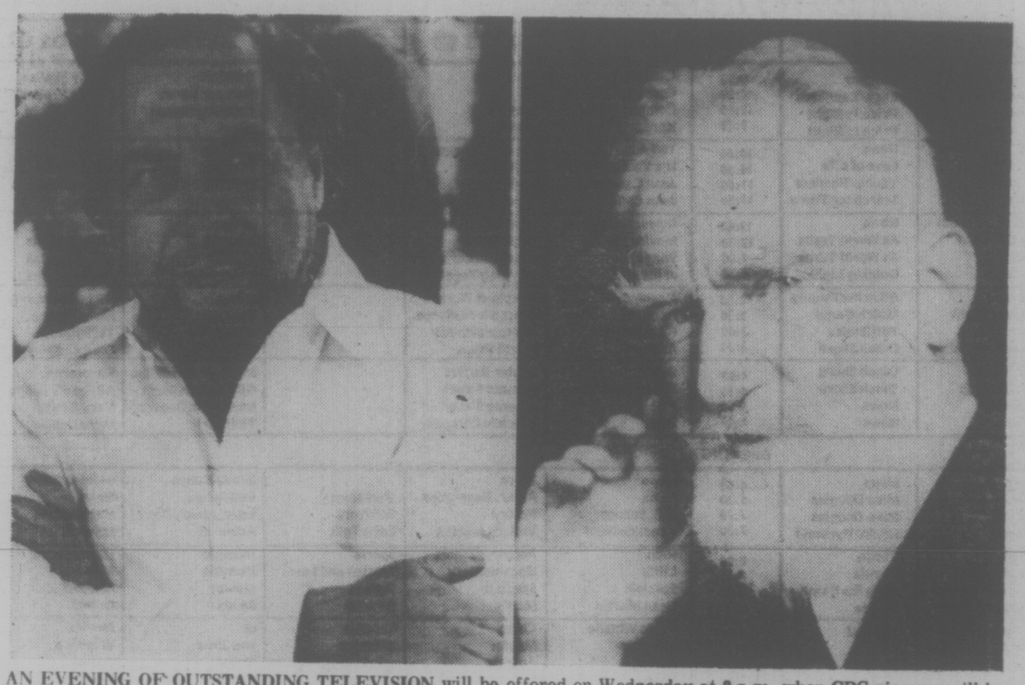
McCloud, on 5 at 9. B.C. Indian Chief Dan George guest stars in tonight's story that finds McCloud (series star Dennis Weaver) helping the old man who is in New York searching for his missing grandson. (2 hrs.)

Masterpiece Theatre, on 9 at 9. Debut of a six-part drama entitled, Sunset Song, based on the Lewis Grassic Gibbon novel about life in turn-of-the-century rural Scotland. (60 mins.)

Days Before Yesterday, on 2 and 6 at 10. A repeat of the seven-part historical series chronicling Canada's struggle for nationhood. Part 1 covers 1896-1917, an era of propserity and increasing independence from Great Britain. Films, stills and interviews recreate such events as the last of the great gold rushes into the Yukon; the building of the transcontinental railroad; the industrial boom; the rise of French-Canadian nationalism; and Canada's entrance into the First World War. (60 mins.)

W5, on 8 at 10. Topics on tonight's program include a look at the problems faced by welfare mothers; and some of the methods people use to avoid paying income tax. (60 mins.)

School Without Walls, on 9 at 10. More Than a School — first of two programs exploring the alternatives to traditional education. (60 mins.)



AN EVENING OF OUTSTANDING TELEVISION will be offered on Wednesday at 8 p.m. when CBC viewers will be treated to two-and-a-half hours of award-winning producer Harry Rasky's finest works. Combined in the program will be The Wit and World of G. Bernard Shaw, an acclaimed look at the man who described himself as "the world's greatest playwright"; and Tennessee Williams' South, a visual portrait of the controversial American writer. Above Williams (left) and GBS (right).

Shaw and Williams— Two Film Portraits

When Cecil Smith of the Los Angeles Times, first saw Tennessee William's South, the highly acclaimed documentary produced by CBC-TV's Harry Rasky, he referred to the technique employed as "Raskymentary." The newly coined word was a tribute to Canada's master filmmaker. Just one of the many tributes which Rasky has received over the years.

On Wednesday, April 28, CBC-TV viewers will be treated to a full evening of Raskymentary, a two-and-one-half hour package of two of Harry's finest works.

First of the two will be The Wit and World of G. Bernard Shaw, an engrossing portrait of the controversial Irish writer, who unhesitatingly described himself as "the world's greatest playwright".

To interpret the Shaw character, Harry Rasky has assembled a list of screen and television heavyweights. The list includes Christopher Plummer, Genevieve Bujold, Barry Morse and John Colicos — Canadians all — as well as the great man himself, G. B. Shaw on a number of unusual film clips.

The second part of the evening will be devoted to Tennessee Williams' South, another Raskymentary that was described as "a gem," "a delightful program," "a brilliant account," and "the best program of the Canadian television season", when it was first telecast on March 26, 1973.

Once again. Rasky deals with both the man and the writer, looking at Williams' works through the eyes and the acting abilities of a formidable cast that includes John Colicos, Colleen Dewhurst, William Hutt, Burl Ives, Maureen Stapleton, Jessica Tandy and Michael York.

The film portrays Williams as he has never been seen before, in the streets of New Orleans, in his Key West home and on a boat at sea.

The two portraits are neatly tied together by Christopher Plummer, and flow so smoothly that they appear to be one entire show rather than two separate parts. And, throughout the 150 minutes of telecast time, the personality of Harry Rasky is constantly made apparent, asking questions here, prodding a little there, and always bringing out the best in his stars and his subjects.

Only rarely has an entire night of prime time been devoted to the works of one producer. Harry Rasky is an ideal choice for this very special night. He has won every major international TV award, including the coveted Emmy and the Venice Film Festival Besides, no other producer in the world can turn out "Raskymentaries".

Muggeridge Series on 9

A THIRD TESTAMENT, a six-part series based on the hypothesis that such a modern document may already exist today, premieres on Public TV 9, April 25 at 1:00 p.m. Hosted by British journalist Malcolm Muggeridge, this provocative series considers the contributions to the Third Testament found in the lives and writings of St. Augustine, Blaise Pascal, William Blake, Soren Kierkegaard, Leo Tolstoy, and Dietrich Bonhoeffer. Part spiritual, part political and part sociological, A Third Testament is a powerful document of human kind's relationship to the world.

According to Muggeridge, "When I first became interested in the subjects of this Third Testament, I saw them separately — as six characters in search of God. Thinking about them, it became clear to me that, though they were all quintessentially men of their time, they had in common a special role — to relate their life to eternity."

Muggeridge thinks that all people must strive to relate their own era to eternity; "Otherwise, we forget that, when the lure of self-sufficiency proves too strong, or despair too overwhelming, people need to be called back to God to rediscover humility and with it hope."

In the first program, Muggeridge is joined by Archbishop of Los Angeles Timothy Cardinal Manning, for an in-depth overview of the entire series. The show then moves to an examination of St. Augustine, whom Muggeridge compares to Noah: "like a later Noah he was constrained to construct an ark. In his case, called Orthodoxy, wherein his church could survive through the dark days that lay ahead."

Muggeridge believes that St. Augustine, in his City of God provided the classical analysis of the relationship between man in time and man in eternity. Written soon after the sacking of Rome by barbarians, this work is credited by Muggeridge with maintaining the light of the New Testament in the debris of the fallen Empire.

The Third Testament is a co-production of Time-Life Films, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and Societe Radio-Canada.

New Drama by Scots Author

The evolution of a 16-year-old girl from the innocence of childhood into the awareness of adulthood dramatically is depicted in Sunset Song, a new six-part series airing on MASTERPIECE THEATRE beginning April 25 at 9 p.m. (rebroadcast weekly Fridays at 9 p.m.)

First novel in a trilogy by top Scots author Lewis Grassic Gibbon, Sunset Song is set in a small Scottish community in the beautiful windswept hills of Kincardineshire in the early 1900s. There young Chris Guthrie (Vivien Heilbron) struggles through maturation, forced by her mother's death and her father's stiff-necked harshness: he makes her choose between her love of the land and her schoolbooks, between her physical, sensual, emotional instincts and her intellectual.

Twenty-five year old Vivien was chosen after a long auditioning search, in which she competed with nearly every young Scottish actress. She gives a "delicate lively performance" in a production "made with a keen feeling for the color and shape of Scottish skies and hills," commented the London Daily Telegraph, when "Sunset Song" first aired on the BBC.

About half of the series was filmed on location by producer Pharic Maclaren and directed Moira Armstrong.

MAO'S CHINA

MAO'S CHINA, a documentary on the world's most populous nation, will be broadcast on Public TV 9 April 25 at 2:00 p.m. and April 26 at 8:30 p.m. Using film footage from a report recently presented on French television, Mao's China gives Americans a new view of China's history, its people, and its leaders.

The French production includes rare footage from the early 20th century in mainland China, as well as the only known sequence of Chairman Mao's actually speaking on film. Most of this film never before has been seen in the United States.

Today's Movies

Wings of the Morning (xx), on 8 at 12:45. A studied, often captiviting 1937 romantic drama set in Ireland, about a gypsy girl and a young Canadian training a horse for the Irish Derby, starring Annabella and Henry Fonda.

You Came Along, on 11 at 1. No rating available on this 1945 tragic-comedy about three Second World War Air Force heroes on a bond tour, starring Robert Cummins and Lizabeth Scott.

Getting Away from It all (xx), on 5 at 3:30. A lightweight 1972 made-for-TV comedy about the misadventures of two New York City couples who leave the big city for the quiet country life, with Larry Hagman and Barbara Feldon.

A Girl Named Sooner (xxx), on 5 at 8. Cloris Leachman, child actress Susan Deer and Lee Remick star in this 1975 made-for-TV family drama about the re-adjustment of an illiterate, backwoods 8-year-old girl who moves to a comfortable foster home in a 1930s Indiana town.

Sands of Iwo Jima (xxx), on 11 at 9. John Wayne heads an excellent cast in this vivid and stirring 1949 action-packed story about a group of heroic marines in the Pacific during the Second World War.

Three's a Crowd (xx), on 12 at 10. A cast of familiar TV faces (Larry Hagman, Jessica Walter, Harvey Korman, Norman Fell) star in this 1969 comedy about a man who marries under the delusion that his first wife is dead.

Antonia: Portrait of the Woman (xxxx), on 9 at 10:30. Folksinger Judy Collins directed this award-winning 1974 documentary profile of orchestra conductor Antonia Brico, who at 73 years of age is finally being recognized for her remarkable talent and dedication to her craft. Recommended.

Go Ask Alice (xx), on 12 at 11:30. A grim, 1973 made-for-television drama based on the diary of a girl struggling to overcome drug addition, starring Jamie Smith Jackson, William Shatner and Andy Griffith.

Sapphire (xxx), on 6 at midnight. An excellent, low-key 1959 British-made blend of mystery and racial prejudice, about a detective trying to solve the murder of a girl who was part black, starring Nigel Patrick, Michael Craig and Yvonne Buckingham.

Birds of Prey (xx), on 8 at midnight. Routine 1973 made-for-TV crime-drama starring David Janssen as a helicopter-borne traffic reporter drawn into an aerial duel with a gang of bank robbers.

The Mountain Road (xx), on 7 at 12:30. A drab 1960 war drama about personal problems and stopping the enemy in China, totally beneath the talents of James Stewart and a good supporting cast.

No Sad Songs For Me, on 8 at 1:45 a.m. No rating available on this 1950 high-class soap opera about a fatally ill wife and mother arranging for the future of her family before she dies. Cast includes Margaret Sullivan (in her last film role), Wendell Corey and Natalie Wood.

Cry Panic (xx), on 6 at 2 a.m. John Forsythe and Anne Francis star in this 1974 made-for-television drama about a man caught up in a personal nightmare when he accidentally kills a drunk with his car.

ANTONIA: A PORTRAIT OF THE WOMAN — an acclaimed 1974 documentary, directed by folksinger Judy Collins, on the life and career of 73-year-old symphony orchestra conductor Antonia Brico. After three decades of relative obscurity and frustration as an artist, this film has brought Ms. Brico to the public's attention with Time magazine declaring her as the "champion comeback of the year."

Today's Highlights

Basketball 8 Channel 7 may pre-empt regularly scheduled programs tonight for coverage of an NBA play-off game.

Anyone for Tennyson? on 9 at 7. The Growth of a Poet: Sylvia Plath (1932-63) — an examination of the life and works of a contemporary writer who is particularly popular with today's young people. Ms. Plath's development as a writer is traced in excerpts from letters and in several of her poems. (30 mins.)

Mao's China, on 9 at 8:30. The life of Chairman Mao Tse-tung and the history of the People's Republic of China, from a feudal nation to a world power are the subjects of this documentary, produced in France. (2 hrs.)

Dean Martin Celebrity Roast, on 8 at 9. Dennis Weaver is the target for this roast, accepting barbs from such celebrities as Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone from Gunsmoke, Milton Berle, Rich Little, William Conrad, Mike Connors, Ruth Buzzi, Zsa Zsa Gabor and Red Buttons. (60 mins.)

CBC Newsmagazine, on 2 and 6 at 10. In the last show of the series, host Lloyd Robertson looks at a nationwide survey commissioned by CBC on public attitudes towards wage-and-price control programs. Interviews include representatives from business, labor and government. (30 mins.)

Man Alive, on 2 and 6 at 10:30. Sondra Diamond: Truly Alive — a sequel to last season's I Am Not What You See profile of a woman who, despite cerebral palsy, has become a psychologist. In this update, Miss Diamond is seen on a lecture tour, candidly revealing her own experiences in an effort to promote a humane and equitable environment for the disabled. (30 mins.)

90 Minutes Live, on 2 at 11:20. Host Peter Gzowski's guests tonight include classical guitarist Liona Boyd; and Depression gangster Alvin Karpis, recently parolled from a long prison term. (90 mins.)

SondraDiamond Is Truly Alive

Last season, a CBC television Man Alive program, I Am Not What You See, with Sondra Diamond, elicited more audience response and requests for a follow-up series than any other program in the long-run series. This has prompted the series to present a sequel, titled Sondra Diamond: Truly Alive, for telecast on Monday, April 26 at 10:30 p.m.

Sondra Diamond can't walk, dress herself, toilet herself, or write. She was born with cerebral palsy 37 years ago and at that time her parents were told there was little or no hope of her achieving a meaningful existence — she would always be a "human vegetable." Today Sondra is a practising psychologist in Philadelphia, Pa. The fight to be accepted as a complete human being has been a tough one, but with the support of loving parents and sheer determination, she has overcome her physical disabilities.

Since her first appearance on Man Alive, Sondra has become a forceful voice for the rights of the disabled. She spends much of her time travelling across the continent fighting for the physically handicapped. She is determined to be accepted not because of her disability, but because she can compete with any able-bodied person. Recently she was in Toronto at a conference held by the Hospital for Sick Children, to speak to nurses, doctors and others working with the disabled.

She spoke about the need to overcome the negative feelings most people have encountering the disabled. She said: "As hard as you may try, you will not be able to hide your feelings from the disabled individual. He will perceive your true feelings in the way you touch him and the way you relate to him verbally."

She also mentioned another important need of the disabled. She said: "Most people see me as a-sexual, as neuter — neither male nor female. I happen to be a female and I'm also heterosexual. A man usually says to me . . . you know. Sondra, you should become a nun . . . you're such a wonderful person."

Roy Bonisteel is moderator of a panel discussion with Sondra, filmed for this program. Others on the panel are Dr. Paul Steinhauer, senior staff psychiatrist, Hospital for Sick Children, and Mrs. Isabel Otter, mother of a handicapped child.

Roy Bonisteel also talks with Sondra about her commitment to fight for the disabled and Right to Life and her views on the feminist movement.

Sondra Diamond: Truly Alive is produced and directed by Sig Gerber, executive producer is Leo Rampen.

CBS Experiments With Prime Time Cartoons

By SANDER VANOCUR

(WP)—Bugs Bunny will be eating his carrot in prime time starting April 27.

CBS plans to run old Bugs Bunny and Roadrunner cartoons, now seen on Saturday mornings, for six weeks from 8 to 8:30 p.m.

Among the classics will be Birds Anonymous, which won an Academy Award in 1957, Knighty Knight Bugs, which won in 1958 and What's Up, Doc? the phrase that became synomomous with the cartoon character.

The move is something of an experiment for CBS. Reruns have not been doing well this year. Robert D. Wood, who last week resigned as president of the CBS Television Network, said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles that since research had shown that sets in use in the early evening were being monopolized by viewers from 2 to 18 years of age, it had been decided at CBS that Bugs Bunny cartoons might have a wide audience appeal.

There is precedent for cartoons being successful in prime time. "The Flintstones," a Hanna-Barbera Production, ran for six years on ABC, from 1960 to 1966.

The Wonderful World of Walt Disney, which has been very successful on Sunday for NBC, while not relying solely on cartoons, does very well in the ratings when an animated feature is shown.

CBS has, at present, no long-range plans for cartoons in prime time. The six-week Bugs Bunny offering is an experiment. If it does well, it will have told CBS programmers something and they will probably take it into consideration in their long-range programming considerations.

BYLINE HOLLYWOOD

Kathy Cronkite, actress-daughter of newscaster Walter Cronkite, has a featured role in a Paddy Chayefsky saga of a television corporation.

Today's Highlights

Tuesday at Nine, on Cable 10 at 9 p.m. Host Charles Barber of the Community Planning Association of Canada looks at the B.C. Conference on the Family, jointly sponsored by the B.C. Government and various religious bodies. Barber discusses the Conference in November, 1975, the programs that arose from the Conference, and plans for another Conference in 1976 with his guests Rabbi Daniel Segal, Canon Hilary Butler, Mrs. Ruth Owen, Rev. John Williams, and Mrs. Connie Hawley, the Coordinator for the Conferences. There will be an opportunity for viewers to phone in their questions and comments. (90 mins.)

American Parade, on 12 at 9. A drama special entitled, Stop Thief!, about the downfall of William Marcy "Boss" Tweed (1823-78), whose corrupt control of New York politics enabled him and his friends to steal millions of dollars in city funds. But Tweed finds a determined adversary in editorial cartoonist Thomas Nast, whose caustic caricatures paved the way for his exposure and downfall. Cast includes Howard da Silva. (60 mins.)

Dean Martin Special, on 5 at 10. A celebrity roast with actor Dennis Weaver the target of barbs aimed by Amanda Blake and Milburn Stone, who co-starred with Weaver in Gunsmoke; also William Conrad, Milton Berle, Rich Little, Shelley Winters, Mike Connors, Ruth Buzzi, Red Buttons and Zsa Zsa Gabor. (60 mins.)

DRAMA SPECIAL — Howard Da Silva stars as "Boss" Tweed in Stop, Thief!, an historical drama written by Terry Southern about New York City's notorious political boss of a century ago, to be presented as part of the American Parade drama series, on Tuesday at 9 p.m. on Channel 12.

Today's Movies

Father Came Too (xx), on 8 at 12:45. A lighthearted 1963 British-made comedy about the problems faced by a pair of newly weds who agree to live with the bride's rambunctuous father, starring James Robertson Justice, Stanley Baxter and Sally Smith.

Bride of Vengeance, on 11 at 1. No rating available on this 1949 costume drama about political intrigue and evil doings in the Borgia family of Renassance Italy, starring Paulette Goddard and Macdonald Carey.

Circus World (xx), on 5 at 3:30. (Part 1). John Wayne and Rita Hayworth head a large cast in this 1964 circus spectacular about a problem-ridden Wild West show on a European tour. (Show in two parts with the conclusion tomorrow.)

The Dark Corner (xxx), on 12 at 7. A well-played and generally interesting 1946 crime-drama about a private detective neatly framed for murder by a scheming socialite, starring Mark Stevens and Clifton Webb. Lucille Ball is well cast and has some amusing lines as the detective's private secretary.

Strategic Air Command (xx), on 11 at 9. James Stewart and June Allyson star in this fairly interesting 1955 drama about the working of SAC—the atom-carrying planes that help maintain the peace, and the men involved. The film is enhanced by some spectacular aerial footage.

The Delta Factor, on 12 at 11:45. No rating available on this 1970 adventure based on a Mickey Spillaine book about an international soldier-of-fortune hired to rescue a scientist from a Caribbean-island stronghold, starring Christopher George and Yvette Mimieux.

The Satan Murders, on 4 at midnight. No rating available on this made-for-TV mystery about a detective investigating a murder apparently accomplished by supernatural powers, starring Larry Blydon and Salome Jens.

Topaz (xxx), on 6 at midnight. Alfred Hitchcock directed this interesting 1969 suspense drama based on the best-selling novel about a security leak during the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, starring John Forsythe, Dany Robin and Canadian actor John Vernon in a good performance as a Castro-type revolutionary.

The Subject Was Roses (xxx), on 8 at midnight. An excellent, well-acted 1968 film adaptation of Frank D. Gilroy's Pulitzer Prize-winning play about a troubled New York family.

Today's Movies

That Swinging City (xx), on 8 at 12:45. A 1966 British-made comedy about a day in the life of an easy-going pigeon-fancier and the London eccentrics he meets, starring Michael Bentine, Terry-Thomas and Stanley Holloway.

Elephant Walk (xx), on 11 at 1. The natural beauty of Ceylon and a youthful Elizabeth Taylor highlight this 1954 drama about the problems of adjustment faced by a young English bride on a tea plantation in the Far East. Miss Taylor's leading men are Peter Finch and Dana Andrews.

Second Chance (xx), on 5 at 3:30. Brian Keith and Elizabeth Ashley star in this 1972 made-for-TV comedy about a New York stockbroker who gives up his career to establish a ghost town community for fellow drop-outs.

Law of the Land, on 5 at 9. An unpreviewed 1976 made-for-television western melodrama about a posse tracking down a crazed killer of saloon girls, starring Jim Davis, Barbara Parkins and Don Johnson.

The 400 Blows (xxxx), on 9 at 9. A memorable, award-winning 1959 film, the first directed by the famed French filmmaker Francois Truffaut, about an adolescent boy, neglected by his selfish parents, who discovers some unpleasant facts about life. The boy is played with great sensitivity by Jean-Pierre Leaud, with excellent photography and editing setting the mood for this touching portrait. Recommended for film buffs.

Hell Is for Heroes (xxx), on 11 at 9. Steve McQueen, Bobby Darin and Fess Parker head an excellent cast in this well-acted and powerful 1962 Second World War drama, focusing on a single manoeuvre by a squad of GIs in retaliation against the force of the German Siegfried line.

That Touch of Mink (xx), at 12 at 9:30. A lightweight but amusing 1962 romantic comedy starring Cary Grant, Doris Day and Gig Young.

The Last Escape, on 12 at 11:30. No rating available on this 1970 adventure about OSS captain who teams with British commandos to rescue a German scientist held by the Nazis, starring Stuart Whitman.

Hello, Dolly! (xxx), on 6 at midnight. Barbra Streisand stars in this lavishly-filmed 1969 musical, directed by Gene Kelly, and based on the long-running Broadway hit about an irrepressible matchmaker in 1890 New York. Miss Streisand is superb, overpowering everyone in the cast with the exception of the great Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong, making a brief appearance with Barbra to sing the title song.

Twin Detectives, on 8 at midnight. An unpreviewed 1976 made-for-television crime-drama featuring country and western performers Jim and Jon Hager as a pair of identical-twin private eyes out to con phony psychics. Former silent screen star Lillian Gish appears in a supporting role.

In Like Flint (xx), on 7 at 12:30. A 1967 sequel to Our Man Flint about the further adventures of the "coolest" super-spy of them all, stylishly portrayed by James Coburn. The plot, merely an excuse for dispays of Coburn's gymnastic and romantic skills, centres on a diabolical scheme by a group of women to take over the world.

The Angry Hills (xx), on 8 at 1:30 a.m. Robert Mitchum stars in this 1959 drama based on a lesser-known Leon Uris novel about the Greek Resistance movment during the Second World War. Mitchum plays a correspondent caught up in the turmoil, with a competent supporting cast including Stanely Baker and Theodore Bikel.

The Girl Who Came Gift-Wrapped (xx), on 6 at 3 a.m. A 1974 made-for-television comedy about the misadventures of a country girl who comes to the big city in search of a husband, starring Karen Valentine and Richard Long.

THE 400 BLOWS — famed French director Francois Truffaut's first feature film (1959) will be presented on Thursday at 9 p.m. on Channel 9. Hailed as the first and foremost of the New Wave masterpieces, The 400 Blows is Truffaut's autobiography and stars young Jean-Pierre Leaud in the leading role as a 12-year-old boy who through parental neglect, drifts into deliquency.

Today's Highlights

B.C. Indian Art Featured in PBS Series

TRIBAL EYE, a series which investigates the people and places which produce tribal art, returns to Public TV 9 April 28 at 8:00 p.m. with a program dedicated to the culture of the Northwest Indians.

On this episode, entitled Crooked Beak of Heaven, series host David Attenborough shows "that it is possible for a tribal society like the Kwakiutl Indians to move right into the 20th century, to master all its complexities, to be able to use modern travelling boats and navigational devices in order to go on with their fishing, to become expert in commerce and finance, and still to believe in the importance of their ancient rituals."

One of the ceremonies that has survived is the potlatch — a feast given by an important man in the tribe who is about to receive a new rank or new rights. Previously suppressed by white governments, potlatches were an opportunity for the honored man to give away a great number of goods as a sign of his importance.

After long negotiations, the Attenborough team gained permission to film the usually private ceremony. The program focuses on a potlatch held by Arthur Dick, an hereditary chief and a leading fisherman at Alert Bay in British Columbia.

The masks, totems and customs of the Kwakiutl also are examined during this show. One of the most awesome of the dances featured is the Hamatsa, the dance of the cannibal birds. It is from one of these fearsome creatures, Crooked Beak of Heaven, that the program derives its title.

In following weeks, Attenborough visits fifteen other cultures to explore the different meanings behind some of the world's most priceless art. Some of these tribal cultures include: The Dogon people of Mali; the goldworkers of Middle and South America; the artists of Melanesia; the rugmakers of the Qashqa'i nomads of Southern Iran; and the bronzemakers of Nigeria. Since each of these locations is unique, and since the producers had no preconceived notions when they began, each show has a different feeling to it — ranging from the lyrical to the sociological. In this way, each culture is appreciated on its own terms.

David Attenborough is a man at ease with this spirit of exploration. A noted British zoologist and filmmaker, he headed BBC 2 for its first eight years. He was the man responsible for introducing serialized novels (Forsyte Saga), comedy (Monty Python), sports, and color to that network. For his team, he chose a variety of experts and advisers, ranging from William Fagg, retired keeper of the Museum of Mankind, to local interpreters and go-betweens.

Maclear Probes Dangerous Misuse of Lie Detectors

Correspondent Michael Maclear probes the frightening misuse of and abuse of lie detectors and polygraph machines and questions the qualifications of the operators and the constitutionality of the machines they operate, on Thursday at 9:30 p.m. on Channel 8.

Today, some 5,000 psychological stress evaluators (PSE) and polygraph operators work in North America. They claim their equipment accurately measures changes in heart rate, skin temperature, breathing and voice stress. The few polygraphists who license and supervise themselves, claim their tests are 99 per cent accurate. Yet, most PSE operators are minimally trained and are unlicensed. Their machines may be unconstitutional, even unreliable. But the dubious use of this equipment is spreading.

"Independent studies," says Maclear, "are critical of the use of any kind of detector. The polygraph has a reliability rate of only 63 per cent, while the PSE has a rate of 33 per cent, which is less than chance.

"Soon," Maclear observes, "any one of us may be interrogated without our permission and without our knowledge. Any individual can be tested, assessed and failed without ever knowing it, or consenting to the action. This makes every home and business a place of inquisition."

"And there's worse to come in the future in the form of remote lie detectors that utilize infrared cameras and heat beams."

Maclear points out that some companies say it is necessary because of industrial theft exceeding 5 billion dollars in North America but he seriously questions the cost relative to industrial relations and civil liberties.

This year, in the U.S. alone, the police, government, private agencies and businesses used the lie detector an estimated two million times. And as the United States goes, so goes Canada.

Olympiad Profiles Russian Athletes

The popular date of the Soviet Union's entrance into the Olympic Games is 1952 in Helsinki. However, few people realize that Russian athletes competed in the Stockholm Olympic Games of 1912 where they won four bronze and silver medals. Historic footage never seen before shows the Russian gymnastic team competing in the Stockholm Olympic Games.

The Russians sent a full team to Helsinki in 1952. They amazed the world by winning 22 gold medals. Although their men did not win in track and field, their women won 3 gold medals.

The Russian Athlete (Thursday at 8 p.m. on Channel 8.) traces the history of Soviet athletes in the Olympic Games. The film features the great exploits of Vladmir Kuts at the Melbourne Olympic Games of 1956. There he revolutionized long distance running with his magnificent victories in the 5000 and 10,000 metre runs. The film highlights the story of how Soviet athletes have come to equal and surpass the performances that once were considered American and European events.

Their great high jump champion Valeri Brummel is featured and their double gold medal sprinter Valeri Borzov who will attempt to duplicate his victories of 1972 at the Montreal Olympic Games. Double gold medal winner in the triple jump Viktor Saneyév will talk about his competition in 1968 and 1972.

Russian weight lifters have become the greatest in history and Soviet volleyball and basketball teams are now recognized as among the finest in the world.

Since their participation in the games, Soviet athletes have won gold medals in every sport but field hockey.

Also highlighted will be Soviet men and women who have dominated gymnastics since 1952 with their breathtaking performances.

The Russian Athlete is perhaps the most dramatic story of the modern Olympic games. Their men and women have surpassed the U.S. in their totality of performance in nearly every event on the program . . . an accomplishment unthinkable when they first entered the Olympic arena less than a quarter of a century ago.

Documentary On War In Angola

THE AGONY OF INDEPENDENCE: A PERSPECTIVE ON ANGOLA AND SOUTHERN AFRICA, examines the conflicts in this troubled land — from the 15th Century, through the years of slave trade and Portuguese colonization, up to the present day. The program, which airs April 29 at 7:30 p.m. on Public TV 9, makes extensive use of documentary footage shot by BBC and independent film crews throughout Angola and the surrounding countries.

The victory of the MPLA, and the international recognition of the Peoples' Republic of Angola, is examined within the context of changing pressures in Southern Africa. "Victory" does not imply that all will be quiet in Angola, nor does it mean that Southern Africa might not become a theatre of international concern. The forces of African nationalism and Western economic interest, together with the politics of detente, create an unstable and shifting situation.

Interviews with representatives from the State Department and Congress, journalists, and academics offer varying views of U.S foreign policy with regard to Africa.

Most significantly, the program also gives a perspective on recent events in Rhodesia and how they represent, together with Angola, a scenario for change in strategically and economically important Southern Africa.

Today's Highlights

Basketball — Channel 7 will probably pre-empt regularly scheduled programs this evening for coverage of an NBA play-off game.

Boxing Special, on 4 at 6 p.m. Live coverage of a scheduled 15-round bout at Capital Centre in Landover, Maryland, between defending world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali and challenger Jimmy Young. The questionable credentials of Ali's most recent foe — Jean-Pierre Coopman — prompted much controversy among sportswriters and fans as to whether Ali would continue to defend his title against mostly unranked opponents. But Young is no Coopman, as his No. 3 rating by Ring Magazine attests. Young rose to prominence in the heavyweight division when he decisioned sixth-ranked Ron Lyle in February, 1975. Since then he has won three fights, two by KO. (approx. 2 hrs.)

Columbo, on 8 at 7:30. Tonight's episode presents a first for this series — a murder that baffles viewers as well as Columbo (series star Peter Falk). In this story, he is trying to solve the killing of a yacht-building tycoon, and in a wealthy waterfront setting, he is faced with several likely suspects. Supporting cast includes Robert Vaughn, Diane Baker and Wilfrid Hyde-White. (2 hrs.)

Wayne and Shuster, on 2 and 6 at 9. This is the last show of the season for Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster whose main sketch is an updated version of, Rinse the Blood Off My Toga, a spoof of Shakespeare's Julius Caesar, was first performed on television in 1967. (60 mins.)

Masterpiece Theatre, on 9 at 9. Debut of a new six-part drama entitled, Sunset Song, based on the Lewis Grassic Gibbon novel about rural life in turn-of-the-century Scotland. (60 mins.)

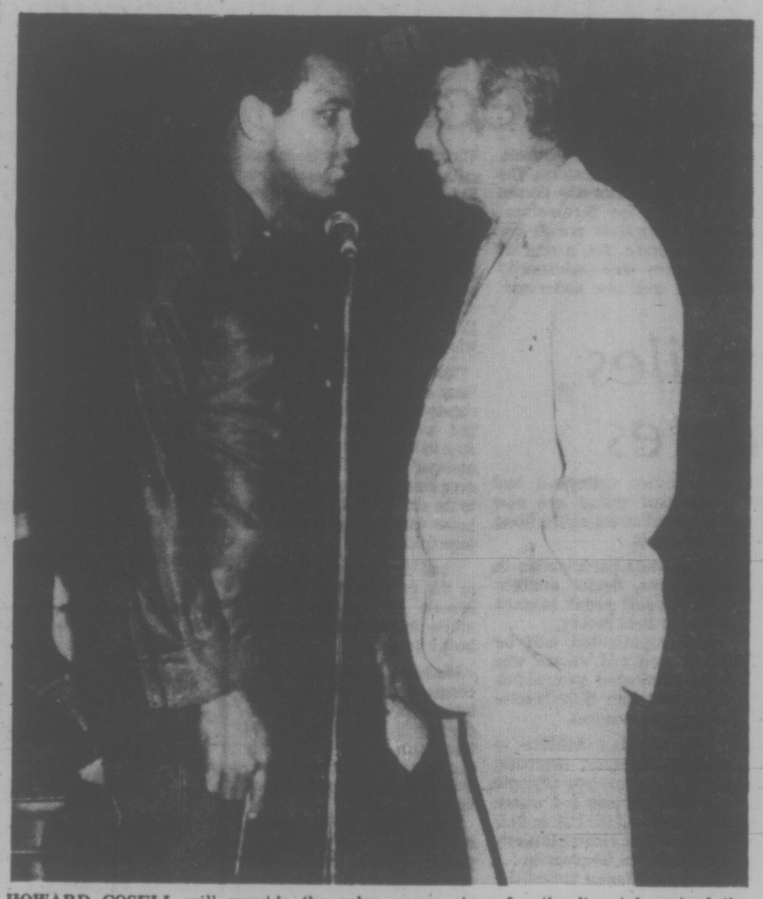
Police Story, on 2 and 5 at 10. Repeat telecast of an episode entitled, Losing Game, starring Stella Stevens as a woman police officer whose devotion to a time-consuming career is beginning to affect her marriage to a man who is also a police officer. Supporting cast includes Alex Cord and Burr DeBenning. (60 mins.)

Merv Griffin Presents Paul Anka, on 4 at 10. Merv Griffin hosts this music special featuring Paul Anka, Odia Coates and Wayne Newton, who perform a medley of Anka hits. (60 mins.)

Behind the Lines, on 9 at 10:30. A discussion of the last months of the Nixon administration with guests Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, reporters for the Washington Post and authors of, All the President's Men. (30 mins.)

90 Minutes Live, on 2 at 11:20. Host Peter Gzowski welcomes among his guests folk singer Sylvia Tyson; football players Anthony Davis and Johnny Rodgers; and rock and roll star Chuck Berry. (90 mins.)

Kentucky Derby Special, on 4 at 11:30. Highlights from this past week's celebration preceding the 102nd run for the roses at Louisville's Churchill Downs. The program includes interviews with owners, trainers and jockeys of the leading horses entered in the May 1 race. (60 mins.)



HOWARD COSELL will provide the color commentary for the live telecast of the scheduled 15-round heavyweight championship bout between defending champion Muhammad Ali and 3rd ranked challenger Jimmy Young, on Friday at 6 p.m. on Channel 4.

Today's Movies

The Long, Long Trailer (xx), on 8 at 12:45. Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz star in this 1954 comedy about the comic misadventures of a honeymooning couple driving around the country in a "home on wheels."

By Love Possessed (xx), on 11 at 1. A 1961 soap opera about an attorney drawn into an affair with the lonely wife of his crippled law partner, starring Lana Turner, Efrem Zimbalist Jr. and Jason Robards.

Charley's Aunt (xxx), on 5 at 3:30. The perennial, always-amusing comedy about the man who poses as a woman to help out his roommate, this production filmed in 1941 and starring Jack Benny and Kay Francis.

What Price Glory? (xx), on 11 at 9. A 1952 re-make of the durable First World War comedy about a pair of hard-drinking, two-fisted soldiers stationed in France, starring James Cagney and Dan Dailey. This version was directed by John Ford and co-stars Corinne Calvet and William Demarest.

The Heroes of Telemark (xx), on 12 at 10:15. Excellent on-location filming enhances this lively but predictable 1966 Second World War drama about resistance fighters in Nazi-occupied Norway. Cast includes Kirk Douglas, Richard Harris and Michael Redgrave.

The Pit and the Pendulum (xx), on 6 at midnight. Thriller fans will enjoy this 1961 Gothic horror story loosely based on the Poe classic and starring Vincent Price.

Battle Beneath the Earth, on 8 at midnight. A 1968 British-made comic-strip science fiction melodrama about laser beams and Oriental villainy. Cast is unfamiliar.

55 Days of Peking (xxx), on 12 at 12:55 a.m. Charlton Heston, Ava Gardner and David Niven star in this sprawling 1963 adventure epic about a group of foreigners in Peking caught up in the turmoil of the 1900 Boxer Rebellion. Lots of action and a good supporting cast headed by Harry Andrews and Flora Robson.

Twice Told Tales, on 6 at 1:40 a.m. A 1963 trio of Nathaniel Hawthorne thrillers, starring Vincent Price and Sebastian Cabot. The stories featured are Dr. Heidigger's Experiment; Rappaccini's Daughter; and The House of the Seven Gables.

The Vampires (x), on 8 at 2 a.m. Gordon Scott stars in this 1961 Italian-made adventure set in ancient times.

The young Father Murray founded his school for boys of all religions and colors in the thirties, building it literally brick by brick. He guided and taught boys from poor and rich homes alike. An ecclesiastical scholar, he also spoke the language of the streets, and swore, smoked and drank with the best of them. His name and his school are known around the world (Originally scheduled February 20th).

FM Network

9 p.m. Radio International — The first of a five 'chapter' radio biography of the American author, John Howard Griffin, which runs weekly until the end of May. This portrait of Griffin in his own words is devised, compiled from his writings and from interviews and produced for Radio International by John Reeves, with the co-operation of U.S. National Public Radio. The series title: "The Obligations of Love." Best-known for one book, "Black Like Me," John Howard Griffin has also achieved public recognition for his work as a novelist, photographer, anthropologist, musicologist, activist for civil rights — and even as a livestock-breeder. In his private life he is widely esteemed as a religious man, family man, and devoted friend. The five programs largely consist of material taken from interviews recorded at Griffin's home in the spring of 1975, with readings interpolated by other voices, from his published and unpublished works. This first program, "On Racism," deals with the period of "Black Like Me." when Mr. Griffin darkened his skin color by chemical means and lived for a time as a Negro in the deep south; with the years since; and his formative years.

Oscar Peterson— Words and Music

He's 50 now and he's getting arthritis, but Oscar Peterson stills plays the sweetest jazz this side of the 49th parallel . . . and beyond.

Toronto freelancers Lilly Barnes and Greg Gallagher have prepared 90 minutes of music and words by Canada's own Oscar for The Entertainers, Sun., April 25 at 7:30 p.m. (Sat., April 24 at 8:30 p.m. on CBC-FM).

During the program, Peterson discourses on his favorite subject — music — and all its many themes and variations: jam sessions, touring, the rewards, composing, while fellow musicians Ray Brown, Herb Ellis, and Phil Nimmons comment on their longtime relationships with Peterson.

Interspersed throughout are generous portions of the Peterson pyrotechnics: Day Train, Jumpin' at the Woodside, Mozambique (which he wrote with Dizzie Gillespie), and the March Past from his Canadiana Suite, among others.

The Oscar Peterson show for CBC Radio's The Entertainers April 25 is produced by Ann Hunter.

If you happened to see the National Film Board's rather lurid documentary biography of Malcolm Lowry the other night (it was shown on CBC television in prime time), you may remember a sequence in which an elderly couple recalled the night when Malcolm Lowry changed water into wine.

"You see this water tap," he said to them, or words to the same effect, "when I turn it on, what comes out will be pure, delicious wine." He was so positive about it, declared the couple, that they believed him. "Malcolm believed it too," added the man. "He had to. There was nothing else left to drink in the house."

How Lowry's "wine/water" actually tasted was not reported, but having grown high on ginger ale several times in my salad days myself, I am prepared to believe that it was as intoxicating as the company assembled in the little shack in Dollarton, B.C., could wish.

This short sequence was one of the high points of a film that, overall, seemed dedicated to the proposition that because its subject had suffered so greatly, its audience should at least be made to squirm a little. But the wine/water episode also interested me because it so neatly illustrated the central theme of the book I happened to be reading at the time: It never pays to underestimate the power of positive thinking.

The book is called Conjuring up Philip: an Adventure in Psychokinesis, and it is the product of approximately two years of group effort aimed at creating a fictitious ghost whose actual presence could be witnessed by outside observers and recorded on film and tape. How anyone "fictitious" could have an "actual presence" is not an easy matter to expalin, but authors Iris M. Owen and Margaret Sparrow do their best, and the result is good enough to be diverting and interesting much of the time.

In 1970, it seems, an organization named the Toronto Society for Psychical Research was founded to pursue studies in parapsychology, a "new science" devoted to the study of "strange and little-known areas of human experience and knowledge." By 1972, eight of the Society's members had formed a sub-group of their own. They included "an accountant, an engineer, an industrial designer, a scientific research assistant, and four housewives," and they met for two hours once a week to sit around a table in a well-lit room, getting to know each other and attempting to conjure up an imaginary ghost.

The group's idea was that if telepathy can occur between "ordinary people who make no claim to psychic ability," why not a mutual hallucination? What seems to have been especially distinctive about the "Philip experiment" is that it began with a deliberate fabrication.

"Philip was an aristocratic Englishman living in the middle 1600's at the time of Oliver Cromwell . . ." So begins Philips's official "biography," which was partly based on distorted fact to ensure there could be no danger of conjuring up a "real" ghost by mistake. (One member of the group was delegated to invent the original biography, which was later embellished during group discussions.)

After a year, all that had developed was "extremely good" group rapport. But then came a breakthrough. The group tried switching from solemn meditative sessions to jolly social interplay and suddenly, three or four weeks later, "Philip" began to "talk."

"Philip" never did appear nor communicate verbally (although experiments are continuing and hopes are high). What he did do was begin answering "yes" or "no" questions with raps, scratches and movements of the table. The group has produced Philip for the CBC-TV program Man Alive, made him the subject of a documentary film, and taught a new group their hard-earned psychic skills. They believe they have successfully demonstrated the falsity of traditional beliefs in poltergeists and "haunting ghosts," and the existence of a new form of physical energy, a kind of mental electricity with unknown potential.

Unfortunately, Conjuring up Philip is far less interesting to read than it might have been. Its style is wordy and dull. The adverb "only" keeps cropping up in inappropriate places like an irrepressible poltergeist on a spree. Nine chapters dealing with hauntings, the history of spiritualism and so on have been tacked on the basic story of the Philip experiment (which is only 100 padded pages long), to produce a book-length work.

The result is a disorganized attempt to persude the reader that an organized scientific experiment of great value has taken place. And who knows? If the power of positive thinking could succeed in conjuring up Philip, it should be able to make short work of impressionable readers.

The Pages of Yesterday

By BRIAN TOBIN

You start reading this book but very soon you find yourself dreaming it. Each page brings memories of yesterday—last year or a lifetime ago. This is a book of nostalgia—for in many ways Victoria High School has been a home to the multitude of young people of this community who have flowed through its classrooms during the past century. The volume contains a thousand memories and is bound to evoke a thousand more.

In "Come Give a Cheer!" marking the centenary of Victoria High School, Dr. Peter Smith, son of the immortal Harry, and a former pupil who is now Dean of Fine Arts and a classics professor at the University of Victoria, has achieved a masterly compilation of facts and figures, anecdotes, historical snippets, quotations, reminiscences, well written profiles, and above all: pictures, pictures, pictures.

Pick it up for a few minutes and you may become lost for hours, because most of what you see will arouse a recollection, and another, and another . . .

Because of this quality, it is a different book for all ages. To recent graduates of the school it may appear to be mostly history; for older readers it proves to be a blend of history and their own lives. It is essentially personal. It will be perused to an accompaniment of "I remember that . . .!", "I was there when that happened . . .!", "There's old (teacher, classmate, or even you yourself)." You find yourself revelling in events that haven't occurred to you all these years past.

Because the volume will be a personal thing to every former student of Vic High—and many thousands of them are still living—some personal reflections may be in order.

As I looked through the book I was struck by a fact that I had not previously realized: I had the good fortune to attend Vic High at the exact mid-point in its first hundred years. The class that matriculated in June of 1926, as in any of those middle years, had the advantage of straddling both worlds. We can claim to have known personally some of the pioneers of the school—such figures as E. B. Paul, Joe Clearihue, S. J. Willis, Herbert Kent, Jeanette Cann, Mary Hamilton, and others, some still living—and to have sat in classes under pioneer students who had returned to teach us.

We see those middle years as the golden age—the era of the giants: Harry Smith, Ira Dilworth, Harry Dee and others who were pupils then or young teachers and were to make their mark in the school's history as the years rolled by.

But we of the middle era, as well as having a direct relationship with the early times, also have our contacts with the school of more recent years, perhaps as occasional visitors to the institution, parents of students, guests at some function, or through various associations with the teachers and the student body. We "knew them when" and we also know them now — an enviable position in this centennial year.

Vic High, for everyone who has been associated with it, holds a double significance: it was not merely a part of our youth, it remains a part of our lives. This book makes that clear as it brings home, in the revealing light of perspective, the real stature of some of the teachers and classmates who helped to shape our future.

Inevitably, some will ask why wasn't so-and-so mentioned, why isn't there a picture of my team? That is inescapable in a book such as this. But Peter Smith and his helpers have done an excellent job of ransacking the archives, culling reminiscences, and capturing the atmosphere and the spirit of an institution that is one hundred years young. Although all the thousands of names could not be included in the book, everyone who attended can feel involved because he or she was an integral part of the school and each left a personal pebble of influence, small or large, on the shore of its history.

The story between these covers is as ancient as August 6, 1876, when the Daily British Colonist carried an announcement that the new high school would open at 9 o'clock the next morning; and it is, as modern as April 3, 1976, with its mention of the University of Victoria conferring an honorary degree on Daniel Marshall Gordon, a top-ranking Vic High pupil of the pre-Great War years.

In a blend of history and fascinating asides we read of the early struggles to found the first high school in a tiny cabin on the school reserve, then out in the woods at the top of Yates St. hill. There were two subsequent moves to brick quarters at the same location, in the area where Central Junior Secondary now stands. But the watershed was crossed in 1914 when the rapidly growing classes moved to the fine building where Vic High still flourishes.

The structure cost a little over $460,000, including site, equipment and professional fees, and no Canadian community ever got a better return for its money.

The story of Victoria High unfolds through accounts of student activities: scholastic triumphs, championship athletes and teams, plays, debates, concerts, even picnics. There are reports of shenanigans — forbidden sunbaths on the school roof, tricks on the teachers — and more sober recollections of the war years, the Great Depression, and the toll of time on loved pupils and staff members.

Some of the school's history is hung on the stories of the principals who gave outstanding leadership — and a few who did not. The indivisible merging of the institution and the people, young and old, who have inhabited it over the years results in an excellent picture of a living organism composed of successive annual batches of youth passing through and of older people providing greater continuity. All of them added their contributions to an enduring entity which is made up of those who have gone before, those who currently occupy the space, and a flavoring of the plans and dreams which will shape its future.

Peter Smith has ably rounded up these diverse elements in a volume that very appropriately, and officially, marks the centennial milestone. As he puts it in his introduction: "Whatever the school and its students have achieved in a century of growth can be credited as much to perspiration as to inspiration. Victoria High has never apologized for its adherence to the work ethic . . . Yet there has always been a generous allowance for healthy play, and a predominant spirit of good humor. Despite its age and influence, Vic High has never been a place of deadweight traditionalism or stuffed-shirt pomposity . . . It's been a great old school."

"Come Give a Cheer!", the title of the book and the theme of the centennial celebrations, is taken from a pep song that has been in use over the past decades. To many looking on, there may also be a minor suggestion of "Come Wipe a Tear," for nostalgia is a two-faceted jewel and memories arouse mixed emotions. But this volume is up-beat, optimistic, lively, in keeping with the spirit that gave birth to the school and has kept it going for a century. It will be required reading for all who have taken the course.

The Man and the Soldier

Alun Chalfont's Montgomery of Alamein was published in England shortly before the field marshal's death last month at 88. It was probably the last book Monty read, and it may well have helped to hasten his end; if so the blame was his.

Montgomery always gave generously of his time to authors who wished to write about him but steadfastly refused to hand over his private papers, which effectively precluded the writing of a definitive biography. There may never be one, for he left instructions in his will for his papers to be burned.

"You must find out what makes me tick," Montgomery kept telling Chalfont, "that's the hub of the whole thing — what makes me tick." After some time the field marshal's invitations to the author to visit him ceased and Chalfont suspects it was due to Monty's realization that he had been taken at his word and that Chalfont had talked to relatives and colleagues and was indeed finding out what really made him tick.

Lord Chalfont was ideally placed to do this. He had been a regular army officer between 1939 and 1961, defence correspondent of The London Times (1961-64), and minister of state for foreign affairs for the following six years. So this popular, personable man had access to military, social, newspaper and political circles.

The starting point for any biographer of Montgomery is Alan Moorehead's brilliant book, Montgomery (Hamish Hamilton 1946). After that one must read the field marshal's own Memoirs (Collins 1958), and finally Montgomery as Military Commander, by military historian Ronald Lewin (Batsford 1971). Chalfont read all three (and a lot more besides) but he is obviously mostly indebted to Lewin, whose revealing opening chapter he has shamelessly plagiarized.

This is the famous chapter which briefly disclosed what made Monty tick. It provides the merest glimpse but clearly it was enough to propel Chalfont in the right direction, particularly as he had contemplated writing a new biography of Marlborough, and possibly of Wellington.

Apart from their superb generalship the common denominator of these three great commanders, was an unhappy and confused childhood. Chalfont has seized on this curious and significant fact and has made it the basis for his book. He has made no attempt to analyze Montgomery's campaigns in depth — in fact his treatment of them is impressionistic. His concern has been to trace the links between Monty's military philosophy on the one hand and his complex, often abrasive character on the other. And in this he succeeds admirably.

Montgomery descended from a long line of clergymen on both sides of his family. His maternal grandfather was the famous Dean Farrar, a renowned preacher and author of Eric, or Little by Little, a best-seller, now unreadable. Monty's saintly father was Bishop of Tasmania and later secretary of The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

MONTGOMERY

His father had married Farrar's daughter Maud when he was 36 and she was a mere 16, having become engaged when she was 14. Denied her girlhood, and perpetually strapped for money, poor Maud gave birth to nine children in rapid succession. In Tasmania, to make matters worse, the bishop was absent for six months of every year visiting his immense domain and she was left with all the responsibilities.

She managed by ruling her family with a rod of iron. Seven of the children (one died) were amenable to discipline, but young Bernard, the fourth-born, was not. He rebelled and Maud took out all her frustrations on him. He was beaten regularly and totally deprived of affection. His siblings refused him support and comfort. He became a loner, hating his mother with a deep intensity, which was returned twenty-fold.

The bitter hostility towards his mother lasted all his life (when she died in 1949 he even refused to attend her funeral) and his attitude towards his brothers and sisters in later life was one of patronizing indifference.

Chalfont covers Montgomery's formative years in great detail to show their effect on his character and to explain how this remarkable man rose to the top of a profession committed to many of the civilized virtues which Montgomery conspicuously lacked — tolerance, charm, good manners and concern for the susceptibilities of others.

This crippling childhood explains many things. It explains why he didn't marry until he was 40. His wife, a widow with two children, gave him 10 happy years before dying from complications caused by an insect bite. He saw this as rejection and his intolerance of women became obsessional.

It explains his attitude towards authority. It was either bad, and identified with his mother, or good, and identified with his father. If it was bad, he was completely uninhibited about causing trouble or denigrating the individual concerned. He was unable to give love because it had been denied him by his mother, and as his mother dominated him, he dominated others.

All communication was on the basis of authority. He could communicate with children and young officers because he was dominant. Superiors were either "good" (notably Alan Brooke) or "bad" (notably Alexander and Eisenhower). But with those whose status resembled his own he was lost; there was no childhood parallel and therefore he was apprehensive, which resulted in an inherent inability to collaborate.

He compensated for this emotional deficiency by a colossal ambition which meant he had to prove himself constantly — and obsessively. With the exception of sensitivity, he displayed all the characteristics of the obsessional. Strangely (and with a good deal of luck) he turned these to advantage during wartime.

Minute attention to detail, inflexible attitudes, addictions to lists, programs and schedules, neurotic tidiness, the imperative need for a formally structured environment in which to operate and an almost superhuman calm in times of crisis. All these vices became virtues during his campaigns.

No wonder Montgomery incorporated Alamein into his title; that's where it all began. There, he turned a beleaguered struggle into a glorious triumph which, psychologically, may be regarded as a displacement — an attempt to redeem his fallen self-regard, a compensation for the humiliations of his childhood.

Psycho-history, as played by Lord Chalfont, is at best no more than an absorbing game. It's fun to trace apparently causal links between infantile experience, personality and behavior. But what finally matters in any assessment of a professional soldier is his achievements in war, and Monty's achievements were splendid.

It's true that his crowning achievements coincided with a great superiority in the balance of forces and equipment between the Allies and Axis powers, but that should not detract from the fact that throughout his long career he never lost a battle. Unfortunately, Chalfont seems to have had trouble separating Montgomery the man from Montgomery the soldier.

Lord Chalfont is able to take a dispassionate view possibly because he never served under Montgomery. I did, from the Nile to the Baltic, and I can testify to his astonishing capacity to communicate enthusiasm, his ability to collect a brilliant and intensely loyal staff, his affection for his gallant band of young liason officers (his family?), his love (remote and therefore safe!) for his troops, and his excessive caution in stockpiling supplies before a battle to ensure success — infuriating to Churchill but comforting to his officers and men.

Certainly he made disastrous errors of judgment, most notably in his dealings with the Americans. Certainly he was arrogant: when asked by a schoolboy to name the three greatest generals in history he replied, "The other two were Alexander the Great and Wellington." Certainly he was vain, pompous, sometimes brutal, and utterly impossible. He was also naive and some of his utterances were stupifyingly banal. But, when all is said and done, so what?

The figure which emerges from Chalfont's intensely interesting book is one of the great paradoxes of recent military history — a general loved by his soldiers, feared by his enemies and loathed by many of his contemporaries. Read the book and draw your own conclusions. I promise that, you won't be bored.

He Throws a Soft Light On the 'Dark Continent'

By JULIAN REID

To Joseph Conrad, Africa was the "heart of darkness" — a realm of primordial savagery where the white intruder was eternally in danger of losing his civilized soul. Such was the archetypal appeal of the Dark Continent and its dusky inhabitants; and even today, something of this H. Rider Haggardesque dream-quality lingers in our awareness of Africa and things African. Black is beautiful, all right — but with a savage beauty, splendidly disturbing, capricious, and cruel.

So much for fantasy. What of the reality?

Colin M. Turnbull is a British-born anthropologist — a humane, compassionate, deeply perceptive man, wholeheartedly devoted to understanding the natives of Africa. For a while he lived in the great Ituri Forest with the Mbuti pygmies; they accepted him as one of their own, and he repaid their tribute with a splendid book called The Forest People. Next came The Lonely African, a profoundly moving study of the devastating impact of western culture on some typical natives, presented largely in terms of their own reminiscences and reflections. Subsequently, he described the tribal death-throes of The Mountain People, the Ik of northern Uganda, who had been robbed of all hope along with their traditional ways, and were now reduced to a state of dog-eat-dog degradation.

In his latest book, Man in Africa, Turnbull has set out to isolate the elusive essence of African-ness. Inevitably, this panoramic review of representative native cultures, from nomadic cattle-herders to the pyramid-builders of ancient Egypt, is more abstract and impersonal than its predecessors, and consequently less appealing. Yet for all that, it remains a labor of love.

In the traditional African societies as Turnbull depicts them, there is little sign of the godlessly unregererate "savages" who sent delectable shudders through tepid Victorian souls. Instead, their most striking feature is the "remarkable dignity" of their tribesmen. Life for these was stripped to its essentials — "an essay in survival," solidly anchored to the basic human needs for food, warmth, shelter, and companionship, all of which the native African cultures were eminently well-suited to provide.

Consequently, the individual African's life-style was essentially at one with his environment, his society, and himself. Along with this all-pervasive sense of unity with his world, he was always intensely aware of his kinship with his fellow-tribesmen, and of the social obligations this kinship entailed — out of which grew what Turnbull finally identifies as the distinguishing quality of African-ness: "a focus on social personality rather than individual identity."

With no ideal of aggressive individualism to spur them on, Africans tended to co-operate rather than compete, resting content once their modest needs were filled. Useless extravagance was largely foreign to them; enough was generally enough.

This near-idyllic traditional primitivism was overturned by intruding Europeans, who introduced firearms, slavery, the rule of force, and all the evils of a modern cash-based economy. Turnbull has little liking for such "civilized" ways. In his view, the chief hope for today's Africa is not increased westernization but rather a selective re-Africanization, aimed at updating traditional life-styles instead of supplanting them. The main obstacle is the imported western notion of "progress," and the glorification of materialistic self-assertion that goes along with it.

If he is right, we westerners have much to learn from the traditional mores of Africa. Far from being a jungle of soul-seducing savagery, the mis-called Dark Continent may well stand as a last reminder of that lost spiritual wholeness for which we "civilized" outcasts are all blindly striving — and which, if we are humble enough to learn from the example of our "savage" fellows, we may yet some day regain.

Kojak's Mom An Accomplished Artist

By JOAN GAGE

NEW YORK — When Telly Savalas, television's irrespressible Kojak, asks Christina Sarantakos, "Who loves ya baby?" she doesn't have to wonder. Telly loves her.

Mrs. Sarantakos is the painter Christina Savalas, Telly's mother and the lollipop of his eye. "There's only one artist in our family, and that's my mother," Telly said when he opened an exhibition of her paintings in Athens last month.

Mrs. Savalas, who lives in an apartment in Hempstead, N.Y., son's giving her top billing, and she doesn't mind being referred to as Telly Savalas' mother, even though she has been a successful painter in her own right for most of her 71 years. She is less happy, though, when someone compares her work to that of Grandma Moses or some other artist.

"I've been painting since I was a child," said this grandmother of 19 children. And although she, too, is self-taught, her large canvases are as unlike those of Grandma Moses as are the Byzantine icons that inspired them. Hardly the rocking-chair kind of grandmother, Mrs. Savalas still has the glamour that won her the title "Miss Greece" when she was the mother of five children.

The outspoken Mrs. Savalas takes umbrage even when her paintings are said to be reminiscent of Picasso's. "They are mine!" she shouted at one foolhardy art critic. "Not Picasso's! Mine."

But Mrs. Savalas's greatest source of pride is not her work but her family — four sons — of whom Telly, 52, is the second — and a daughter. And they reciprocate. "I think she is the world's most beautiful woman," said Telly, who never makes a career decision without consulting her.

When he was 37 and an employee of the State Department, Telly called her to say he had been offered the part of an elderly Greek judge in a movie. "Take it," she told him without hesitation. "You'll be a marvelous actor!"

Mrs. Savalas has had some experience herself as an actress, appearing in her youth in several Greek-language plays and starring in an American-made, Greek-language movie that never was released because the film company went bankrupt. Nevertheless, she was distressed to see her "sweet, gentle" son cast in a series of roles that portrayed him as a sadistic criminal.

Today, though Mrs. Savalas is pleased to see her son winning international fame as Kojak, for once on the right side of the law, she is not overwhelmed by his success.

TELLY and his mother on the set of The Greatest Story Ever Told (1965) in which he played Pontius Pilate.

"Kojak is all very well," she says, "but Telly could have been much more serious. He has a great talent — he is a marvelous writer. He is a very powerful man. She added: "But we can't impose on our children what we want them to be — only wish that they become what they want to be."

Telly's father, Nicholas, once called his four sons together for an object lesson. He handed them each a Popsicle stick and told them to break it. They did. Then he handed them a packet of four Popsicle sticks that he had tied together, and none of them was able to break it.

"It's quite true," said Christina Savalas. "Together we are strong, alone we are nothing. And even though my children now live all over the world, we are always together."

Her oldest son, Constantine Socrates, is with the United States Information Agency in Athens. The youngest son, Praxiteles Theodore, called Teddy, was a teacher in Greece until he recently returned with his family to Long Island. He lives in Huntington and teaches in the Hicksville public schools. The daughter, Katherine is married to a Los Angeles lawyer and third son, Domosthenes George, who plays Stavros on the Kojak show, is also based in California.

"And Telly — well, he is everywhere," she says. "He may be working somewhere like California and he'll hop a plane and come straight to me and sit on that couch there, and then when he feels good again he'll get on a plane and go back to work."

The Savalas children were born in Manhattan, and the family moved in 1936 to a rambling, 14-room house in Garden City that became the core of a colorful and eccentric existence. "My husband's family was very large — he was one of more than 20 children," said Mrs. Savalas. "and for all the family our house was the centre of things. People said it was like the ancient times — the house was filled 24 hours a day with people — artists, musicians, writers, intellectuals."

She denies there is such a thing as a generation gap, and her children seem to agree. She believes that the secret of their special relationship is their openness with each other: "We let our feelings be known. We didn't hide anything. We discussed everything, we shared everything. And in difficult times we shared with our friends."

The Savalas family, too, had its share of difficult times. When Mr. Savalas lost his importing business during the Depression, the house in Garden City was often besieged by bill-collectors. Mrs. Savalas recalls dinner parties where guests dined by candlelight because the electricity had been cut off. Telly, she says, got his first acting experience as a child by telling bill-collectors that his mother was not at home, while she hid in the closet. He threw himself into the part so thoroughly that, from her hiding place, she would often hear him say, "And if you don't believe me, just go look in the closet!"

CHRISTINA SAVALAS, Telly's mother, at her home in Hempstead, N.Y., in front of Woman Braiding Her Hair, a recently completed painting.

The family's fortunes rose again thanks to the unquenchable spirit of Nicholas Savalas. "How can you describe a man like that?" Mrs. Savalas said of her first husband. "He was an educated man, a noble man, but he was not ashamed to grab whatever he could to provide for his children."

With the the assistance of his sons, he began peddling cakes from a truck. Eventually he earned a second fortune, this time in the restaurant business. Mrs. Savalas credits him with an attitude she called rare among Greek husbands: "He always encouraged me to be involved in everything. He was very proud of my activities. Perhaps he knew it was right for me."

Nicholas Savalas died in 1948. Three years later the widow married Leonidas Sarantakos, a restauranteur. "He was a noble, beautiful man," Mrs. Savalas says. "All my children loved and respected him."

While Nicholas Savalas was rebuilding his fortune, his wife was rearing the children, writing poetry and painting. "During the day the children came first. Telling stories to them, playing with them, that had first priority, even if I had to neglect something else. But at night, after I put them to bed, came my life. Many times I would paint all night and be surprised to see the daylight outside." Even now, she says, she sleeps only three or four hours a day.

Her works have been exhibited in California and New York as well as in Libya and India, and the exhibit that was recently opened in Athens by sons Telly and Constantine is now traveling to her native Sparta. Mrs. Savalas herself was too ill to attend the opening.

"This last year has been a very tragic one," she said referring to the recent death of her second husband, as well as the death of a young grandson. Also, she suffered complications of a back injury she got three years ago when she tried to move a carton of books. She fractured several vertebrae, and as a result she must wear a body brace and her height has been reduced by five inches. Nevertheless, she stands hours every day at her easel. Of the pain, she says, "We don't think of it."

ABC Signs Pop Star

The ABC Television Network has signed an exclusive contra with recording superstar Barry Manilow for a one-hour television special to air during the fourth quarter of 1976, it was announced by Edwin T. Vane, Vice-President and National Program Director, ABC Entertainment.

Barry Manilow's signing adds to the list of major recording artists now under contract to ABC, including The Captain and Tennille, John Denver, Bette Midler, Olivia Newton-John, Diana Ross and Lola Falana.
